Man Meets Death When Machine Turns Turtle

S. G. DALE DIES AS CAR CRASHES THROUGH FENCE

MACHINE IS SMASHED INTO KINDLING WOOD

Contractor Pinned Beneath Wreckage—Victim on Way to His Home at Time of Crash.

S. G. Dale, 50-year-old contractor, of 60 Whitney street, Hapeville, met almost instant death Friday night when the touring car he was driving overturned, pinning the helpless victim beneath the heavy frame, slowly crushed the life from his body. He died before witnesses could reach him.

Examination showed a fractured skull and internal injuries. The body was removed to the A. C. Hemperley undertaking establishment and a coroner's inquest will be held today.

Loses Control of Car.

Dale was en route to his home at the time, and it is thought that he temporarily lost control of the machine as he rounded a curve near the Marion Harper Cotton Oil Mills, a mile and a half below East Point.

A negro who saw the fatal mishap stated that the machine acted as if some part of the stearing gear had broken. Halfway around the curve, it careened drunkenly, crashed through a fence along side the road into a field, where it rolled over twice.

The machine was smashed to kindling wood. The top, windshield and fenders were broken, and the radiator was bent by the force with which the front of the car plowed into the ground.

Cause Not Determined.

Police have been unable to determine the cause of the accident, but the result of an examination of the machine will be brought out at the inquest. There is a possibility that the man might have died from natural causes while driving the machine.

In addition to his widow, Mrs. Ruth Dale, he is survived by a son, Woodrow Dale, of Hapeville; three daughters, Mrs. Ben Miller, Mrs. Aline Miller and Mrs. L. R. Kirkpatrick, all of Atlanta; three brothers, J. P., W. A. and J. T. Dale, of Atlanta, and a sister, Mrs. Sadie Sallie Terrell, also of Atlanta.

Funeral arrangements are being held up pending the inquest.

BOOTLEGGER GLAD IT WAS POLICE WHO RAIDED HIM

Denver, Col., February 22.—Fifty gallons of freshly distilled synthetic gin almost cost Mike Delmonico his life here Friday.

Believing five Denver patrolmen to be burglars after his booze, Mike held the "raiders" at bay for two hours, threatening death to anyone who crossed his threshold.

Two officers finally broke through the door and found Mike quivering with fear, hiding behind a box. He smiled broadly when he saw the brass buttons on the blue coats. He was charged with violating the liquor law.

Kiss, If You Must, But Kiss In Private, Not in School

BRUSHING CARESS COSTS SCHOOLMAN HIS JOB

Kansas City, Kans., February 22. A perfectly innocent kiss has cost the job of E. E. Damon, instructor in printing at the high school here.

And the wagging tongues of gossipers have been temporarily halted.

Pretty Margarette Pratt, a senior and the recipient of the stolen kiss, is really quite put out about the matter and had her little say after she learned that Damon had resigned.

"Oh, it's all so silly," she declared. "I was standing in the corridor with several girls. We were teasing everyone that came by. Mr. Damon happened to pass and someone grabbed his pencil and handkerchief.

Then he asked:

"I wonder what I ought to do to you girls for teasing me this way?"

"One of the girls laughingly said: 'Kiss Margarette; you've caught her.' I turned my head swiftly and his lips just brushed my cheek. Why, it wasn't anything to speak about or make all this fuss over."

But M. E. Pearson, superintendent of schools, thought differently. So he called Margarette and her girl friends into his office and the kissing episode was explained to him. Damon's resignation followed.

Miss Pratt came here last July from Lakewood, Ohio. Her father, W. B Pratt, lives in Cleveland.

PLANS LAUNCHED TO GET NATIONAL AUTO SHOW HERE

Exhibit Building To Cover Entire City Block Will Be Provided Not Later Than 1926.

With Atlanta's greatest and most successful motor exhibit coming to a close today, Virgil Shepard, director, announced Friday that plans are now under way to obtain for the city a "national" automobile show each year, beginning not later than 1926.

These plans include erection of an auditorium, which will cover an entire city block, thus giving ample space on the ground floor for all auto exhibitors. It has only been the lack of a building of sufficient size that has prevented Atlanta's automobile shows gaining the coveted "national" designation in the past, said Mr. Shepard, and when this new structure has been erected that handicap will be overcome.

Financing Complete.

What location is being considered for the show building, Mr. Shepard did not disclose, but he stated that plans had progressed so far that financing arrangements had been made and work on the project probably would start in April or May of this year. The building contemplated, he said, would take fifteen or eighteen months to complete, so that it could not be ready for next year's show, but would be ready in ample time for 1926.

The largest attendance ever recorded in a single day at an Atlanta automobile show with the exception of opening one was rolled up Friday, when 12,500 persons passed through the entrance gates, during the afternoon and night.

Up to Friday night a total of 140 cars had been sold off the floor at this year's show, a number far in excess of the sales made at last year's show. The total value of these machines is given as $207,000 and it is considered practically certain that the quarter million mark will be passed before the final closing hour arrives at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Miss Fort Wins.

The large attendance of Friday night was attributed, in some measure, to the beauty contest held, when each exhibitor chose a member of the Junior league as his contestant in a beauty contest at which Miss Martha Fort won the prize, a handsome silver loving cup. Friday night was designated as "society night," and saw a large majority of the

TAX BILL CHANGE PERMITS REVIEW OF TAX RETURNS

Another Amendment Opens Up Corporation Returns for Inspection by State Officials.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, February 22.—The house democratic-republican insurgent coalition wedged another amendment into the revenue bill today, making tax returns subject to inspection by certain congressional committees.

This amendment and another adopted by a one-vote margin, opening corporation tax returns to inspection of state officials regardless of whether the state imposes an income tax, as the law now requires, developed the major controversial issues of the day.

Both amendments drew fire from the republicans, Representative Mills, New York, charging that "this piecemeal destruction of the revenue bill is not only leading to complete distortion of the measure but to destruction of the income tax law itself." He charged the measure was being made an instrument of poiltics, adding that "instead of bringing relief for the taxpayers it is going to harass them."

Interest Not Personal.

Representative Wingo, democrat, Arkansas, in reply, denied that amendments thus far adopted had done more than bring relief to a greater number of taxpayers, and declared he "would rather be charged with political motives than personal interest in framing a revenue bill."

The republican stand served to defeat an amendment offered by Representative Moore, democrat, Virginia, which would have opened personal as well as corporation returns to state officers. It was lost, 122 to 74.

Additional changes in the measure were tentatively agreed upon at a meeting of some members of both

FAILURE FEARED IN STRIKE PARLEY

Peace Terms Must Be Submitted to Strikers Who Are Demanding Full Raise Immediately.

London, February 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—The confidence felt yesterday of an early settlement of the dock strike changed to renewed apprehension today when it was learned that the decision whether to accept the terms which the employers offered had to be referred to the strikers themselves.

The delegate conference sat nearly eight hours today without arriving at an agreement and then decided to adjourn until Monday in order to consult the men. It is hoped the delegates will be able to return from their respective ports Monday with mandates for acceptance, but this is by no means certain as the big meetings held in some ports today showed a determination to exact immediate payment of the full two shillings advance. In view of this there seems to be no hope of resumption of port work before Tuesday and perhaps not then unless moderate counsels prevail.

One favorable sign today was the first meeting of the representatives of the blue union with the employers and it is reported that good progress was made toward the settlement of their dispute. This meeting registers full recognition of the blue union which hitherto has been withheld.

REPUBLICAN LINES RIPPED ASUNDER OVER DAUGHERTY

DEMOCRAT CONDUCT OF WAR UNDER FIRE

G. O. P. Organization Hopes To Offset Teapot Dome by Reviving Old Campaign Accusations.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, February 22.—Sharp lines of cleavage have been drawn in the republican party with Attorney General Daugherty as the issue.

The republican national committee has come to his defense with a statement characterizing those behind the effort to oust him as "political blackguards and scandalmongers." In view of the fact that it was Senator Lodge, majority leader, and Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, who went to President Coolidge and asked for Daugherty's resignation, the national committee's statement created a sensation in the capital.

Daugherty is now defended by the republican committee and by President Coolidge. Coolidge has not yet seen fit to issue a public statement in defense of Daugherty, but friends of the attorney general are hoping that the president will break his silence soon and do what he can to frustrate the senate attack on his cabinet officer.

Chance in Ohio.

Coolidge is likely to do this in connection with the requirement of the Ohio primary law which makes it necessary for the president to sign a "consent slip" specifically approving the Ohio delegates on the Coolidge slate for the republican national convention. Daugherty heads this slate as a delegate-at-large. Coolidge has one week in which to sign the slips. His approval of Daugherty would commit him to the attorney general without equivocation.

Chairman Adams not only defends Daugherty, but also Edwin Denby, who resigned as secretary of the navy this week. Adams declares that Denby has not performed a single act in connection with the oil leases which was either illegal or immoral—much less a betrayal of public trust.

"This is not the time to yield to the threats of those who are conducting this campaign of political terrorism or to the demands of those who are frightened by such methods," Adams said. The old charges against Daugherty, he said, were denounced as untrue by a vote of 20 to 1 when a house committee investigated them a year ago during attempted impeachment proceedings.

"The new charges now being made

Schools To Need $1,108,000 More Money This Year

New Girls' High and Fall Term to Call for 30-Cent Tax Raise.

An increase of 30 cents in the city tax rate this year to provide $1,108,000 additional school revenue will be necessary to build Girls' High school and keep the schools open through the fall term with their present curriculum, it became apparent at the special meeting Friday of the board of education and a committee appointed from the aldermanic board to consider ways and means for building the girls' school this year.

The board authorized a special committee to draw up a new school budget which will provide for keeping the system in operation until present funds are exhausted, probably August 1, according to estimates by W. W. Gaines and John T. Hancock, former and present presidents of the school board. President Hancock appointed Rev. H. J. Penn, W. W. Gaines and W. C. Slate as the committee.

$1,108,000 Needed.

This new budget will make provision for completion of Girls' High school at a cost of $365,000 and for meeting the 1923 deficit of $337,000. The cost of operating the schools on

McDowell Linked To Thaw

:: PASTOR SAYS COMPARISON SHOWS UP TYPE ::

Form Pair of Crazy Knaves

BY HARLAN S. MILLER.

Chicago, February 22.—Frank McDowell, clever beyond his years, merely used religion as a pretext for burning his sisters and shooting his parents, in the opinion of Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, noted Presbyterian theologian.

McAfee, with other noted Chicago divines, deplored efforts by McDowell and others to blame his dementia and religious fanaticism on the fact that he was taught at twelve that blaspheming the Holy Ghost is an unforgivable sin.

McDowell's smooth imposture as a senior student at George Washington university, with forged credentials, convinces Dr. McAfee that McDowell's crime was not due to the religious teaching, but that he seized upon this as an explanation, in a shrewd play for sympathy.

"In any event, he is doubtless both criminal and crazy," asserted McAfee, who is professor of theology at McCormick seminary, and an authority on the psychology of religion.

"There were 20 other students of ten and twelve years in the class where McDowell heard the doctrine of the Holy Ghost expounded. It did not seem to unbalance them. Possibly this doctrine, which really has nothing to do wtih blasphemy, but refers to a will determined against God and virtue, is a trifle complex for small children, but most youngsters who do not understand it, if they are normal, wait until they do before they let it worry them."

McDowell is simply another of the Harry K. Thaw type, declared the Rev. R. Keene Ryan, pastor of the Boulevard Methodist Episcopal church.

"If churches or Sunday schools contributed to such murders as this, then every such institution ought to be closed," said Dr. Ryan. "But this McDowell boy is just a poor human derelict with a diseased and disordered mind. He imagined he heard the voice of God."

"From a prophylactic viewpoint, religion cures crime. It does not stimulate it. John L. Whiteman, greatest criminologist in this country, is anxious to have prisoners at Joliet attend religious services, for he says religion is the only antidote for crime."

Dr. John Timothy Stone, well known Presbyterian minister, failed to see how the Holy Ghost teaching could upset the mind of a normal boy of twelve.

OIL COMMITTEE TO GRILL SLEMP ON M'LEAN TALKS

Secretary to President Visited Palm Beach When Fall and Publisher Were There.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, February 22.—C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, will be called as a witness in the oil inquiry, probably next Monday.

This was made known today by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, who has taken the lead in pressing the investigation, after he had returned unexpectedly to Washington from a vacation at Pinehurst, N. C.

Mr. Slemp visited Palm Beach last December at the time Former Secretary Fall and Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, were there and he probably will be asked if he talked with them about the oil scandal.

Other members of the committee who concur in the decision to call the president's secretary, said he might be questioned also as to whether he had talked with government officials or others mentioned in the oil cases since the beginning of the sensational disclosures which followed the testimony of Archie Roosevelt on January 22.

Slemp Not Surprised.

Apparently the news that he would be called came as no surprise to Mr. Slemp. It was understood that he had been advised several days ago that some members of the committee were of the opinion that he should be questioned.

Upon learning of Senator Walsh's statement, Mr. Slemp communicated with friends at the capitol and was told that no formal subpoena for his appearance had been issued. None may be, as in the usual course high government officials simply are invited to appear before congressional committees.

Decision to call Mr. Slemp was only one development which came out of hurried conferences which Senator Walsh held with committeemen and his colleague, Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, immediately upon reaching his office.

$100 INHERITANCE SAVES MAN'S BODY FROM DISSECTION

Kansas City, Mo., February 22.—The body of John W. Fahrney, found in a shack here February 14, escaped the dissecting table of a medical school because a letter was found which told of him inheriting $100.

The missive said a five years' search for the aged man had been made and mentioned his small inheritance left by a brother. Negroes who had befriended Fahrney brought the letter to the undertaking parlors where his body was being held, pending shipment to a school.

Fahrney was buried in the Forrest Hill cemetery Friday.

McAdoo Workers Form Great Club To Sweep Fulton

Walter Hendrix Elected President at Enthusiastic Meeting Friday Night.

Plans to place Fulton county in the ranks of William G. McAdoo, candidate for the democratic nomination for president, were launched Friday night at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting in the Kimball house breakfast room. Walter C. Hendrix, prominent Atlanta lawyer, was elected president of the McAdoo club, and Mrs. W. F. Trenary, well known in church and club work, was elected secretary. Mr. Hendrix was directed to appoint an executive committee of 500 men and women and an advisory committee consisting of a member from each city ward and county militia district.

The club was started with an initial enrollment of several thousand voters who have signed pledges to support Mr. McAdoo and mailed them to headquarters. This initial enrollment, Mr. Hendrix predicted, will be rapidly increased until the Fulton county McAdoo club has been made the largest club in the state and one of the banner organizations of the country.

Hollins N. Randolph, in response to several requests, gave an account of the McAdoo national conference held in Chicago last Monday.

"There were more than 400 men and women at the conference representing every state in the union," he said. "It was the most enthusiastic meeting I ever saw. In all my experience I have never seen such a body of crusaders assembled from every part of the country. There was not a syllable of opinion that Mr. McAdoo should relinquish his leadership. On the contrary, there was a

Thieves Plunder Jewelry Store As Crowds Pass

Robbers Disguise as Draymen, Hiding One of Their Gang in Box.

Berlin, February 22.—Clever thieves succeeded in robbing a jewelry store in a crowded Berlin street today of about $20,000 worth of loot.

Just at the noon hour when the proprietor and his clerks locked up and departed for luncheon, a dray drew up and two men unloaded a large box which they placed against the shop door. They informed inquirers they were waiting for the proprietor's return to collect cartage. In about half an hour, saying they could wait no longer, they reloaded the box and drove away.

When the proprietor returned he discovered the loss of practically all the stock available. Investigation disclosed that one man had been hidden in the box and working through a trick door had cut out the panel of the shop door, helped himself to diamonds and jewelry, crawled back into his case, reset the shop door panel with sticking plaster and was carted away by his confederates.

DEKALB OFFICERS PREPARING CASE AGAINST SLAYER

Legal Stage Being Set for Use in Event McDowell Escapes Florida Net. Parents Laid to Rest.

OFFICERS SUSPECT REGRET IS SHAM

Lad Was Found Crying And Seemed Deeply Affected When Sisters Were Burned.

While Mr. and Mrs. John McDowell, shot to death in their St. Petersburg, Fla., home by Frank McDowell, their only son, were being tenderly laid to final rest in the cemetery at Acworth, officials of Decatur, where the slayer, one year ago, burned his two sisters to death in their bed, worked hard on compiling evidence for use in event he is ever brought back to Georgia to stand trial for the first crime.

DeKalb county officials Friday expressed doubt that McDowell is "as crazy as he pretends to be." They believe that at least a part of his conduct is mere pretense, a sham in an effort to save his neck.

May Have Been Sham.

The sheriff and other DeKalb county officials based their assertions on this point on McDowell's attitude during their cross-examination of him after the fire in the home in Decatur one year ago, in which his two sisters perished. Robert Ramspeck, solicitor of the county, who was the first to speak to young McDowell after the fire, said that the boy was crying and seemed deeply affected by the tragedy. "This," said Mr. Ramspeck, "may have been a sham, however."

This theory coincides in a large degree with reports from Florida, which quote the sheriff and other officials who are investigating the McDowell murders there, as attributing a desire to secure insurance money, on his parents' lives, as the real motive for Frank McDowell's horrible deed. It is pointed out that, as the sole heir, under several policies carried by his father and other properties, Frank McDowell would have profited to the extent of about $17,000 and it is suggested that the desire for money to spend on journeys to New York and world capitals—often expressed by the boy—was the real idea in his mor-

M'ADOO DEMANDS HEADS OF GUILTY

Officials Involved in Teapot Dome Scandal Must Be Punished Without Partiality, He Says.

Los Angeles, February 22.—William G. McAdoo, candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, returned home late today after testifying in the oil lease investigation at Washington, breathing a demand that "the guilty must be brought to punishment."

"The shocking revelations at Washington of betrayal of public interest must give profound concern to every lover of our institutions and to every patriotic American regardless of party," he said.

"These transactions must be probed to the bottom and the guilty brought to punishment. This is not a question of party politics; it involves the life of the nation.

"The duty of the government is no less to punish those who are guilty than to protect those who are innocent. No attempt to divert attention from the guilty should be permitted.

"When men in high place, those to whom the nation has the right to look with confidence and respect, betray their trust and prostitute their power, a danger to democratic institutions infinitely greater than bolshevism or any other ism confronts us. The subtle poison of corruption ultimately will do its deadly work.

"All good citizens, therefore, must unite to drive corruption out of the government, to elevate the standards of public morality and to restore the government upon the high conception that public office is a public trust."

BEREAVED FATHER WOULD NOT SPEAK OF GRIM TRAGEDY

Slayer's Latest Confession Corroborates Constitution Story Parents Probably Suspected Son.

BLAMES FOUR KILLINGS ON "BRAIN STORMING"

Florida Alienist Calls Boy Insane—Slayer Said To Have Confessed First Crime to Girl.

St. Petersburg, Fla., February 22. "Brain storming," a type of insanity first brought before the public nearly two decades ago during the Harry K. Thaw trial in New York, was prominently mentioned today by Frank McDowell, confessed slayer of four members of his family, in a 500-word confession signed by him in the presence of newspapermen today.

The youth, who is not yet out of his 'teens, said that he did not know exactly what influenced him to do and act the way he did in connection with the deaths of his family, but that he had a "brain storm" and nervous disorder during the days just preceding the slaying of his mother and father last Tuesday night while they lay sleeping in their home here.

"I would like to make a statement to clear up this whole thing," he said. "It is becoming horrible to me. I wish I could tell everything. Then I would be ready to die. I wish they would put me in the electric chair and end it all. I hate to think of staying here until May."

Tells of His Youth.

"Could you tell me something about your youth?" he was asked.

"I guess that would be a good place to begin this story," McDowell replied, and then began to make up the cot upon which he had spent the night. Meanwhile a box and typewriter were brought into the cell.

The prisoner lay down for a moment upon his bunk after arranging it. He appeared exhausted.

"Can you write out what you have to say?" he was asked as a sheet of paper was inserted into the typewriter.

Too Nervous To Write.

"No, no, I could never do it," he said. "I am too nervous. There are many things in my mind. If you can just ask me something or suggest something to me in connection with my life I can answer. Then you can write down what I answer."

Innumerable questions were then asked the youth. Many of them suggested nothing to him. Others brought forth replies. Getting his full statement took over two hours of tedious cross-examination. His mind wearied from time to time and it was necessary for him to lie down and rest.

Once the lad arose from his bed, turned from his questioner and calling for a broom refused to answer another question until he had swept out his cell. Having completed the task he returned to the matter of finishing his statement, apparently refreshed.

Father Found Him in Hall.

"My father never talked about the death of my sisters," he said as he related of their burning to death, "I

The Label Contest

A Word to the Public About How This Big Contest is Handled—Who Can Enter and Who is Represented in It.

Well, Managers, I'm going to talk to the public a little this morning, with a word or two of instruction and advice to you fellows.

My main theme is going to be about the big label contest for $12,000 in prizes. You fellows know, of course, this is not a Rogers' contest. Bless you, no. And we want the public to know it. There's lots of good folks in it besides us. But we are expecting to get our share of results—with your co-operation.

We want you store managers to talk this contest to your customers. Explain to the ladies (as they are the ones who are going to do most of the work on it) that any organization—social, fraternal, charitable, church, and the like—can enter. It doesn't cost a cent to enter. The first prize is $1,500 in cash, then follow a number of fine prizes like pianos, etc., for second and third, and on down the line, finishing with more than 50 prizes of $100 each in cash.

All the organizations have to do is to line up their members and get them busy on saving the labels, cartons, wrappers, receipts, etc., from their purchases on various things entered in the contest. And included in the contest are groceries and household articles from practically every groceryman in town, real estate and insurance from the Rogers Realty and Trust Co., Pura drinking water, Chero Cola, Woco-Pep oils and gas, tires and accessories from Withers & Chapman, Hav-a-Tampa cigars, dry cleaning from Coppedge, musical things from Phillips & Crew, coal and building material from Randall Bros., printing from Byrd's, and savings deposit slips from the Georgia Savings bank. We think we have mentioned them all—certainly intended to.

We are not interested in the sale of many of these things mentioned above, but we don't mind giving them a little space in our advertisements so that the public may be fully informed about them, and to let organizations know that almost everything their members need to buy they can get coupons or sales slips or wrappers, or something which will count for votes—if they buy the right thing at the right place.

With very few exceptions the amount of votes is ten for every one cent spent in the purchase of the article.

The Rogers' stores are the ONLY STORES at which any one can buy the following things which count in the voting—and the number of votes specified here will remain fixed at this amount throughout the contest, even though prices should go up or down.

FLOUR—Any of our brands of flour—White Lily, No. 37, LaRosa or Sure-Nuff—on any 24-pound sack, 1,300 votes; on any 12-pound sack, 650 votes. Vote the empty sacks.

A. B. C. BUTTER—The best on the market—the only butter that counts—600 votes for one-pound carton, though the price today is only 57c pound.

EGGS—Eggs to count in the contest must come from Rogers. Our Quality eggs are the best they can buy—so that suits everybody. The carton that holds a dozen must be saved and turned in. A fixed vote of 450 is allowed, though we are asking only 33c dozen just now. If the price should be 30c or 50c before the contest is over the votes would remain the same—450. If carton is returned in good condition double votes will be allowed.

BREAD—Everybody knows we bake the best bread money can buy. We have three loaves—our 13-ounce 5c loaf, our 16-ounce 7c loaf, and our whole wheat 7c loaf. A flat vote of 100 has been fixed for any one of these wrappers.

OLEOMARGARINE—Our regular price on Purity Nut is 32c, and 320 votes is—and will be—always allowed for the carton, though we frequently sell at less price than this.

EVAPORATED MILK—There's no better milk than St. Charles. The labels from the small 6c can count 60 votes, the labels from the large 16-ounce can, which sells for 12 1-2c, count 125 votes.

CANNED VEGETABLES—Here is where we have a varied assortment. No canned vegetables of any kind from any store except Rogers count in the voting. As stated, it's ten votes for every one cent represented in a purchase, as the prices are fixed now. On all labels, such as Rogers' corn, tomatoes, kraut, etc., where the word "Rogers" occurs, only the label is necessary to turn in. On all other canned vegetables, such as pimentos, asparagus tips, etc., not packed under a Rogers label, you store managers will give purchaser (if she requests it) a sales slip, with your name and date, showing number of cans purchased and amount paid, and this MUST be pinned to the labels from such cans before being turned in.

Now, isn't all that very clear, fair and easy?

Manager W. O. Morse, College Park: We want Mrs. F. M. Eargle of 532 N. Main Street, College Park, to try a can of our delicious Del Monte fruit salad. If she comes into your store today or Monday present her with a 2½ can with our compliments.

Manager S. C. Langley, 1020 Highland Avenue: We believe Mrs. Robert Hugh Rusk, of 87 Hudson Drive, would appreciate a 2½ can of our excellent Royal Anne cherries. We would like to have her try them, anyway. Give her a can with our compliments, if she visits your store today or Monday.

Now to get back to the contest. Wouldn't it be a nice thing for some one who wants a good building lot, or a home, or some insurance, to buy it through the Rogers Realty and Trust Company, so that the hundreds or thousands of dollars so invested would secure a great stack of votes in the contest? We'll say it would. Lots of organizations would like these big votes. Ten votes for every cent in the deal, remember.

And we don't mind at all saying that what is true regarding canned vegetables from Rogers is equally true regarding canned fruits distributed by the H. L. Singer Co. Only the Gold and Silver Bar lines can be voted. These are sold generally throughout the grocery stores of Atlanta, and if we were writing an ad. for Singer we would go on and tell you how good they were—but we're not. The Singer Company has also entered through the many stores it serves such things as macaroni, bottled cherries, mayonnaise, jellies, and a few other items mentioned in the big ad. of the National Sales Promotion Co. last Sunday and to be repeated tomorrow.

And we don't mind saying, too, that the coffee privilege in this contest is controlled by the A. & P., so in this particular column and at this particular time maybe it wouldn't be good taste to say anything about how good our coffees are—though nearly everybody knows that.

Finally, as a matter of information, here are many things entered by the manufacturers or jobbers which are sold throughout the city generally in all grocery stores. Bucket lids, wrappers, labels, etc., must be voted. There's a fixed amount of votes—ten for every one cent—in practically every case, usually based on the highest selling price. And so it will happen throughout this contest that on many purchases of these things several cents will be saved at Rogers', as we sell them all, and yet the top-notch of votes will be allowed the purchaser.

Some of these main sellers are—

Snowdrift, Wesson oil, Bonita syrup, Stone's cakes, Block's crackers, Calumet baking powder, Ruby extract, Tuno peanut butter, Evershine polishes, S. O. S., Colgate's Fab, soap and powders—and then there's other things, Wrigley's chewing gum, for instance, which we sell for 3 1-2c, and old newspapers, which we don't sell, etc. But read the big ad. in Sunday's Constitution. Voting starts next week, so we are informed.

So, now, fellows, and the public, let's play "Carton, carton—who's got the wrapper?"—and everybody get a prize.

Yours for votes,
PRESS HUDDLESTON,
Advertising Manager.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO.

Washington Was Believer In Personal Responsibility

Washington, February 22.—President Coolidge, in a radio address delivered tonight from the white house, combined with a tribute to Washington an appeal to the American people to accept the responsibilities and continue the sacrifices necessary to make enduring the institutions which Washington founded.

Mr. Coolidge described the part played by Washington in the founding of the American government and declared he accomplished the results "by accepting great responsibilities and making great sacrifices."

"If we are to maintain the institutions which he founded, if we are to improve what he created, we must be like-minded with him, we must continue to accept responsibilities, we must continue to make sacrifices," the president said. "Under all the laws of God and man there is no other way."

The address was delivered by the president in his study in the white house, and was made by invitation of the International Rotary clubs, members of which recently asked that the president deliver an address today in anniversary of the founding of Rotarianism.

Gains in Significance.

"Each year the birthday of George Washington gains wider acceptance as being of more national significance," Mr. Coolidge said. "In far-off lands people are observing this day by taking thought of the qualities that gave Washington this foremost place among the truly great. They are drawn to this man by his calm and clear judgment, by his abounding courage, and by his unselfish devotion. Beyond that which was ever accorded to any other mortal, he holds rank as a soldier, a statesman and a patriot. Others may have excelled him in some of these qualities, but no one ever excelled him in this three-fold greatness. Yet Washington, the man, seems to stand above them all. . . . We can best estimate him by not identifying him with some high place, but by thinking of him as one of ourselves. When all detailed description fails, it is enough to say he was a great man. He had a supreme endowment of character.

Man and Nation Linked.

"No one can think of America without thinking of Washington. When we look back over the course of history before his day, it seems as though it had all been a preparation for him and his time. When we consider events since then, we can see a steady growth and development of the ideals which he represented and the institutions which he founded, worldwide in extent. The principles which he fought to establish have become axioms of civilization. It might also be said that the progress which peoples have made is measured by the degree with which they have accepted the great policies which he represented.

"It is not possible to compress a great life into a single sentence. We look upon Washington as the exponent of the rights of man. We think of him as having established the independence of America. We associate his name with liberty and freedom. We say that he was a great influence in the adoption of the constitution of the United States. All these are centered around the principle of self-government.

Rights Not Simple.

"But when we examine the meaning of independence, of constitutional liberty and of self-government, we do not find that they are simple rights which society can bestow upon us. They are very complex. They have to be earned. They have to be paid for. They arise only from the discharge of our obligations one to another.

"Washington did not, could not, give anything to his countrymen. His greatness lies in the fact that he was successful in calling them to the performance of a higher duty. He showed them how to have a greater liberty by earning it. All that any society can do, all that any government can do, is to attempt to guarantee to the individual the social, economic and political rewards of his own effort and industry. The America which Washington founded does not mean we shall have everything done for us, but that we shall have every opportunity to do everything for ourselves. This is liberty, but it is liberty only through the acceptance of responsibility.

"It cannot fail to be worth while to recall some of the activities of Washington and the men of his day . . . before we complain to much about our hardships in these luxurious days, before we lose faith in the power of the people by relying on themselves best to serve themselves, it is well to consider the early beginnings of this republic.

Faults Not Purged.

"Self-government does not purge us of all our faults, but there are very few students of the affairs of mankind who would deny that the theory upon which our institutions proceed gives the best results that have ever been given to any people. When there is a failure, it is not because the system has failed, but because we have failed. For the purpose of insuring liberty, for enactment of sound legislation, for the administration of even-handed justice, for the faithful execution of the laws, no institutions have ever given greater promise or more worthy performance than whose which are represented by the name of Washington.

"We have changed our constitution and laws to meet changing conditions and a better appreciation of the broad requirements of humanity, we have extended and increased the direct power of the voter. But the central idea of self-government remains unchanged. While we realize that freedom and independence of the individual mean increased repsonsibility for the individual, while we know that the people do and must support the government, and that the government does not and can not support the people, yet the protection of the individual from the power now represented by organized members and consolidated wealth requires many activities on the part of the government which were not needed in the days of Washington.

To Save Independence.

"Many laws are necessary for this purpose, both in the name of justice and of humanity. Efforts in this direction are not for the purpose of undermining the independence of the individual, but for the purpose of maintaining for him an equal opportunity. They are made on the theory that each individual is entitled to live his own life in his own way, free from every kind of tyranny and oppression.

"We have not yet reached the goal of Washington's ideals. They are not fully understood. He was a practical man. He suffered from no delusions. He knew that there was no power to establish a system under which existence would be supported without effort. Those who now expect anything in that direction are certain to be disappointed. He held out no promise of unearned rewards, either in small or large amounts. On the other hand, if no one ought to receive gain except for service rendered, no one ought to be required to render service except for reasonable compensation. Equality and justice both require that there should be no profiteering and no exploitation. Under the constitution of the United States there is neither any peasantry nor any order of nobility. Politically, economically and socially, service and character are to reign, and service and character alone.

"Such is the meaning of the life of George Washington, who came into being nearly 200 years ago. He left the world stronger and better. He made life broader and sweeter."

Legitimate theaters alone in New York represent a total investment of $40,000,000 and between $600,000 and $700,000 is spent each week in admissions to them.

$56,758,513 IS TOTAL OF FARM MONEY BILL

Washington, February 22.—A total of $56,758,513, of which $17,700,000 would be available for improvement of highways during the coming fiscal year is carried in the annual agricultural bill reported today by the house appropriations committee.

The total is $16,082,940 less than the appropriation a year ago, when $32,300,000 was allotted for state aid road construction and is $471,312 less than budget estimates.

For the enforcement of special laws by the department of agriculture the bill carries $2,627,000, the items including: Packers and stock yards act $452,540; grain futures act $104,460; plant quarantine act $324,426; insecticide act $140,575; grain standards act $500,000; warehouse act $163,000; cotton futures and cotton standards acts $185,000; food and drug act $716,000.

An additional $1,071,150 is provided for meat inspection, $308,000 for market inspection of perishable food and $682,480 for the department's news service of fruits and vegetables.

An appropriation of $20,000 in authorized to enable the weather bureau to give warnings throughout the country to fruit growers as to frost and advice on harvest weather and fruit spraying conditions.

The bill carries $3,277,600 for eradication of tuberculosis among cattle, the major portion of it to be spent in indemnities; $660,000 for eradicating cattle tick; $184,000 for eradicating hog cholera, $328,480 for blister rust control; $411,315 for barberry eradication $572,360, for preventing the spread of moths and $216,350 for preventing the spread of the European corn borer.

Provision is made for appointment of delegates to the international seed testing conference to be held in England during 1924.

The committee's report in dealing with expenditure of federal funds for highway improvement brought out that since 1917 federal appropriations to the amount of $392,817,600 have been made available to the states of which $284,380,339 had been paid to the states prior to January 1 last. Estimating that expenditures are being made during this fiscal year at the rate of $6,000,000 a month, the committee went on the theory that $72,437,160 would be available July 1 for expenditure in the coming fiscal year in addition to the $17,700,000 carried in the bill.

The bill carries $381,910 for the eradication of the pink boll worm, $29,490 less than was appropriated last year. An appropriation of $206,920 or $41,920 more than last year, was recommended for combating southern field crop insects and $124,740 for dealing with cotton and truck diseases.

The department of agriculture, the appropriation's committee was informed, intends during the coming fiscal year to spend $8,860 of the total appropriated for pink boll worm eradication for work in cooperation with Mexico, and $5,000 for investigation in Mexico and elsewhere of the pest as a basis for control measures. The bulk of the appropriation would be expended in conducting surveys and inspections, chiefly in Texas.

No Acreage Report.

On motion of Representative Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina, the appropriations committee, approved the following limitation to the bill:

"Provided further that no part of the funds herein appropriated shall be available for any expense incident to ascertaining, collecting or publishing a report stating the intention of farmers as to the acreage to be planted in cotton."

Mr. Byrnes later said that the secretary of agriculture had given assurance that such a report would not be issued this year. The limitation approved by the committee today would prevent issuance of such reports during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

LOUIS HILL RESIGNS FROM C., B. & Q. BOARD

New York, February 22.—Louis W. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern railway, has retired as a member of the board of directors and executive committee of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company, and has been succeeded by Vice President Charles O. Jenks of the Great Northern.

The cause of Mr. Hill's resignation was not announced at the meeting of the directors yesterday, but it was said his health was not such as to justify the continued shouldering of all his railroad responsibilities.

The resignation of Mr. Hill caused the revival of reports in Wall street of a consolidation of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Burlington railroads.

Fight on Census Of Cotton Brings 100-Point Hike

Washington, February 22.—(Special.)—The activity of southern senators in pressing the census bureau for explanations about their estimates of cotton carried over caused a rise in the market of nearly 100 points, it is conceded here. Senators Harris and George participated in the several conferences with southern senators.

Senator Harris, who served as director of census at one time, explained Friday the bureau gathered figures on cotton on hand in two ways, and the procedure in past few years has caused a large group of cotton to be counted which is not in existence because of being counted twice. While Senator Harris was director he changed the classification so that linters were not counted as cotton. He said the bureau had the totals of the amount of cotton on hand August 31 of each year, and as each ginning report was made added the figures of the current crop ginned to the carry-over.

Another set of figures was secured through the estimates of mills and warehouses of amounts of cotton on hand, and it is charged that in the case of mills much cotton was included which actually was not in possession of the mills, but en route or in warehouses at other points, all of which was counted by both parties, thereby causing a duplication. The latter figures, according to Senator Harris, had reached a half million bales more than the figures shown by adding the carry-over and the ginning totals, and the southern senators started the fight which has caused the elimination of the half million bales by the census bureau.

NEW EMORY OWLS CONDUCT SEARCH FOR HONEST MAN

Emory University, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The Owls club of Emory university made its annual selection of six men from the junior class to be initiated today. The new owls are H. B Scott, Charles Hurt, Ray Edmundson, Frank Rowsey, Milam Reeves and William Peterson.

The club, founded in 1903 while the college was at Oxford, is an honorary organization, whose members are selected from the junior class of the school of liberal arts.

BEREAVED FATHER WOULD NOT SPEAK

think maybe it was because he found me in the hall as I escaped from their room after applying a torch or embers to the gasoline. Mother did talk of the tragedy frequently, but it was so depressing to her that as much as possible she devoted her attention to work that would take her mind away from what had happened."

At this time a photographer came to get a picture of him. He readily consented and momentarily became the same brisk, nonchalant youth that he had been since the morning after his last crime.

"You had better take another picture," he said, after the first one had been snapped. "I think I moved my head. If I did the picture is ruined. I want it to be good."

After his statement was completed his questions carried him to his once favorite topic—religion.

"What is it you really believe or believe in?" he was asked.

Dual Personalities.

"Well, I guess that for about five years I have been an agnostic, but these dual personalities in me work queer tricks. When I have control of myself, I am above religion, I'm an atheist, but when my subconscious nature is in control of me I believe in Christ and a living God. My subconscious self seems to command something that my conscious mind is powerless to ignore and my body obeys.

"Just before my crimes, I am Christian, then I become horrified at the enormity of my sins and return to my atheism."

YOUTH ADVANCES THEORY OF JEKYLL AND HYDE.

Clearwater, Fla., February 22.—While officers watching Frank McDowell, 19, confessed slayer of his mother, father and two sisters, asserted their belief that the youth was simulating insanity in an effort to escape the consequences of his crimes, McDowell advanced the theory of a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" personality, as the basis for the murders.

Asserting his remorse, he declared he had "never planned any killings at all."

"Can't you understand," he cried, "that I, my conscious self, did not do the killing? I was under the control of something else, my subconscious mind dominated. When I realized what I had done, I was horrified for no boy ever had a better father and mother and sisters than I had, and I loved them as any boy should."

Examined by Alienist.

McDowell sank exhausted to his cot in his cell in the Pinellas county jail tonight, weary from many hours of answering questions and the strain of an examination made by Dr. H. Mason Smith, former superintendent of the Florida insane asylum at Chattahoochee. McDowell, who has cheerfully answered all questions asked him, said, following his examination, that he was exhausted and did not care to talk any more.

He attempted today to "recall the origin of the hallucinations" which he said caused him to kill his father, mother and sisters, but was unsuccessful.

FRANK M'DOWELL INSANE, DECLARES NOTED ALIENIST.

Tampa, Fla., February 22.—Belief that Frank McDowell, self-confessed murderer of his parents at St. Petersburg and, a year ago, his two sisters at Decatur, Ga., is insane was expressed here this afternoon by Dr. H. Mason Smith, noted alienist and psychiatrist. Dr. Smith, retained by the Tampa Morning Tribune to examine McDowell, visited McDowell in his cell at the Pinellas county jail at Clearwater, and questioned him for more than an hour. He also made a brief physical examination of the boy.

"McDowell is undoubtedly insane," Dr. Smith said in a statement for the Tribune. "His condition reveals a combination of evidences of several forms of insanity. His case is unusual. It will require a detailed examination and a thorough investigation of his physical and family history to definitely determine the extent of his insanity, however."

SAY M'DOWELL TOLD GIRL ABOUT BURNING SISTERS.

Camilla, Ga., February 22.—Frank McDowell, who confessed at St. Petersburg, Fla., to killing his father and mother, confessed to a Camilla high-school girl last summer that he had burned his two sisters to death at Decatur last year, according to a statement made by the young woman here today. The young man spent a part of the summer here with relatives. While it was known that his two sisters had been mysteriously burned, his statement was not at that time taken seriously by the young woman to whom he is said to have made it.

Miss Aurora Acree, the young girl to whom McDowell is said to have confessed the burning of his sisters, said she did not pay any attention to it until she read about his trouble in Florida. During his visit here, young McDowell is said to have acted as any normal young man would have acted, with the exception of the casual remark said to have been made to Miss Acree: "I am the one who burned my two sisters to death at Decatur."

WORK ON THEORY, BOY KILLED FOR MONEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla., February 22. Chief of Police George M. Coslick and Detective John Trotter today are working on the theory that Frank McDowell, confessed slayer of his parents, committed the deed to secure some $17,000 that would come to him in case of the death of his father and mother, he being their sole heir since the killing by him of his two sisters in Decatur, Ga., a year ago.

Today the concensus of the opinions of police, neighbors, friends and in one case a relative is that the boy wanted money, and he was so self-centered that he would have stooped to any crime to satisfy his desires. And as the strong chain of evidence, which is hourly tightening about the youth, is forged, each new link makes it more apparent that the boy's motive was to secure funds with which he could live in New York city and visit world capitals.

In Need of Money.

Two weeks before the crime was committed according to W. J. Kelly, an intimate acquaintance of young McDowell, the boy said that he needed money for what he wanted to do. Kelly, an older man who had been asked by Mrs. McDowell to keep an eye on her son, warned him that the only way to get money was honestly and the youth replied that he didn't think that it was fair that some people should have the greater part of the money.

Kelly also stated today that on many occasions Frank had endeavored to persuade him to accompany him on a proposed trip to New York and Paris, and there were many times that the youth had complained about his lack of funds and talked enthusiastically of what he would do if he ever acquired enough money.

According to Kelly, young McDowell had repeatedly told him that his idea of a perfect life would be to live along the bright lights of Broadway.

It was also learned today that an aunt by marriage, of young McDowell, had stated yesterday that she had never known a boy who was so self-centered or who had such a great desire for money and the power which accompanies wealth.

"More Lazy Than Crazy."

R. G. Payne, for whom young McDowell worked for a short time as an insurance agent, summed up his idea of the boy's character in two short, concise sentences. He said:

"That boy was more lazy than crazy. He would rather have been killed than work."

Police have discovered that the boy would have benefited financially if his first story of the crime had been accepted. There was insurance on his father, long term notes that were due as the proceeds of the sale of the newspaper the McDowells formerly owned in Georgia; there was a payment due on a grocery store which the older McDowell had owned in St. Petersburg and had been sold, and there was the home which the family was planning to sell, and which would have shown a profit of approximately $3,000.

In all had the boy been declared innocent he would have received approximately $17,000, if not more, as police have not been able to learn whether or not the father had other insurance than that which he took out on January 28. And it is thought that the sum which the boy as the only heir would have received seemed so great that the boy, hungry for the pleasures of Broadway and a thirst for the knowledge that travel could bring, was willing to do anything to bring what seemed like a fortune into his hands.

Had Marked Next Victim.

Further proof that Mary Birdsey, beautiful Dana Hall graduate, was marked as the next victim of Frank McDowell is furnished by the police. Frank McDowell told the police Wednesday that he had planned to remove another person by death from his path.

At the Clearwater jail Thursday he stated that the prayer he wrote at least 36 hours before the murder referred to death by fire, by blood and by water. When he was asked "who did you kill by water?" he answered, "Oh, that is to come. I am to kill my counterpart, a person who is my own age, some one for whom I have a great love."

When he gave Mary Birdsey's name as the person he loved more than any one else in the world he added, "she lives at Forsyth, Ga. No, the town is not on the edge of the water, but there are several small bathing ponds in the town. I was planning to go back there this summer."

That he told the same story to the police on the day previous is shown by Officer John Trotter's statement. Trotter said, "Frank McDowell gave a full detailed confession of his crime. He was not forced to talk. He told me that if he had not been caught he would kill another person next year at the same time. He did not intimate that the person was himself. It was some one he wished to remove from his path. He talked as if his mother, father, sisters and some one else were drawbacks to his progress."

FRANK SAYS HE TRIED TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

Clearwater, Fla., February 22.—Frank McDowell said today at noon that he tried to commit suicide by getting on a railroad track at Decatur, Ga., but that his heart failed him and he jumped out of the way of the approaching train. He said some of the railroad men at Decatur may recall this incident. This was about three years ago, before he burned his sisters.

Frank said he did not like to complain about the jail in Clearwater, but that it is not a nice place to be and has a depressing effect on him. He said the beds are not comfortable, though he had plenty to eat. He asked if he could be let out on bond, saying he needed fresh air and sunshine. He urged that no time be wasted in appointing a sanity commission and a decision being made regarding his disposal. "If I have to stay here until May when circuit court convenes, I will go crazy," declared the boy as his face wrinkled with apparent pain and he sat on the side of his steel cot and held his head in his hands.

Asks More Clothing.

McDowell also asked that his clothing he brought from St. Petersburg that he may be clean. The sheriff promised to get the clothing if possible. Referring to the statement in morning papers, which he said he had been told of though he had not read, McDowell said the accusation of him having said he intended to kill Mary Birdsey next year was not true and he does not want to see the woman reporter from St. Petersburg who so quoted him again. His reference to drowning meant that he intended to drown himself. McDowell said he was "just crazy about H. G. Wells' writings" and had read a great deal of them, that Wells' philosophy paralleled his own exactly.

A telephone message to the sheriff's office from Tampa asked if some friends of McDowell from Decatur, Ga., could see him if they came over. Permission was granted them. When McDowell was told this he brightened up and seemed pleased.

Negro on Guard.

Frank is confined in the final tier of a series of tiers of cells. Three doors—always locked, and only one unlocked at one time when he is admitted—are between him and the exit from the jail. There is one guard, a negro turnkey.

The negro said that Frank ate hearty meals and was meticulous in his table manners. Frank always appeared lost in thought, but never too much so to discuss his crimes with anyone who called. He was willing to give every detail, although first demurring slightly and asking if it was necessary.

A young woman photographer took two photographs of Frank this morning. He was permitted to leave the block of cells and step into the corner. As he posed, the bright rays of Florida sunshine filtered in through the window and silhouetted the bars on his face.

The photographs were time exposures, requiring several seconds to complete. Frank was very careful not to move while the shutter was open. He asked to have one photograph retaken because he heard he had moved slightly.

Frank made his own bed after he had arisen. He carefully performed his toilet, combing back his curly hair and smoothing out the wrinkles in his trousers. His soiled collar disturbed him, he said. He paced about slowly in the narrow cell, now and then seated himself on the bed.

bidly egoistic brain when he sped bullets into his parents' brains.

Contrary to early reports that McDowell had been an unusually brilliant student while at Emory and at George Washington universities, later developments have shown that he was in no sense more than ordinarily bright, J. B. Stipes, registrar of Emory, said he only remained there one semester, about 12 weeks, and, while he passed his subjects with good marks, he was in no way exceptionally bright.

FINAL SERVICES HELD FOR VICTIMS OF BULLETS.

Acworth, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Funeral services held here today for Mr. and Mrs. John McDowell, slain Tuesday night by their son, Frank, while asleep in their beds in their home at St. Petersburg, Fla., where marked by their simplicity.

The single grave in which the father and mother were laid Friday in Liberty Hill cemetery is next to the one in which Marion and Williameteen, their daughters, were buried just one year ago. No church services were held, but simple rites were conducted at the graveside by Rev. J. M. Haymore, pastor of the Decatur Baptist church, to which the McDowells belonged before moving to Florida.

Stunned With Grief.

This little down seemed stunned with grief as the entire population gathered on Friday morning at the station to meet the train bearing home the dead. Hundreds of friends wound slowly behind the little cortege, up the hill to the cemetery, paying final tribute to the family they had known and loved in the past.

G. B. McDowell, of Jacksonville, a brother of the slain man, accompanied the bodies to Acworth. Another brother, Clifford McDowell, of Knoxville, attended the funeral as did P. C. Carnes, of Atlanta, a brother-in-law. A number of people from Decatur, friends of the McDowells during their residence there, were present, as were friends and relatives from many sections of the surrounding country.

Arrangements for the funeral were in the care of Mayor G. W. McMillan, who married a sister of Mrs. McDowell.

Meets Girl He Married.

It was in this little Georgia town that John McDowell, for years editor of the Acworth newspaper, met, courted and won his wife, who was a Miss Putnam. There the children were born and there Frank McDowell, self-confessed slayer of two sisters, his father and his mother, went to school.

Mayor McMillan Friday recalled many incidents of the boy's life. Mr. McMillan believes that the youth is insane. He told how Frank was able to read even before he was old enough to go to school.

He said that the boy appeared different from other boys, spending most of his spare time reading books—but not those of a type in which the average boy is interested. At an early age, he said, the boy read book after book on scientific subjects, showing a remarkable grasp of the most abstruse subjects. He was, beyond question, exceptionally brilliant in many ways, said the mayor, and great things were expected of him in later life.

Tell Story of Boy.

Friends of the McDowell's in the Acworth days of their career told, in halting words, broken by many sorrowful pauses, of the boy as he lived among them, first a tiny infant, then a toddling baby, a school boy and a budding man.

They pictured the mother's pride which, they said, was unusually strong for her brilliant, yet erratic son. Pictures of a country home, with a mother softly crooning the immortal songs of babyhood into the pink ear of a tiny man child arose before their minds as they talked.

Infancy so vivid it seemed almost real, the mother appeared, as she fondly waved her hand to the boy of six and seven, soberly leaving home in the morning, with his books slung over his shoulder, setting out for the day's studies in the schoolhouse just over the hill. Later, the gleam of mother pride in a promising son would shine from her eye across the simple home-room to where her boy, sat buried in his books, packing his brain with what she fondly—but so vainly—believed to be the knowledge which would lift him to greatness among his fellows.

Then, with a shock, realization came back and once again the lonely burial ground upon the bare hillside forced itself upon the senses. Once again came the awful knowledge that these hundreds of people were gathered here to say a prayer of silent sympathy for the souls of that mother and that father, as their dust was lowered into the dark grave, victims of the boy for whom they had given so much, of whom they had expected such great things. Beside the yawning hole in the earth into which they were softly lowered, to rest forever, ran another mound. Small headstones told that beneath this mound lay all that was left of the mortal remains of two lovely girls, sisters of the youth who had slain four of his loved ones. "Marion, 1905-1923" and "Williamette, 1908-1923" are the simple inscriptions on those mounds.

Think of First Funeral.

Not a soul at that funeral but thought of the funeral held there exactly one year ago, when this other grave yawned open to receive its dead, when the mother and father stood and wept for their slain darlings, and the brother, with the secret of his awful deed locked in his breast, stood dry eyed and composed while the simple funeral service was voiced above his sisters' grave.

Friday that brother sat in a jail cell, awaiting trial for killing his sisters, his father and his mother.

And, over the wind-swept graveyard, the voice of the clergyman, over his parents' grave, spoke softly the words to which mankind pins all its hope of life beyond the grave:

"I know that my Redeemer liveth."

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Forrest Adair—seen in the illustration above, holding a loving cup in his hands—faced one of the hardest tasks of a strenuous career last night at the automobile show at the auditorium, when he led a bench of three judges in selecting the prettiest girl out of approximately three dozen members of the Junior League—an organization admittedly made up of the prettiest and most popular young girls in Atlanta.

Forrest Adair and his associate judges named Miss Martha Fort as the quintessence of feminine pulchritude and the supreme queen of beauty of the occasion.

And, by the grace of Venus and all her associate goddesses, Miss Fort deserved the prize. Not, be it hastily added, that any one of the other contestants wouldn't have been highly satisfactory as the winner—but looking at Miss Fort it was inconceivable to believe that any girl alive could be sweeter in appearance.

Beauty Show Inevitable.

It was, of course, in accord with the fitness of things that a beauty show should be staged as an intrinsic part of the automobile show. For, after all, what is the auto show but a beauty show—a show of beauty in glorious lines and curves and sleek bodied mechanical marvels. A beauty show of the supreme creations of the automobile maker's art; a beauty show that tempts hard-earned dollars from parsimonious pockets and turns the shrewdest skinflint into a prodigal investor in luxurious transportation.

Friday night, when the long line of flesh and blood beauties paraded round the old auditorium—paraded under the dainty draperies and hidden lights which have transformed the building into a dream of loveliness for the week—it seemed as though the hidden fairies, the dainty sprites of lovely motion concealed in each gleaming creation of steel and wood and brass and plush and leather—had come to life to bless mere mortals.

Each contestant wore a sash bearing the name of the make of car which sponsored her entrance in the contest. Miss Fort represented the Chandler—a might good lil' boat—but Miss Fort would have deserved the prize even if she had driven up in a one-horse shay.

Judges Have Trouble.

After the array of human blossoms had passed before the judges—after the judges themselves had gathered the bouquet into a compact bunch, the more carefully to compare, and to concentrate—after the same judges had withdrawn a little apart to themselves and had whispered together, shaken heads wisely, pugnaciously and, finally, agreeably, they called the girls down again. Then the galaxy grouped itself in one dazzling array of charm in the center of the great stage and, after many excuses, explanations and dissertations on the loveliness of them all, the learned judge, Forrest Adair, called Miss Fort and handed the cup of silver, the chalice of loveliness, into her fair hands.

Miss Fort was undecided at a late hour Friday night to what purpose she would put the cup, but had received numerous, more or less, facetious suggestions from friends, relatives and total strangers.

BISHOP HOMER STUNTZ SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Bishop Garrett Buried in Robes Saved 24 Years

Dallas, Texas, February 22.—All that is mortal of Bishop Alexander C. Garrett, presiding bishop of the American Episcopal church, was laid to rest today. He died last Monday and today all Dallas took occasion to pay final respects to its venerable citizen.

The funeral was held at St. Matthews' cathedral. This structure was filled to overflowing and those unable to gain entrance stood outside the door while the service was being held.

When the funeral service was begun the tolling of the cathedral bell, which started with the moving of the bishop's body from St. Mary's college to the cathedral this morning, ceased. The regular burial service of the Episcopal church was read. Dean R. S. Chalmers, of St. Matthews' cathedral, read the Psalms, and the lessons were read by Bishop S. T. Partridge, of Kansas City, Mo. The prayers and blessings were read by Bishop George H. Kinsolving, of Austin, bishop of Texas.

The aged bishop was buried in robes that he had put away twenty-four years ago for that purpose. The robes were given to him at that time on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration as a bishop. He decided then to save the robes for his burial. It was said he was proud of their splendor and beauty and preferred to save them and use other robes for his work. There was also in the casket the bishop's staff which Bishop Garrett had carried in the early days of his office. It was of wood, gilded, and was supplanted by a staff richly ornamented.

COLLEGE PARK LEAGUE TALKS OF NEW PAVING

Two extensive paving projects were discussed last night at a meeting of the College Park league. One of the proposed paving improvements is to extend from Church street, East Point, to Lyle and College streets, College Park, and on College street to the county line.

The other is that of Jefferson street from Columbia and on Hargin to East Point, and other cross streets, totaling three-quarters of a mile.

The league also voted to ask city council to hold an informal referendum on the school question in conjunction with the democratic primaries March 19. They will ask that three issues be placed on the ballots, the proposed merging of all schools in the county into one system; the reverting of city schools to the old Fulton county system; and the continuance of the present system.

To Candidates for County Offices and Their Supporters

The publication which first made its appearance in May, 1923, and called "ATLANTA WOMAN'S CLUB SOUVENIR BOOK," was not published by the Atlanta Woman's Club or by authority of the Club.

Our information is that the publication was the property of three individuals and that it was published in the hope of profit through its sale. The publication has never been the property of the Atlanta Woman's Club, nor has one penny of revenue derived from the sale of the book been received by the Club.

Quite recently another edition of the same publication has appeared, containing the cards of a number of candidates for county offices. This edition, like the first, was put out without authority of the Club and without knowledge of the Executive Board.

The solicitation of advertisements of candidates was not authorized by the Board, absolutely no one was authorized to solicit such advertisements or to receive any money therefor in the name of the Club, the Club has not received one penny of the money paid for such advertisements and if such money were tendered to the Club, it would not be accepted.

As already stated, the recent edition of the book was put out without the knowledge of the Executive Board or of the President, and in addition to that, was contrary to the By-laws of the Club, which read as follows:

"Article II, Section 2. The Atlanta Woman's Club shall be non-partisan and non-sectarian."

"Article VI, Section 5. The Executive Board shall guard the title of the Atlanta Woman's Club, so that neither its name nor any official stationery shall be used for other than Atlanta Woman's Club Work."

The above card is published by order of the Executive Board.

MRS. ALONZO RICHARDSON,
President, Atlanta Woman's Club.

Wilson Adorned His High Office, Says Panegyrist

Chattanooga, Tenn., February 22.—Tributes to the American soldiers by General J. G. Harbord, chief of staff of the American expeditionary forces, and a panegyric on Woodrow Wilson by Senator K. D. McKellar, of Tennessee, and an address on "Gold Star Mothers" by Richard I. Manning, war governor of South Carolina, marked the dedication of the million-dollar soldiers and sailors memorial auditorium here today. The program included tableaux and other features that made the occasion memorable.

"I have been asked to do an impossible thing today, namely, to eulogize fittingly, in five minutes, the greatest mortal man that probably the world over produced, the late lamented Woodrow Wilson," said Senator McKellar. "Of course, it can not be done. I can only hope, in the time accorded me, to point out some leading facts in his life.

"I was never an intimate of President Wilson, but we were warm friends. I stood by him and his administration, and I know him well. No one could come in touch with his wonderful and engaging personality and not be his admirer. Since I have served in the congress, I have seen and known many great men in this country and from all parts of the world. I have touched hands with presidents, rulers, kings and princes, but I have never known a man in a high place who so admirably fitted it, who so greatly adorned it, as President Wilson."

General Harbord said:

"From a world that is largely given over to complacency and self-satisfaction, busy with the problems of the new life that has followed the great war, in a country careless of the future and heedless of the past, this splendid gathering has come together to testify to the world, that no matter how short the memory or how brief the regret of other communities, the city of Chattanooga remembers and honors its sons who died in the war."

TAX BILL CHANGE PERMITS REVIEW

parties of the ways and means committee. These would increase the estate or inheritance tax and impose a gift tax. What rates will be proposed was not determined, although the schedule advanced recently by Representative Ramseyer, republican, Iowa, to make the maximum rate on the estate tax 40 per cent, applying to the amount by which the net estate of a decedent exceeds $10,000,000 was favored by a number of those who conferred.

Longworth Has Hopes.

Representative Longworth, the republican leader, who yesterday advanced a new compromise on the income rate schedules as a substitute for the democratic rates already voted to the bill, declared tonight he expected eight or nine of the 17 republicans who supported the democratic plan to vote for the substitute if an opportunity is afforded when the bill is up for a final vote. The republican compromise fixes the maximum surtax rate at 37 1-2 per cent instead of the 44 per cent now in the bill, and decreases the normal rate on incomes below $4,000 to two per cent, the rate now in the bill, but would make it 6 per cent above that amount. It would allow no increased exemptions.

However, both Representative Garner, of Texas, leader of the democratic tax fight, and Representative Nelson, of Wisconsin, republican insurgent spokesman, insist the compromise will not be adopted.

Final Vote Plans Upset.

Delay encountered in debate on numerous minor amendments, few of which were adopted, upset considerably plans of leaders for a final vote by next Tuesday. An effort to reach the estate taxes late today was blocked when Representative Jones, democrat, Texas, made a point of no quorum after losing a vote on an amendment to limit to two instead of four years the period within which additional taxes may be assessed by the government.

Estate taxes and probably the excise taxes will be taken up tomorrow. Representative Frear has served notice also that tomorrow he will propose re-enactment of the excess profits tax.

The amendment opening tax returns specified that they should be inspected only by the house ways and means and senate finance committees and special congressional committees. It was adopted 158 to 100. The amendment as originally proposed by Representative Moore, democrat, Virginia, would have made the returns available to all congressional committees. It was changed on motion of Representative Tilson, republican, Connecticut, by a vote of 146 to 139.

Frear Change Lost.

Previously the house rejected, 158 to 80, an amendment submitted by Representative Frear to make the tax returns open to inspection by anyone under the rules governing as to other public records. Representative Garner and other democrats as well as republican leaders opposed this as not safeguarding sufficiently the tax records, although declaring it was preferable to no provision for publicity on returns whatever. Representative Hawes, democrat, Missouri, declared the amendment would destroy the privacy of the home.

"It means we are having a new government in the United States," Mr. Hawes said, and referring to the efforts of the insurgents, and added, "it seems that Wisconsin is ruling the house and the senate."

Laguardia Has Plan.

Representative Laguardia, republican, New York, who voted with the insurgents for the Garner income rates and who has been mentioned as among those who might vote for the Longworth compromise, made public a letter to Secretary Mellon in which he asked if a compromise of his own would raise sufficient revenue for a bonus.

He suggested a maximum surtax of 40 per cent and normal rates of 2 and 5 per cent. If such a plan would not raise revenue for a bonus, he asked the secretary what rates would.

Attorneys Fight Evidence Obtained By 'Truth Serum'

Birmingham, Ala., February 22.—Whether evidence obtained from a defendant while under the influence of a "truth serum" is admissable in court is an issue in a petition for an injunction against Solicitor James Davis, filed in chancery court here today by attorneys for Ernest Harris, negro, held in connection with a double ax murder. Judge W. M. Walker in chancery court declined to issue the injunction on the grounds that the question was one for a criminal court to determine. Attorneys for Harris' announced that the matter would be taken to the supreme court.

County officials admitted sometime ago that a "truth serum" was used in an effort to obtain confessions in ax murder cases. Harris is charged with slaying Mrs. Elizabeth Romeo and Mrs. Juliet Vigilant.

Violin Makers Will Wage Fight For Presidency

Mays Badgett, violin maker of Five Points, yesterday announced himself a candidate for the presidency of the United States. Mr. Badgett's well-considered action followed his perusal of a similar announcement, as carried by the Associated Press, from Alvin Washington Vanderston, a rival fiddle maker of Chicago.

"If this other guy can try it eight times," commented Mr. Badgett as he scratched a head, fast becoming bald through worry with the artistic temperament of his patrons, "it looks like I might as well take a whirl at it myself. I'll try anything once."

Harmony, he declared, would be the keynote of his platform, and anyone could vote for him who wanted to, be he democrat, republican, socialist, prohibitionist, mugwump or bolshevist.

"You may state," he concluded, "that I do not expect to lay in a supply of campaign cigars."

The press dispatch which spurred Mr. Badgett to action is as follows:

"Chicago, February 20.—Alvin Washington Vanderston, a violin maker, today announced himself as a candidate for the eighth time for the presidency of the United States. His announcement submits his name to both the democratic and republican parties."

SCHOOLS IN NEED OF $1,108,000 MORE

the present basis until August 1 will consume the remainder of the $2,465,184.72 estimated income of the schools this year. It will require, according to the Gaines-Hancock estimates, $1,108,000 more to keep the schools in operation from August 1 to January 1, 1925. Total taxable values of the city of Atlanta, according to the tax assessors, is approximately $3,300,000, including real estate and personalty. The prospective deficit will be equivalent to returns from a 30-cent increase in taxes which would put the Atlanta tax rate at $1.80 per $100 of values.

The special committee to draw the balanced budget was appointed on a motion by Rev. Jack Penn and Mrs. Z. V. Peterson after a balanced budget submitted by Gaines and Hancock providing for completing girls' high and closing August 1, had failed to pass, the members of the board present dividing four to four in the vote.

First Open Opposition.

Debate on adoption of the Gaines-Hancock figures developed the first open opposition to building the girls' high school this year.

Wiley L. Moore, recently elected from the seventh ward to succeed W. L. McCalley, Jr., who resigned, declared that he opposed "spending money to build one school when the expenditure would cause all schools to shut down." Alderman J. R. Bachman, chairman of the council finance committee and member of the special conference committee which met with the board, took the same position, advising that no effort be made to complete the girls' high school this year.

Three members of the school board who voted with Mr. Moore against the Gaines-Hancock budget were Dr. R. M. Eubanks, Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson and Rev. Jack Penn. All three had declared support to completing girls' high this year.

All four, however, have expressed opposition to the so-called "progressive" school program which the budget would have put into effect until money was exhausted.

Voting in favor of the Gaines-Hancock budget were its authors, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and C. J. McLendon. Commissioners Slate, Mrs. Hess, Morris and Meixell were absent from the meeting. Both Slate and Morris have advocated economy in the school program. Mrs. Hess and Meixell have advocated progressive program.

Prior to vote on the revised budget, Alderman Bachman had submitted figures intended to prove that Atlanta has supported its schools as liberally as any other city in its population class, declaring that the only way in which schools can get more money is for the tax rate to be increased.

Mr. Bachman said that the city council's appropriation to schools for current revenues, exclusive of income from state funds, was $2,239,000 for this year. Appropriation to pay sinking fund on school bonds was $173,360; appropriation to pay interest on school bonds was $203,700, making a total for schools of $2,616,000 which amounts to 49.6 per cent of the total tax receipts of the city. It amounts to $13 per capita of population, as reported in government census figures, while the average for cities in Atlanta's population class is $10 or $11, he said.

Reviews Other Needs.

Mr. Bachman reviewed needs of the city government other than for schools and concluded with the declaration that a higher tax rate seemed to him the only solution for the problem. Atlanta, he said, has the lowest tax rate at $1.50 of all cities in Atlanta's population class. The nearest rate is Birmingham's with $1.65 and an additional per capita tax for schools.

The board of education voted down a proposal by Dr. Eubanks that schools be continued through June and July until the school money is exhausted. Dr. Eubanks said that since teachers receive salaries in the summer months and other expenses of the schools continue, the children should be permitted to attend classes as long as their parents are paying to keep the schools in operation.

Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and other members opposed the plan. Superintendent Willis A. Sutton said that teachers and children could not stand the hard work incident to running schools on through the summer, and further, that teachers were not supposed to work during the summer, that they were considered to have earned the June, July and August salaries during the previous months of school and their annual salaries were really for nine months work but were, by custom, divided into 12 monthly payments.

KLAN FACES BARED IN OKLAHOMA MARCH

Oklahoma City, Okla., February 22.—The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of Oklahoma and several surrounding states staged a mammoth parade on the downtown streets here tonight, the marchers being unmasked. Klan leaders said this was the first public demonstration in the history of the order in which the members appeared with their faces revealed. The marchers, however, were attired in the customary robes and hoods of the order.

Negro Village Loses Marshal And "Only" Star

Little Rock, Ark., February 22.—Edmondson, a Crittenden county incorporated town of 300 or 400 population, composed almost entirely of negroes and having a negro mayor, town marshal and council, has recovered temporarily from what was described officially as "an embarassing and precarious condition" due to the alleged absence from the town of the marshal and the "official star."

The troubles of Edmondson were made known here today by Thaw W. Rowden, federal prohibition director for Arkansas who announced that Sam Gabriel Thompson, negro town marshal of Edmondson, had been arrested after several days search on charges of transporting whisky, that subsequently he was released on bond and now is performing his official duties as guardian of the peace.

The mayor and town council are said to have considered selection of a substitute town marshal during two or three days that neither Thompson nor the official badge were seen on the streets of Edmondson, but were restrained by the fact that such an official would have had no badge of authority.

Thompson was charged with having transported liquor on horseback from a still recently raided near Edmondson. He is to be tried along with several other negroes and Ben and Ray McClain, white men, at the next term of federal court at Jonesboro.

Some of the cities of the world which have been successfully planned from the start are Washington, D. C.; Gary, Ill.; Delhi, India, and Canberra, Australia.

Lovely Frocks of Silk

$24.75 and $27.95

Lovely—yes, that's the word for them. They're a delight to behold! Lines run true to fashion. Absolutely style-right to the very last detail. And the materials are the kind of materials you'd choose by the yard.

One little black satin has white buttons scampering all the way up the front of it and all the way down the back of it—flaunting two of the prevailing styles of the moment—that of button trimming and that of combining black and white.

Another of satin crepe in the Mexican hue has folds of materials across the front from the hems to the hips and are elbow deep in Indo-Chinese embroidery.

And then, there are little dancing frocks without sleeves, alluringly draped to the side, and sports frocks of heavy, spiral crepe with the skirt made of alternating bands of contrasting color, and Canton crepe frocks with accordion pleating for trimming.

There's almost no end to the style choice in these new spring frocks—and they're yours for $24.75 and $29.75!

Hairline Striped Suits

Just $34.75

The vogue of the moment is the vogue of the hairline stripe suit. It's mannish of material and boyish of line. It fastens itself with a single link button at the base of the lapels or folds over into a four-button double-breasted model—one style is as smart as the other. One sees it sauntering leisurely down Fifth Avenue on the smartest young women of New York—and one sees it at High's—at $34.75.

Plaid Spring Coats $24.75

No wardrobe is complete without a coat of plaid, this spring of 1924. But there's no reason why every wardrobe shouldn't be complete when one can come to High's and choose such smart ones at $24.75. They're of camel hair finished coatings with large rough plaids. In grays, tans, and a few colors.

MERIT VS. POLITICS.

The appointment of Henry P. Fletcher as ambassador to Italy perpetuates a policy that the late President Harding inaugurated. It is to promote representatives of the United States government who have had long and faithful and useful service in the diplomatic corps, rather than to make such appointments from political favorites, regardless of their qualifications to serve efficiently and acceptably.

In Mr. Fletcher's case, he had served as secretary of embassy, as minister and even as under secretary of state. Hence his long apprenticeship in foreign diplomacy particularly fitted him for the rather difficult post, under circumstances, to which he has now been assigned. He was promoted from minister to Belgium, a rather tame and uneventful assignment.

The rule heretofore, prior to the Harding innovation, has largely been to pay political debts with diplomatic appointments; that is, to honor some staunch and perhaps wealthy supporter of a president with a foreign appointment that carried with it great dignity, no little personal expense over and above the salary, little or no work except the fatigue of one continual round of social gaities and banquet addresses.

Times are changing. In the present closely linked economic and diplomatic relations between nations, involving issues that are liable to disturb the amity of nations, or calm the restlessness of international relations, the diplomat must, or should, know the technique and the finesse of the service, and this requires a thorough knowledge of international affairs required more by diplomatic training than by the mere reading of the cable dispatches.

Not only is this true, but one of the most serious handicaps to the efficiency of foreign service heretofore has been the prevailing knowledge that the subordinate offices offered no hope of promotion. This destroyed incentive. After acquiring a long and serviceable knowledge of the work of legations the under secretaries had no hope held out for anything better because the positions of ministers, ambassadors, even consuls general, were always made on a basis of political preferment, or in the vernacular of the street, perhaps, "political pull."

That the late President Harding recognized the merit system in this branch of government service was occasion for the time of hearty commendation by The Constitution. Now that President Coolidge has followed in his footsteps and promoted a man in the service rather than buy some political favor with a wholly inefficient appointment the same measure of commendation is due to him.

It would be infinitely better for the country if more "politics" per se could be wrung out of government service, and a greater impetus and encouragement given to real, constructive merit.

WHAT IS PROPAGANDA?

The dictionary tells us that propaganda is a congregation of cardinals charged with the management of missions. In a broader sense, propaganda may also be any organization for spreading a particular doctrine or system, or it may be the doctrines or principles thus propagated.

In recent years, however, the word has taken on a sinister meaning. During the war, "German propaganda" was viewed with alarm, because the idea and suggestions propagated were those of the enemy and were therefore not to be countenanced. And so a perfectly reputable word, through no fault of its own, has been given the connotation of trickery and even of crime.

The secretary of the treasury draws up a plan for tax reduction. The Literary Digest conducts a referendum vote on the plan. And the opponents of this particular plan for tax reduction hiss that terrible word "propaganda," and demand an "investigation."

An earnest and unassuming man offers a prize for the best plan submitted in a contest held to promote world peace. He even goes so far as to publish the winning plan and offer it to the people for their "yea" or "nay." More propaganda. A committee of senators proceeds with an investigation, only to retire in confusion.

The probe of the veterans' bureau dragged along from scandal to scandal over a period of many weeks—and Forbes has not yet been brought to trial. Is the Teapot Dome probe headed the same way?

If there be crookedness in high places, by all means let us have the crooks brought to trial. The public wants more action and fewer words from Washington. Things are in a bad way when our legislators, who are paid to make our laws, devote their time to crying out "scandal" and "propaganda" as smoke screen to hide their failure to act on the real things that require attention.

Propaganda is simply propaganda. There is such a thing as good propaganda.

That the Bok peace plan does not accord with the views of certain isolationists does not make the plan corrupt, nor Mr. Bok a criminal!

PENALTY OF SILENCE.

It is becoming more and more apparent that back of the oil scandal lies a well-planned conspiracy.

According to the sworn testimony of John C. Shaffer, who got a large part of Sinclair's million-dollar fund to clear the Teapot Dome title, Secretary Fall planned to lease the reserve to Sinclair away back in March, 1921.

That was before the republican administration, including the secretary of the interior, had been in office a month.

It was, indeed, before he had control of the oil lands, for it was quite awhile after that date that he applied to President Harding to have these reservations placed under the control of his department, which was granted only upon the general pretext that primarily the interior controlled and administered all the public lands, and that no exception should be made in this case. Secretary Denby yielded to the suggestion.

The secretary of the interior tried the same scheme with regard to the forest reservations under the control of the agricultural department, but Secretary Wallace put up such a fight in opposition that it did not work.

It is very reasonably assumed now that the interior chief desired to exploit those lands also.

At any rate, there is very good reason to suspect that Albert B. Fall entered the cabinet with the definite idea of effecting these oil deals; that he secured the transfer of the reservations for that purpose; that his entire program for the private exploitation of government properties was worked out after his selection, but even before his actual entry into the cabinet.

While the plot is being slowly but surely unraveled, the outstanding lesson is that it pays to be frank. Another is that it does not pay to be silent when silence means the covering up of facts that throw light on transactions about which the nation wants the facts and only the facts.

Secretary Fall tried silence; and then he tried lying, if the testimony of Mr. Doheny can be believed.

Mr. Doheny, himself, tried silence for a long time, and finally every statement had to be literally wrenched from him, but the truth, even if only partially the truth, came to the surface, as it always does.

Everyone, mentioned in the tangled web of conspiracy and fraud, even if culpable or not, paid the price of silence—or rather of not open frankness.

Gregory and Strawn could have been saved a great deal of humiliation had they been absolutely frank about their oil connections when first appointed as government prosecutors. Their connections had been honorable, but their silence opened the flood-gate of suspicion and criticism.

It pays to be candid, and to unbosom the truth of one's own volition, rather than to have it disgorged on a witness stand.

Talking of prosperity, look at the southern automobile sales in Atlanta.

They may not "quit under fire," and yet, some may find the place "too hot to hold them."

Well, Washington's Birthday is near at hand, but when he left us he did not include a Teapot Dome in his illustrious fathership.

The Incomplete.

I.

Life is all too incomplete—
The cloistered morning glory lives
A drooping virgin for the sun;
The portulaca yearning gives
Her flaming heart, which cannot shun
The rakish lover's blasting heat.

II.

Life is all so incomplete
For man and blossom, from the clod,
Each striving, climbing, to the light,
For endless love, and truth, and God;
Till day has passed too soon to night,
Entombing every longing sweet.

III.

Life is all too incomplete,
As jigsaw puzzles, patterns gleam;
Or varied threads, dropped from a star,
We match and weave toward some dream
So faintly seen, but only mar
The tapestries in passings fleet.

Talking It Over.

This is from Joseph S. Davis' column in The Albany (Ga.) Herald:

"A Hawiian capitalist visited Mexico, on one occasion, and seeing a shrub that he greatly admired, he carried one home, and it was so prolific and exuberant in its fecundity that it spread like nut grass. It was the lantana. Its spread was like a disease, and was a nuisance. It became necessary to destroy it. Mexico was visited by a scientist and an insect that preyed on its seed was found, and in a short time the spreading lantana was under control.

"The foregoing facts gives us a courage to hope that successful cotton culture shall again bring its contribution to the prosperity of this land.

"It confirms the scientist's statement that 'larger fleas have lesser fleas to bite them, and so on ad infinitum.'"

Who Knows About These Pioneer Practitioners Among Atlanta Doctors?

Editor Constitution. I am writing a history of the Atlanta Medical college and find that the first faculty of the institution in 1854 consisted of the following names:

Dr. A. H. Buchanan, professor of anatomy.

Dr. W. F. Westmoreland, professor of surgery.

Dr. John W. Jones, professor of medicine.

Dr. Jessie Boring, professor of obstetrics.

Dr. John P. Logan, professor of physiology.

Dr. Henry N. Brown, professor of chemistry.

Dr. John G. Westmoreland, professor of materia medica.

Dr. S. W. Anthony, demonstrator of anatomy.

If any of your readers can give me the names and address of any of the living relatives, with the exception of the Westmorelands, which I have, so I can communicate with them, I will be grateful.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE TREATMENT OF THE DOCTOR.

One of our favorite pastimes in the profession—of course I refer to the medical profession—is complaining how little the laity appreciates us. One of the fondest pleasures the doctor is of, is listening to an eloquent after-dinner speaker telling how richly he, the family doctor, deserves heaven. When it is a judge who pronounces this verdict the doctor is just about ready to die.

Seriously, though, it pays even from selfish motives to treat a doctor right, for that is the way to get the best service from the doctor. For instance:

It should require no extraordinary intellect to understand that you can't appeal to a doctor's sympathy anonymously, yet many a luckless seeker for medical aid, say on a dark and stormy night, attempts something of the kind by curtly informing the doctor or his wife over the telephone that the doctor is "wanted" immediately at a given address.

Some people approach a physician in a suspicious or secretive frame of mind and hesitate to give him confidential information which is absolutely essential for his proper understanding of the case. They betray their lack of information as to the law and tradition which preserves all such confidential communications sacredly inviolate. Unless one can trust the physician implicitly in this respect it is better not to seek his advice at all.

Whatever may have been the customs of our forefathers, the physician today resents the implication of laymen who are uninformed or misinformed that he restricts his treatment to the giving of pills and potions and does not understand the use of other remedial measures than drugs.

A modest woman makes no embarrassing fuss about undergoing any examination or treatment her physician may deem necessary.

Some people who are fairly well informed in general but not about hygiene and health like to mix treatments, using something of their own secret choosing along with the treatment the physician prescribes. If the result is unhappy, the doctor is condemned for it: if nothing untoward happens, the doctor is forgotten and the secret treatment or remedy extolled. This helps to make many good doctors enjoy fishing, hunting or checkers.

A. B. ENGLE INJURED IN AUTO-BIKE CRASH

A. B. Engle, 53 Arlington street, was slightly hurt late Friday night when he was knocked from his bicycle by an automobile. The accident occurred on Peters street and, although the driver stopped his car, he refused to give his name and drove away before witnesses could summon police officials.

Officers W. A. Goode and W. F. Bullard state that the license number, furnished by persons who gathered at the scene, was issued for a sedan, while the automobile which figured in the accident was an open car.

"MIGHTY LAK A ROSE"

I.

The violins struck a weird, seductive note
Then left new visions for the soul to see,
Strange things all mixed with melody
As if the strings some angel smote;
For "Mighty Lak a Rose" they played,
The music men, unmindful of their art;
Unmindful of the wild entrancing start
They wrung from those whose souls they swayed.

II.

The softened flute notes lulled a melody
Of mother-love and childhood's keen desire;
The old, sweet words in memory came to me
Of one who long had fed on music's fire.
The dear, dead years came back in hasty flight
As from the past a blessed halo rose
When someone at the soft approach of night
Whispered the words: "He's Mighty Lak a Rose."

At Miami, Palm Beach and other Florida resorts Frank Stanton's "Mighty Lak a Rose" is by all odds the most popular song of the season.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Lest We Forget.

Stanley McBride, world war veteran, who lost his right foot "up Soissons way," is one of the outfielders in the Ann Arbor baseball team. That means Stanley may have lost his foot but not his indomitable spirit. We are forgetting the wounded men too soon. Now and then a strikingly pathetic case comes to the public notice. There is a little flutter, but it passes. In these United States are thousands of little white cots where pale huddled figures lie stretched out at this time five years after the armistice has been signed. We did not forget the soldiers while they were still in the trenches. Nothing was too good for them at that time. These unfortunate warriors of democracy who suffer without complaint are still in the trenches. Pour eux la guerre n'est pas fini.

Saw Two Out Of Eighteen.

Poincare's influence is weakening. His followers are deserting him by the dozens. With the forthcoming elections looming larger, Paris newspapers without exception predict his fall. Clemenceau, the old tiger, is mentioned as his successor. Little hope for the Germans if that "indicative individual should get at the helm of affairs. He is the only man left who went from Paris to Bordeaux as deputy to the chamber in 1871, when the German armies were getting close to Paris and finally captured the city. When war broke out in 1914 he said: "To me this war has been going on for the past forty-three years." When the armistice was signed he wept. But after the peace conference he said "We haven't got them yet, but we will." Why this spirit of revenge? Just this: Clemenceau saw more than many others. He saw two out of the eighteen German invasions of France.

Happy Eventide Of Life.

Jacob Hess, retired farmer of Allentown, surprised his friends the other day who came to congratulate him on his eighty-eighth birthday, by dancing a jig. Hess has been a farmer all his life. He still plows a straight furrow and did his share pitching hay last season. There is nothing he likes better than to sit in the door of his humble cottage of an evening and watch the sun setting over the fields. There is happy old age. The Scandinavian poet Krykius was right when he said: "How peaceful and serene flows away the life of a child of the soil."

Give 'Em All One.

Twenty thousand iron crosses are ready for distribution. They come in such batches as that from the government mint in Berlin. The government said these will be the last ones. They have said that before. But each time there is another gang of "geistliche" goose steppers, who advance such claims of indisputable heroism that the government sighingly orders another lot of crosses.

The Royal Marriage Market.

Queen Marie, of Rumania, is out shopping again in the marriage market. This time she is busy on Leopold, half of her little son Nicholas. She thinks he ought to marry an Italian princess. If that can be arranged her Rumanian majesty has already a job in view for the young pair. She thinks she can get them on the throne of Albania, where Italy is not the dominating power. Perhaps she will be able to manoeuvre and intrigue sufficiently to see her wish fulfilled. Balkan thrones are not such an inviting delicacy at present. Her son-in-law George of Greece knows that. He barely escaped with his life. To put little Nicholas on the throne of Albania is like leading a lamb to the slaughter house.

He's a Braw Laddie.

Harry Lauder is on his third farewell tour of the United States. His voice is a wee bit weary. But he says he is bringing a mixter maxter of songs as the put it at hame. He was asked in New York when he would retire. "Retire?" asked the canny Scot as he knocked his pipe against his boot toe. "Ma thirrd annual farewell, an' noo tellin' how many mair therr'll be."

Mystery in This Fire.

The house in Ekaterinenburg which was bespattered with the blood of Nicholas, czar of all the Russians, and his wife and children has been burned to the ground. The fire was of an incendiary nature. The reds accuse the monarchists and the monarchists say the house was burned by order of the soviets. Who is right? Something seems certain. There was something about the house, perhaps hidden in a garret or cellar or secret passage way, that had a bearing on the tragedy. Whose interest did it serve to destroy this evidence?

An Irish Trick?

An unsigned treaty between King Hussein, of the Hedjahs, and the British government has been lost en route. It is said the treaty contained a provision about the withdrawal of the British from Palestine with the understanding that the Jews are to set up a government in which the Arabs are to have full national recognition. Dispatches telling of the loss of the treaty do not mention whether the British would not leave a small military force in Palestine under provisions of the treaty. That is really not necessary. The British are not moving away from the only foothold they have at the present time within striking distance of the Suez canal. In the meantime it is said King Hussein feels very embarrassed about the loss of the treaty and is wondering who played him this foul trick.

Humorous Comment on Time Topics

"I am much interesting, Mr. Weber, in developments of the oil scandal in Washington—"

"If you get too muchness interested mit oil developments you will lose some money, let me told you dot."

"I am interested more in the developments of the scandal. It has resulted in a very hot grill—"

"Wat are they going to cook?"

"My how your brain staggers. They are not going to cook anything—"

"Vell, what did they need then mit a hot grill?"

"The hot grill iss to make questionings."

"O, I see they iss going to cook up some hot questions."

"You are right und if somebody cannot answer about the teapot, then somebody's goose gets cooked."

"Oh, I see, the teapot iss on the grill und they are cooking a goose."

"The teapot iss a dome mit oil in it und the goose iss for punishment."

"Who gets punished?"

"Whoever iss guilty, gets punished."

"It should be stopped. It iss not decent. It iss not humanity to punish peoples by burning them mit a teapot full of hot oil."

"The oil iss not hot, numbskull."

"Vell it iss on the grill, you said it by yourself."

"The grill is an investigation. They are investigating some crude work. It is a scandalous."

"I said it iss scandalousness, to boil oil for punishment. It iss not humanity."

"They are boiling no oil. They are grilling the witnesses mit questions to get at the crude work in the oil scandals."

"Chass, there iss nothing so crude like oil."

"They are investigating some alleged bribe moneys—"

"I insist there iss no news in that. It iss always the same, if it issn't bribert, it iss bigamy und if it issn't bigamy it iss bluster und if it issn't bluster it iss bunk."

"So scandlous iss it, Mr. Weber, that something like $500,000,000 iss involved."

"How much did you said?"

"$500,000,000."

"Said it again."

"$500,000,000."

"But there iss no chance for you to get the $500,000,000."

"No, but I can listen in, can't I? There iss no law against that."

"It iss singular that von of the men whose name has been meytioned in the scandal iss under the care of a nerve specialist."

"What kind of specializer?"

"A nerve specialist."

"If it iss true that he iss involved mit $500,000,000, Mr. Fields, believe me, he needs nothing whatever for his nerve."

"But maybe he iss a nervous man."

"Could you blame him? Five hundred million dollars would make anybody nervous."

"The matter iss being gone over by the Public Lands—"

"The Public Lands what?"

"The Public Lands committee."

"The public lands nothing. What chance has the public got to land anything? I told you, whatever there iss to land has already been landed by private parties and not by the public. Why the public has no more chance to land in such a scandal than I have of landing in grand opera, I told you—"

"O shut up."

"All right, I shut up, but don't try to told me the public lands—"

"I was speaking of a committee. Maybe, yet, the matters vill be investigated by a committee of the whole."

"What hole?"

"Not a hole, like in the ground—"

"There iss no other place to get crude oil except out of a hole in the ground. I subbose—"

"Vill you hush—?"

"That's what they all said. 'Vill you hush,' and then they pay the hush money and stillness rains. In fact after the hush money iss paid stillness not only rains, it pours—"

"What iss you talking aboud?"

"I said 'pours.'"

"Pours what?"

"O pours stillness out of the teapot, maybe, you make me ashamed with myself for your ignorance. Pretty soon you vill be talking abond the ways and means committees—"

"What has the ways und means committee got to did mit it?"

"Vell, dot iss simple. If you have the means the ways iss easy."

"We vill sing: 'The Golden Leaves That Fall in the Fall.'"

FRANK LORD SPEAKS TO ATLANTA CIVITANS

G. Frank Lord, of Detroit, general advertising manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, spoke to the Civitan club Friday on advertising and sales topics. Mr. Lord, who is in the city attending the annual automobile show was introduced at the Civitan luncheon by Herbert Porter.

A musical program included numbers by Wendell Hall, the celebrated Victor artist and composer, and the Rossmans, musicians apearing this week at the Howard theater.

GEORGIA CLOTHIERS PLAN TO MEET HERE

Plans are under way for staging the sixth annual meeting of the Georgia Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' association, to be held March 18 and 19, at the Hotel Ansley. The date and selection of Atlanta for the meeting place were announced Friday by Howard Muse, president of the organization.

Although no details of the program have been announced, there will be at least five speakers of national reputation here. Two, it is said, will be from Chicago, one the editor of a national clothing magazine, and the other connected with the National Association of Retail Clothiers. A merchant from Birmingham and one from Atlanta, in addition to an Atlanta merchant-banker, also will be on the program.

Business sessions will be held morning and afternoon of both days, and a banquet will be given at the Ansley at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday, March 18. Atlanta has thirty members in the association, and there are a large number throughout the state.

Trouble Breaks On Building Head In New Quarter

Hardly had peace been restored in the city construction department by a healing of the breach between Chief of Construction W. A. Hansell and Sewer Engineer Clarke Donaldson, who had been discharged Wednesday for imputing untruth to his superior, when a new storm was heralded by a request by the mayor to council for an investigation of alleged overpayment of McDougald Construction company for work on Loyd street sewer in 1922 and paid for in February, 1923.

Complaints had reached him, the mayor said in his message to council, that Chief Hansell had approved payment to McDougald for $3,231 more than his contract with the city provided.

Chief Hansell said the complaint must have been based on misinterpretation of the contract and voiced a welcome for immediate and thorough investigation. The project, he said, originally had been based on a bid for a "rubble" foundation at $20 a cubic yard for 500 cubic yards, but that rock had been struck on a long stretch of the sewer, reducing the amount of artificial foundation to 150 yards, and the engineer in charge had authorized the contractors to use concrete for this distance, at the bid price of $40 a cubic yard.

This all had been done, Chief Hansell said, during the administration of his predecessor. When the contract was completed, the contractor sent in a bill for the work he had actually done and Chief Hansell approved it, he said. The upshot of the changes in the original plans following the striking of rock was that the job was completed for $5,000 less than the amount estimated, Hansell said.

Atlanta Destined To Be Great City, States C. B. Forbes

B. C. Forbes, nationally known financial expert, completed the third day of his tour and investigation of conditions in Atlanta Friday with an address to the Southern Electric Jobbers' convention. The business outlook for 1924 is the brightest in years, declared Forbes. He also expressed marked surprise at favorable conditions existing in Atlanta, and stated that, in his opinion, the city is destined to take its place among the greatest of the world.

He is at present making a study of conditions in the southeast, and conferred with many financial authorities while here. He stated that prospects were only fair six months ago, but purchasing power of wages is now greater than ever before in the history of the country, which, with other existing conditions, is certain to bring an era of prosperity.

He also discussed the political situation in this section, showing the relatively small interest taken in government as shown by the size of the vote cast in Dixie states. He blamed this condition on the fact that there are not two strong political parties south of the Mason and Dixon line.

CANDIDATES SPEAK AT FOURTH WARD POLITICAL RALLY

Candidates for county offices in the approaching election spoke last night at the Fourth Ward political rally in the Smillie school on North avenue. Among the speakers were Marvin P. Roane, Judge Shepard Bryan, representing Police Chief James L. Beavers, who is ill at his home John McClelland and Roy Dorsey.

Rev. R. H. Robb Plans Celebrate 49 Years Service As Minister

COLUMBUS WAGES WAR ON RAT POPULATION

Columbus, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—More than 2,500 rats are declared to have been killed since the inauguration of the four week's campaign to rid Columbus of rats.

Eight blocks of downtown business and rebidential sections have been worked by those in charge of the extermination of the pests thus far, according to the modern "Pied Piper of Hamlin," Brantley Haynes.

When Mr. Haynes and his assistants came to Columbus they estimated that there were 90,000 rodents in the city. The workers use powdered barium carbonate as a poison.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, February 22.—There is another side to the moving picture star one rarely sees in prints. The press agents weave a romance of glamour about them and they appear to be used to million dollar homes, Japanese servants, limousines and side yard bathing pools.

The other day I met Richard Dix. If this sounds like a blurb for him I might add that my cinema knowledge is so obtuse that I did not know he was a star nor have I seen him on the screen. He used to be a second rate actor along Broadway.

He lived the frugal life of the theatrical boarding houses where one must be up early or the bottle of milk and doughnut breakfast will magically disappear. Only once has he been in New York since those days and then only for a day to catch a boat for Europe.

So far as I could judge he was a rather likable young man who perhaps "screened well." His weekly salary is more now than it used to be for the season. It was interesting to see his reactions. He had come back from Hollywood to the scenes of early struggles.

It was Hollywood meeting New York. He was among cronies of the old free lunch days. They were fawning—a crowd of "I knew him whens." His affluence had not made him chesty but not once but a dozen times he adroitly referred "to his $12 a day room at the Plaza."

He had grown innured to mashnotes and the adulation heaped upon the film star. The biggest thing to him that here he was among old pals and "living in a $12 a day room." It wasn't especially bragadoccio. To me it was just humanity sticking out.

He is typical of screen fame. Most of them were yanked out of mediocre obscurity. If they strut a little it is pardonable. And it is human. What impressed me most was that Dix did not seek the crowds that would no doubt follow him on Fifth avenue. He hunted those who had known him "when."

There is some reason to believe the innate New York fear of waiters caused a young woman to plunge to her death from a window in the hotel Brevoort recently. She was giving a luncheon party to a group of women with whom she worked. It was a happy affair. The hostess had no cause for worry. When the luncheon was finished she was presented a check for $63. Five waiters and a head-waiter had attended her guests. She looked at the size of the bill, excused herself a moment and leaped to the sidewalk. In her purse was found a roll of bills totalling $65. Spreading $2 over the palms of six waiters was no easy task most anyone will agree. So far as can be learned, at any rate, this was the sole reason for her suicide.

Tipping, by the way, is reaching ridiculous proportions here. It is rare that one tips the fabled ten per cent of the bill and feels comfortable. The waiter has a way of walking away silently that is always embarrassing to a host. In the best places the waiter expects a dollar a head—no matter the size of the check. And New Yorkers are giving it to him in most instances.

In decrying New York's tipping wantonness I confess the surge of a guilty blush. Only this morning I vowed to leave 15 cents at my plate at a hurry up coffee shop. But the waiter stood over me all the while so I left a quarter.

I wonder if there is any man so bold who having over-tipped and becoming overcome with remorse would return to the waiter and say, "See here, I tipped you 25 cents too much. I want it back." Such a person to my cowardly mind deserves to be done in bronze in Times square.

How to build up your Weight

TO be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

GERMANS RESENT FRENCH ATTITUDE ON PALATINATE

Berlin, February 22.—Foreign Minister Stresemann today announced in the reichstag that France had returned Germany's note respecting the Palatinate, France at the same time informing the German government that it did not intend to interfere in German disputes, in which it was not concerned. The minister strongly criticised the French action in rejecting the note. It could only lead, he said, to increasing despair among the people, instead of to agreement, which everyone desired.

Jugo-Slavia and Italy Exchange Ratifications On Treaty Over Fiume

Rome, February 22.—Premier Mussolini and the Jugo-Slav minister today exchanged ratifications of the treaty signed at Rome January 27. It is by the provisions of this treaty that Fiume becomes Italian territory.

MAY BRING NATIONAL AUTO SHOW HERE

most prominent people in Atlanta at the show.

Saturday, the final day, is expected to draw huge crowds, probably surpassing the record attendance mark made last Saturday, the opening day.

The show this year has been remarkable for the large attendance of out-of-town dealers. Scores of automobile men from cities in southeastern states have been present every day. These men come to Atlanta knowing that they will see all the latest models of the makes of cars sold in the southeastern territory just as well here as they could at the New York or Chicago shows, and the added convenience of holding an annual show so close to home makes Atlanta a rallying point for leaders in the industry from all over this section of the country every year.

Sales Are Made.

Several sales were made on the floor Friday afternoon and night and at least a score of prospective auto owners declared that they would return, in all probability, Saturday to close deals.

The Laurier band, one of the finest musical organizations in the south east, rendered delightful concerts Friday afternoon and night, giving a special program of request numbers while the beauty contest was in progress.

All in all, as the last day opens, directors of the show are highly gratified with the success that has greeted the 1924 exhibition. They admit that cold weather probably has kept away many people who would otherwise have attended, but despite this the attendance for the week has been all that could be desired. Sales have exceeded those of any preceding show and Atlanta has once again been emphatically enthroned as the undisputed southeastern center of the automotive industry.

REPUBLICAN LINES RIPPED ASUNDER

are nothing but cheap gossip, part of which has already been discredited," he continued.

"Why should Attorney General Daugherty resign without a hearing? That is not the American way of doing things. The time has come for republican leadership to stop acting on the defensive, and to begin aggressive warfare on political traducers, who sat silent while the greatest orgy of waste, incompetency and corruption that the world has ever witnessed took place in Washington under the democratic administration."

In connection with this attack on the democratic war regime, some republicans are beginning to talk about forcing an investigation of the shipping board, the veterans' bureau and other activities under the Wilson administration, as a counter-irritant to the Teapot Dome affair.

Friend Tells of Oil Deals

Daugherty's bold stroke in defying his enemies through the letter to Senator Pepper has strengthened him considerably. One senator who is friendly to him, while unwilling to take the floor in defense of the attorney general at this time, has given what he regards as a reliable account of Daugherty's alleged stock transactions.

Daugherty, as a private citizen of some means, was interested in stocks and bonds for many years. His holdings in Sinclair stock, this senator says, consisted of a purchase of 200 shares of Sinclair consolidated in 1920—before he became attorney general—on which he lost $480. The stock was purchased for Mrs. Daugherty, when the investment proved to be unsuccessful, she called on her husband to make it good.

This, it is claimed, is Daugherty's sole connection with Sinclair oil stock. Other supposed oil investments which have been mentioned here concern a different concern with which Sinclair has no connection.

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN IN FORMAL DEFENSE.

Washington, February 22.—(By the Associated Press).—Chairman Adams of the republican national committee tonight publicly joined issue with those of his party leaders in the senate who are demanding the immediate resignation of Attorney General Daugherty.

"This is not the time," he said in a formal statement, "to yield to the threats of those who are conducting this campaign of political terrorism, or to the demands of those who are frightened by such methods."

"The republican party organization," he declared, "will insist that no verdict of guilty shall be pronounced until indisputable evidence of guilt has been produced."

The statement follows in full:

"The integrity of a former republican cabinet official has been called into serious question because he accepted money while in office from certain oil interests.

Campaign of Slander.

"The reputation of three former democratic cabinet members, and other democrats prominent in the Wilson administration, has been affected because they received money from the same oil interests as hire for their political influence with their own administration.

"So much for the facts regarding the use of money disclosed up to date in the oil investigation.

"Taking advantage of this situation, a few political blackguards and scandal mongers have launched a general campaign of slander against members of the cabinet and others high in official life.

"One of the victims of this campaign is Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy. The record shows he did not perform a single act in connection with the leasing of the naval oil reserves that was either illegal or immoral—must less a betrayal of public trust or inimical to public welfare.

Immunity Cherished.

"Not one of Secretary Denby's detractors can quote any official record or sworn testimony to the contrary. Not one dare make his accusations outside the halls of congress where he claims protection in the prerogative of uttering slander.

"Now it is being charged that Attorney General Daugherty was a party of the transaction. He had nothing whatever to do with the oil leases. He was not even consulted regarding them. Those making these charges claim they want a congressional investigation of Mr. Daugherty in order to bring out the facts. But they are not willing to wait for the investigation.

"What they hope to do is to force Attorney General Daugherty to retire from the cabinet before such an investigation can take place. They hope he will prefer such retirement to the alternative of remaining in office to be harassed and slandered.

Does Not Condone Betrayals.

"The republican organization stands unalterably for clean and honest administration of public affairs. It does not condone betrayal of public trust or seek to protect those of its party guilty of such betrayal.

"But it is equally insistent that guilt must be proved or shown by evidence that admits of no doubt. Hysteria is not proof. Libel is not proof. Idle gossip and hearsay scandal are not evidence.

"To punish innocent men upon such irresponsible and disreputable grounds often results in letting those who are really guilty escape. It is not without the range of possibilities that those who are now making wild charges against public officials seek to sacrifice innocent men in order that guilt which should be ferreted out and properly placed may escape detection.

"This is not the time to yield to the threats of those who are conducting this campaign of political terrorism or to the demands of those who are frightened by such methods.

Old Charges Revamped.

"The record shows that most of the charges now being made are merely revamped from those made some time ago by a member of the house of representatives in a demand for Attorney General Daugherty's impeachment.

"These charges were thoroughly investigated by a house committee which by a vote of 20 to 1 denounced them as untrue and unwarranted. In this decision of the committee, the house of representatives concurred by an overwhelming vote on nonpartisan lines. The new charges now being made are nothing but cheap gossip, part of which has already been utterly discredited.

"Why should the attorney general resign without a hearing? That is not the American way of doing things. It is time for officials of integrity to face their detractors and place the brand of infamy upon those who make their public office the mouthpiece of calumny.

No Foreign Menace.

"America, her institutions and her form of government are not now and never will be endangered by enemies from without. Her menace is not without. Her menace is from those who, for the purpose of elevating themselves into the limelight of questionable notoriety, or of serving the baser purposes of partisanship, seek to destroy the faith of the American people in their public officials and institutions.

"The time has come for republican leadership to stop acting on the defensive and to begin aggressive warfare on political traducers, who sat silent while the greatest orgy of waste, incompetency and corruption that the world has ever witnessed took place in Washington under the democratic administration."

OIL COMMITTEE TO GRILL SLEMP

was discussed by Mr. Walsh and Chairman Lenroot and later it was stated that Milton E. Ailes, president of Riggs National bank, of Washington, probably would be the first witness Monday.

Senator Walsh declined to disclose the subject matter upon which he will be questioned, but it is known that the committee desires to have information from the records of the bank which might throw some light upon rumors related to those current in connection with supposed oil stock transactions by public officials.

After the examination of Mr. Ailes and Mr. Slemp, the committee probably will call in its expert accountants before proceeding with other witnesses.

These accountants have completed their audit of the books of W. B. Hibbs & Co., a Washington stock brokerage firm, and also of the books of the former Washington branch of Ungerleider & Co., a Cleveland stock brokerage firm.

To Press Check Probe.

Senator Walsh also said officials of the Federal-American National bank and the Commercial National bank, both of Washington, would be summoned in connection with the testimony given by Mr. McLean at Palm Beach that he had given Fall checks aggregating $100,000, drawn on these banks, and which subsequently were returned to him unused.

"We shall pursue the inquiry with respect to these checks," Senator Walsh said, "because the general belief is that this transaction never did take place."

Mr. McLean is now in Washington under subpoena, but the time he will be called before the committee has not yet been determined.

Senator Walsh said he had conferred last Sunday with Milton J. Lambert, counsel for Mr. McLean. It may be that some further conferences will be held before Mr. McLean is asked to appear.

To Call Sinclair Soon.

Another important witness the committee hopes to examine is Harry F. Sinclair, who has just returned from Europe. Senator Walsh said a subpoena for him would be issued in a few days, but there has been no decision as yet respecting the day he will be called to the stand.

Senator Walsh said it was desired to question Mr Sinclair regarding his written agreement to pay $1,000,000 to J. Leo Stack, a Denver oil operator, and Frederick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver (Col.) Post, to satisfy claims which Stack contended he had against the Pioneer Oil company, operating in the Teapot Dome field.

"We also would like to know about the circumstances under which he gave a half interest in 420 acres in Teapot Dome to John C. Shaffer" Senator Walsh added. Mr. Shaffer, who is the publisher of the Chicago Post and other newspapers, has testified that he had a one-eighth interest in the claims which the Pioneer Oil company and the Belco Oil company has in Teapot and that this was given to him without the payment by him of any money or the performance of any service.

Sinclair bought out the Pioneer and Belco companies for $1,000,000 and Senator Walsh said the committee would like to have more information from him about that matter as well as additional light on his loan of $25,000 to Fall three months after Fall retired from the cabinet.

Continue Probe of Books.

While Senator Walsh prefers to leave a general investigation of the administration of Attorney General Daugherty to the special senate committee which it is proposed shall make that inquiry, he indicated that the oil committee would continue its inquiry into a report that Mr. Daugherty dealt in a small block of Sinclair Consolidated Oil company stock after he entered the cabinet. This inquiry is being pressed in the examination of the books of Harry Payne Whitney, New York financier, and the New York brokerage firm of J. P. Benkard and company.

In connection with the agitation for the removal of Mr. Daugherty from the cabinet, Senator Walsh said he might call attention that although the department of justice had a well-organized and well-disciplined bureau of investigation there had come to him up to this time no hint even of any available witness in the oil inquiry or no suggestion that might be of aid in the inquiry.

F. L. Doheny, who obtained from Fall the lease to Naval Reserve No. 1, in California, also may appear before the committee again. Senator Walsh said he had promised to find and deliver to the committee the signature to the note which he says Fall gave him as evidence of the unpaid loan of $100,000 which he made to the cabinet officer before the lease was granted.

Doheny Makes Demand.

Doheny, in a letter addressed to Chairman Lenroot, and made public here tonight on his behalf, demands that Senator Wheeler be called before the oil committee for questioning regarding statements made in the senate last Tuesday to the effect that everybody knew Attorney General Daugherty "was the friend of Doheny" and that it appears his name was "mixed in" the oil scandal.

Chairman Lenroot tonight said he had not received the letter, which was dated at New York yesterday. Doheny wrote that Mr. Wheeler's remarks related directly to the subject matter under investigation by the oil committee, "far more directly than anything" Frank A. Vanderlip had to say in his now famous Ossining speech.

"Following the precedent set when Mr. Vanderlip was called to testify," the letter said, "I respectfully suggest that the committee should summon Senator Wheeler and call upon him to testify to any facts that he may know to support his statements.

"If his own testimony develops that Mr. Wheeler does not know any such facts, I suggest that he be asked to give the committee the name of any person who can supply them."

TO INSPECT JACKSON GUARDSMEN MARCH 12

Jackson, Ga., February 22.—Company A, the Jackson Rifles, local unit of the Georgia National Guard, will be inspected on March 12, it is announced. The inspecting officers will be designated later. The personnel of the company now consists of 81 enlisted men and three officers.

McADOO WORKERS FORM GREAT CLUB

careful, analytical, cold-blooded survey of the whole national situation, with every doubtful state eliminated, and the net result showed that Mr. McAdoo will have a majority of the convention delegates on the first ballot.

"The leading men of the democratic party were there. It was virtually a democratic convention. The speeches were among the best I ever heard. Mr. Cummings, of Connecticut, former chairman of the democratic national committee, delivered a keynote speech at San Francisco four years ago that was one of the greatest in democratic history, but his speech at the McAdoo conference was an even greater effort. Breckenridge Long, of Missouri, also made a fine speech.

No Teapot Stain.

"Another great climax was the telegram of Senator Walsh, chairman of the senate investigating committee, declaring there had not been brought out in the investigation a single thing derogatory to Mr. McAdoo. That telegram ended the Teapot Dome incident so far as Mr. McAdoo is concerned.

"Mr. McAdoo furnished the final climax in his wonderful speech enunciating his ten-point platform. He was full of fight and his supporters were filled with the spirit of crusaders. Yet the pleasing feature of the whole conference was the complete fairness manifested toward other candidates for the democratic nomination."

Mrs. Edgar Alexander, chairman of the women's division of the Georgia campaign, who attended the Chicago conference, confirmed Mr. Randolph's glowing account of the wonderful enthusiasm.

Mrs. Trenary said she thought it was going to be "delightful to work for Mr. McAdoo among the women." She said, "every woman I meet is for him 100 per cent."

Clubs Growing Rapidly.

E. B. Weatherly, prominent Macon lawyer, chairman of the McAdoo campaign committee in the sixth congressional district, reported that McAdoo clubs are well organized and rapidly growing in membership.

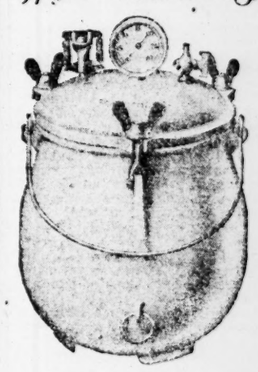

Albert Howell, Jr., in response to calls for a speech, aroused great enthusiasm when he said it was incumbent upon the friends of Mr. McAdoo in Fulton county to "catch the crusading spirit of the Chicago conference."

"We must not make the mistake of taking it for granted that Mr. McAdoo is going to carry Georgia because nearly everyone we meet is for him," said Mr. Howell. "We must actively, militantly support Mr. McAdoo all the time, every day, right up to the day of the primary. There is no doubt whatever that a majority of the states will be enrolled under the McAdoo banner when the convention meets in New York. How humiliating it would be to Georgians for the name of our state to be missing from that roll. We must make Fulton county the banner McAdoo county in Georgia and bake Georgia the banner state in the union."

Bolling H. Jones echoed Mr. Howell's sentiment in favor of active, crusading work by all of Mr. McAdoo's supporters.

"Thank-U."

(Last time today—Atlanta Theater)

With the two performances today, matinee and night, "Thank-U" will bid farewell to Atlanta after a most enjoyable week afforded to our theatergoers who seldom have patronized the theater as they have done during this engagement, and it would not be at all surprising if the two remaining performances mean a complete sell-out as no comedy in recent years at least has captivated our people as "Thank-U" has done.

"What's Your Wife Doing?"

(At the Lyric.)

Only two more performances of the funniest play of the year are yet to be seen by Atlanta amusement seekers. They are this afternoon and tonight at the Lyric theater where David Herblin, athletic new leading man, is being introduced to Atlanta anew in "What's Your Wife Doing," a society farce comedy of romance, wealth, scandal and divorce. Next week Miss Isabelle Lowe will command the focus of attention as "Rene" of Edgar Selwyn's drama of the rose-strewn path, "The Mirage," a story of a woman who lived by her wits among the millionaires of Manhattan until won into a life of true happiness by her childhood sweetheart from home. It is a play with pleasing comedy and sensational drama.

Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Brimming with laughs in every word of their loquatious act and throwing into their turn that same old personality and pep that has made them among the most popular of minstrel stars, Anthony Hughes and Ollie Debrow are winning real favor as the headlining attraction of the vaudeville bill at Keith's Forsyth theater the last three days of this week.

The bill also includes the act of Jack King and George Beatty in their unusual collection of songs; James H. Cullen in a delightfully fresh line of patter; and more.

The Forsyth theater has announced an attraction of considerable magnitude for its bill for the first three days of next week in the coming to Atlanta of Patricola, known to every devotee of the Victrola for her splendid records, chief among which are her interpretations of blues melodies.

Patricola began her career as a professional musician at the age of six, when, in New Orleans, with her father and little brother, she toured the streets of that city giving impromptu concerts on her violin.

"The Acquittal."

(At the Howard.)

"The Acquittal," greatest mystery drama of all time, closes its run at the Howard theater today. Many people have seen this very extraordinary picture and everyone has been baffled as to its solution until the final scenes. Norman Kerry, Claire Windsor, Barbara Bedford and Richard Travers are featured in the cast.

"Peachtree Blues" is an innovation as a classical jazz number by the Howard Concert orchestra.

The Two Ossmans, world's famous banjoists and phonograph recording artists, continue to be a sensation.

Never the Same.

Blackstone, who justly bears the significant title "greatest magician the world has ever known," is constantly changing incidents in his performance. Not a day passes that he does not conceive some new illusion and immediately he delivers it from the stage. As a result the performances of the Blackstone Show, which will be at the Atlanta all next week, starting with a Monday matinee, vary constantly. Sometimes it is a clever bit of sleight-of-hand stunt in the manipulation of cards. Then again he springs a big effort such as "The Birth of Fashion" or "Vanishing Horse," which take weeks to invent, build and rehearse.

"Flaming Barriers."

(At the Rialto.)

"Shuffle Along."

(Coming to the "81" Theater.)

Among the many song numbers to be heard in the sensational musical hit, "Shuffle Along," which will be at the "81" theater twice daily, commencing Wednesday, February 27, Midnight Frolic for white people Friday night, will be "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "Gypsy Blues," "Love Will Find a Way," "Honeysuckle Time," "Shuffling Along," and many others too numerous to mention. Billy Dewey, Edgar Connors, Emma Jackson and Theo McDonald, all leading artists in the colored fraternity, are included in the cast. Seats are now on sale, every seat reserved.

DIVERSIFY CROPS IS COMMON URGE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Kansas City, February 22.—Crop diversification was urged as a cure for many of the financial ills besetting farmers and bankers alike by speakers at a regional conference of bankers of the tenth federal reserve district here today.

D. H. Otis, of Madison, Wis., director of the agricultural commission of the American Bankers' association, told how crop rotation yielded a return in bigger bank accounts and community prosperity.

Other speakers stressed the close bond between banker and farmer and declared bankers for their own protection must see to it that the farms are operated along the best methods.

Cut Cotton Acreage.

Mr. Otis spoke of what he termed a dangerous tendency in the southern states to plant too much cotton. Agricultural leaders there, he said, had told him they feared from 100 to 150 per cent more acres may be planted than will be justified by possible demand.

The speaker urged the raising of more horses, as he said horsepower has proved less expensive on the farm than tractors, and cheaper also for certain kinds of short-haul, slow transportation in cities. A dearth of horses, he said, is approaching.

The banker has suffered with the farmer under adverse agricultural conditions which existed last year, Walter W. Head, president of the American Bankers' association, declared. American business, he said, can not be prosperous unless agriculture is prosperous. This fact, he said has led the bankers to realize the necessity of close cooperation between the farmer and the banker.

Next Meet at Atlanta.

Mr. Head said that, although he considered it ill-advised for the banker to attempt to tell the farmer how to run his farm, the banker could cooperate in improving farmer conditions. The bankers' advice to farmers on marketing and other problems might be valuable, he said.

The conference called by the American Bankers' association was concluded tonight with a banquet at which W. J. Bailey, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, spoke. It was estimated that 200 bankers from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and Arkansas attended.

The next regional conference will be held in Atlanta, Ga., probably in April.

STUDEBAKER DEALERS FULL OF PEP FOR 1924

Approximately 200 members of Studebaker organizations in the southeast met in annual convention at the Georgian Terrace Friday at noon.

Seldom has more enthusiasm been shown en masse or individually than was displayed by these dealers from five southern states, operating under the Atlanta branch.

Vice President Biggs, of the Studebaker factory, who addressed his dealers, was continually interrupted with outbursts of enthusiasm, and when Branch Manager Mentzer announced a quota for this territory several thousand cars greater than any other year, cheering reached its height.

Assistant Sales Manager Sweet and a representative of the I. F. C. plan of financing both wholesale and retail automobiles spoke. Mr. Sweet outlined several matters relative to the production and sales plans of the factory, which were received with considerable approval on the part of dealers.

Mr. Biggs highly complimented the dealers and branch organization in the Atlanta territory upon the showing made during 1923. It was pointed out that this territory showed an increase far greater than the national average, and above other branch territories.

Cyrena Van Gordon May Leave Chicago For New York Opera

Chicago, February 22.—Cyrena Van Gordon, contralto, will not sing with the Chicago Civic Opera company next season and is considering an offer from Edward Ziegler, assistant manager of the Metropolitan opera of New York, it was learned today. Her contract here had expired and she was a free agent, her husband, Dr. S. B. Munns, said.

MRS. COREY DENIES ENGAGEMENT RUMOR

Paris, February 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, who recently won a divorce from William E. Corey, American steel magnate, today denied the published report of her engagement to Prince Luis Ferdinand, cousin of the king of Spain.

"You may say for me," she said, "that I am not engaged to Prince Luis, or to any other person."

She declined further comment.

British and French Drop Resentment and Distrust

Direct Methods of MacDonald in Dealing With European Situation Restores Faith in England.

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.

London, February 22.—"Not only is the present the best, but it also is the first real chance of a general European settlement since the close of the Paris peace conference."

This opinion, expressed to me by an Englishman of European reputation not connected with the present labor government, pretty accurately measures the extent of the present optimism in this country. Settlement with France and the adjustment of Europe are generally expected by the British public at present.

Ramsay MacDonald's severest critics agree that in the foreign field he has begun well. By a single gesture, by his direct telegram of regret at Lloyd George's shining indiscretion in the matter of the Spender interview, he suddenly brought home to Monsieur Poincare the fact that the new British prime minister intended to deal directly and openly. The results were astonishing in Paris.

Of course MacDonald has the great advantage of united national sentiment behind him. So far as Europe is concerned, so far as France is concerned, Britain has come down to a definite state of mind. While Lloyd George was in power as many Britons sympathized with France as with the British premier, who was distrusted quite as much in London as in Paris. During the two recent tory governments the struggle between Paris and London was carried on by the foreign offices. The Briton had a distinct, resentful feeling that his was getting the worst of it, but secret diplomacy covered the facts.

MacDonald Expresses Sentiment.

Now the British public has made up its mind and MacDonald is beginning to express it. There is no longer any chance of a special alliance with France. The entente is dead in that sense. There is no more chance of a private British guarantee of French security; that is over, too. All France can get now must be through the medium of the League of Nations; any British guarantee will have to be some form of pledge to carry out the league decision. Consideration of France in terms of war-time sentiment has pretty well expired in Britain; things are back on a business basis. But by contrast with the advent of a new government, there has been a sudden well-nigh complete end of press campaigns against France; the atmosphere has been cleared; the attitude of querulous suspicion on both sides of the channel has disappeared.

Above all, MacDonald has not tried to go round France and to make any European coalition against her, with Germany admitted. This is what was expected by some, feared by others. On the contrary, he has set out to prepare the ground for general settlement by reaching a livable relation with France. He has warned the French that he cannot see eye to eye with them about many things. They must expect differences. But he has also assured them that his opposition will be open, his whole mind revealed.

Change in French Mood.

London believes a great change is coming over the French mind. It believes a new mood is coming out that if opportunity is granted Poincare or his successor to follow new lines without violent renunciations of the old, much may yet be accomplished. And it tacitly approves the obviously friendly fashion in which MacDonald has approached Poincare, it recognizes the need for a new deal. But when all is said and done France will henceforth find not only a new spirit, but a united nation when it faces the British. Englishmen, none more than the labor members, are profoundly humiliated at the fashion in which they feel their national prestige has been lowered, their country having ceased to have influence in Europe. Along with a new recognition of the necessity to deal generously with France, there is an unmistakable determination to deal firmly.

A general liquidation with France of all outstanding differences, a new, powerful impulse to the League of Nations, and when the moment seems propitious, a new world conference, at least another European conference, that is MacDonald's program.

Optimism in London.

Believing financial pressure and other similar circumstances have brought France to a more reasonable state of mind, knowing the British mind has at last been cleared and crystallized, looking at the European mess with fresh appreciation of the necessity that it be cleared up, there is today unmistakable confidence and optimism in London, there is a blessed surcease of newspaper and political cross-channel bombardments. Sometime this year, the mass of the British people now believe, the whole Ruhr, Rhine and reparations business is going to find at least temporary adjustment. Moreover, there is a striking belief that British leadership in Europe is again going to count for something useful. If by any chance that hope were blocked by France alone or with friends, then at last I believe the British people would feel the ultimate war-time bond had been severed; the whole nation, without regard to parties or past sentiments, would not only feel, but show resentment.

Actually, Ramsay MacDonald is making what may prove the last sympathetic gesture of the British nation to the French. The fact that up to now it has been pleasantly received has brought material concessions, has eased conditions enormously—but of course the main obstacles still remain to be surmounted. If France should misunderstand, appear wantonly to repulse this gesture, the consequences might be tragic for whatsoever party is in power now—the national attitude hereafter is hardly likely to change—is certain to harden, not soften.

McAdoo and Smith Draw Same Bets From Wall Street

New York, February 22.—William G. McAdoo and Governor Smith of New York are now nip-and-tuck for the democratic nomination for president, on the basis of wagers offered by W. L. Darnell & Co., Wall street betting commissioners.

The firm reports wagers of $5,000 to $15,000 on the chances of both men. Smith's chances for election, however, remain at 1 to 12.

President Coolidge continues to be quoted at even money to succeed himself.

Other wagers offered include $1,000 to $6,000 that Underwood will be nominated as president.

MELLON JUGGLED DATA, SAYS QUINN

Winston-Salem, N. C., February 22. "Mellon juggles figures and big business spends a few of its hoarded war profits to fight against the passage of obligations which are pledged to us by the republican party," John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, declared here today in an address to American Legion representatives from southern states. He was addressing the legion representatives gathered here for a get-together conference at which it was expected agreement would be reached on measures the southern legionnaires would back.

Legion representatives from Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida were present, including department commanders, adjutants, chaplains, historians and other officers.

Others Compensated.

"Every one except big business felt this was an obligation that was owing," he said. Declaring that the railroads, wartime contractors and shipyard workers receive bonuses, the national commander declared these payments were just and the legion had no complaint, but added that "every factor except the veterans who went to the front was compensated for its economic loss and handicap." He said that President Harding was induced to veto the compensation bill by an "astounding miscalculation."

He quoted figures which he said came from a report by Representative A. Piatt Andrew, of Massachusetts, showing that the government paid out in the year the bill first passed $211,000,000 more than the legal requirement on the war debt and ended with a balance of $370,000,000 to its credit.

"This year," he continued, "when the adjusted compensation issue again came to the front, Secretary Mellon could no longer disguise the condition of the treasury, so he comes out with a slogan 'no tax cut, if the bonus passes.' This was the cleverest political trick of the age. . . .

Figures Juggled.

"Secretary Mellon proposed a reduction of $330,000,000 if no bonus passed and he added to that by saying that if a bonus did pass taxes would probably go up and prevent any reductions for years to come. We investigated his figures and found that he had estimated the cost of the adjusted compensation at approximately $84,000,000 per year for the first four years. We told him about that, showing that the adjusted compensation could be paid and still reduce taxes $246,000,000. We showed him that by reducing all the taxes except the surtax, the money collected on surtaxes from 22,000 war-made millionaires would pay the cost of the bonus.

"And so it goes on, Mellon juggles figures and big business spends a few of its hoarded war profits to fight against the passage of obligations which are pledged to us by the republican party. I say that taxes can be reduced as much or even more than Secretary Mellon contemplates without hardship to any person and you have heard the figures that prove it. I leave the issue to your conscience.

"But let me tell you, that before the next war comes, and I hope there is none, the American Legion will endeavor to place on the statute books of the United States a law that will draft men, money and means. If all serve alike and receive the same recompense, there will be no war profiteering and there will be no need of adjusted compensation."

Spencer Applies Washington's Words To Country Today

New York, February 22.—George Washington's warning against "fancied expediency" is particularly apt when applied to the present national situaton, Senator Spencer, of Missouri, today told a Carnegie Hall audience. Recalling Washington's part in the troubled post-revolutionary days when the fate of the constitution was in the balance, he declared the first president's service at the time was as important as in the war.

"It is true with nations as with individuals," Senator Spencer said, "that when because of fancied expediency a course of action is taken, wrong in principle and thus dangerous in result, it carries in its train shame upon those who yield and disaster to the cause it seeks to help."

"The nation can feel assured of its future so long as the mass of the people are true to its principles," the Missouri senator declared, adding that "in the revolution there was one traitor to 231,291 soldiers and the proporton is no greater today."

"The heart and conscience and patriotism of the American people," Senator Spencer said, "on the farm, in the shop, at the office, in the home, as in public office, is fundamentally honest and true. Here and there, and now and then, there is a betrayal of public trust, but the instant outcry of indignation and contempt as against an incredible wrong shows how little accustomed the American people are to such treachery. Rather should we guard ourselves that in the earnest desire to promptly and severely and rightly punish the guilty, we do not besmirch unjustly the innocent.

"The fact that such betrayal is so rare is encouraging. That it occurs at all is most deplorable, but we must remember with gratitude the loyalty and fidelity durng all the years and now of men whom we have entrusted with high office.

"Let us never forget our constitution. It ought to be read and re-read by every American. There are but about 5,000 words compressed in about 87 sentences, and with all its amendments, it can be read in 20 minutes of time. The preamble is the best illustration of high governmental purpose expressed in the most beautiful and convincing language that has ever been written."

Expressing opposition to any move which would give congress the power to over-ride the constitutional veto of legislation resting in the supreme court, Senator Spencer said this would permit, "the overthrow in time of temporary excitement of every right upon which the government has rested for 150 years.

"It is a testing time in this nation," he said. "We are either a consitutional republic of free people, or the play-things of passing fancies that may prevail for an hour, but in that hour, alas! may destroy the foundation of justice and liberty."

Delay in Probe Of Propaganda For Mellon Plan

Washington, February 22.—(Special.)—Investigation of charges of propaganda for the Mellon tax plan is likely to be postponed for an indefinite time.

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, chairman of the senate "propaganda" committee, which also is investigating the Bok peace prize, informed Senator Harris, of Georgia, Friday he would go ahead with the investigation "as soon as Senator Reed, of Missouri, is willing, and Senator Greene able to go forward with the work of the committee."

Senator Greene, of Vermont, is now in a hospital here in a critical condition as the result of a wound inflicted by a stray bullet from a battle between prohibition agents and bootleggers and it will be several weeks before he is able to take up his duties again, if he recovers at all.

Senator Harris asked particularly for an investigation of the poll made by The Literary Digest on the Mellon plan, which he declared was unfair because it did not mention other plans than the Mellon program, which has been defeated already in the house.

Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity Gives Fancy Dress Ball

One of the most brilliant social events of the week was the fancy dress ball given by the members of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity of Georgia Tech, at the Druid Hills Golf club Friday evening, February 22.

The club was elaborately decorated with smilax, red, white and blue, ribbons, and the fraternity colors.

Fastened to one side of the brilliantly lighted chandelier which hung in the center of the ballroom were streams of magenta and silver ribbons, the fraternity colors, which extended to the wall where they were caught on either side of a large pennant bearing the Greek letters of Phi Sigma Kappa. From the other side of the chandelier were the colors, red, white and blue, which reached to the opposite side of the ballroom and fastened to a large picture of George Washington, suggestive of Washington's birthday.

Grand March.

During the grand march, which was led by Miss Corday Rice and William Martin, each girl was presented with a lovely green-gold bar pin bearing the fraternity crest.

Dinner was served at 12 o'clock.

S. A. E. Pledge Club Holds Informal Dance Friday

The members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Pledge club entertained at an informal dance Friday evening, February 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff C. Hatcher in Ansley Park.

Throughout the rooms where the guests assembled a color scheme of purple and white, the fraternity colors, was effectively arranged. In the center of the large table in the dining room was a mound of violets and white narcissi. At each end of the table were silver candlesticks holding white candles tied with purple ribbon.

The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Latimer, and Mr. and Mrs. Hatcher.

The hosts of the occasion were Lloyd Hatcher, Marion Jackson, Lucien Harris, Winn Burton, Charles Humphrey, Franklin Toole, George Rawson, Robert Wood, Albert Taylor, Carroll Latimer, Jack Brown, Edward Garlington, Ragan Barrett, Deryl Ayers and Jack Moore.

Among the young girls invited were Misses Elizabeth Palmour, Anne Spalding, Edna Belle Paine, Margaret Kemp, Angel Allen, Gray Poole, Virginia Torrence, Martha Lewis, Buelah Perkins, Nell Clayton, Catherine Smith, Bessie White, Mary Rhorer, Louise Arnold, Caroline Brown, Mary Moseley, Josephine Douglas, Alice Smith, Rebekah Harman, Marion Wolfe, Mary Harris, Louise Nelson, Mary Knight, Martha Maddox, Lillian Ashley, Virginia White.

Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserves Meet.

The Y. W. C. A. girl reserve committee met Friday morning at the "Y," Peachtree Arcade, with Mrs. Plato Durham, who has begun her work as recently appointed chairman of the reserve department. Mrs. Durham succeeds Mrs. S. C. Williams, who has resigned her chairmanship as the S. C. Williams family is leaving Atlanta for their former home in Tennessee as soon as Judge Williams completes his work this term at Emory university.

The meeting included reports of the work that the reserve department is doing in the junior high schools of Atlanta where the membership has 297 girls enrolled. Plans were made for the spring work of the department. Those present were Mrs. Durham, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. E. K Large, Mrs. George Griffin, Mrs. James C. Hobart, Jr., Mrs. Paul E. Bryan, Miss Lottie Angell and Miss Daisy Ingram, the latter Y. W. girl reserve secretaries.

Mrs. Jarnagin Luncheon Hostess.

Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin entertained at luncheon Friday in compliment to Mrs. B. C. Forbes, of New York city, and Mrs. F. A. Wilson-Lawrenson, who has recently moved to Atlanta to reside.

A silver basket filled with assorted early spring flowers centered the luncheon table which was overlaid with a madeira cloth. Silver comports filled with bonbons and mints were placed at intervals.

Capital City Club Is Scene Of Patriotic Dinner-Dance

The dinner-dance at the Capital City club on Friday evening was one of the prominent social affairs celebrating George Washington's birthday. It was attended by several hundred members of Atlanta society, a group of out-of-town guests adding interest to the occasion.

The ballroom of the club was decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns, American flags and other patriotic insignia. Attractive favors, including Washington hats, hatchets and cherry trees, featured some of the dances.

Dinner was served at 8:30 o'clock from tables placed around the ballroom. Adorning the center of the tables were small French baskets of white wicker filled with red carnations, the handles tied with blue tulle, carrying out a patriotic color scheme.

A congenial group dining together included Miss Margaret McGowan, of Augusta; Miss Ida Sadler, Miss Mary Hill Bloodworth, Frank Walsh, Bob Watkins, Edward K. Van Winkle, Rudolph Johnstone and others.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill dined together.

Mr. and Mrs. Floy Holt and Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore Green formed a congenial party.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Smith had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mathers, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Almand entertained in their party Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hatch, of Roanoke, Va., parents of Mrs. Almand.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Nevin were hosts to a party of eight friends.

A congenial group dining together included Mr. and Mrs. Turner Fitten, Mr. and Mrs Gus Redding, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Pickett.

Major and Mrs. Charles M. Roberts entertained at dinner complimenting Brigadier General William Johnston, commanding officer of the artillery of the 4th corps, and Mrs. Johnston and Colonel D. W. Ryther, the new commanding officer of the 22d infantry at Fort McPherson. Invited to meet the guests of honor were Colonel and Mrs. Ernest Eddy Haskell, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Camp, Captain G. C. Hollingsworth.

Among others entertaining parties were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Allen, F. H. Bosher, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Gade, Alfred Bruner, W. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. George Spier, Chandler Harris III, Dr. J. A. Wood, L. M. Muldrew, H. C. Jones, J. F. Shaw and C. M. Hobson.

Bridge Party Will Be Sponsored.

Mrs. Charles T. Phillips, president of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., is sponsoring a morning and an afternoon bridge party at the chapter house on Wednesday, February 27, for the benefit of the Jefferson Davis Monument fund, to which the Georgia division pledged $1,000 at the General U. D. C. convention in Washington.

Reservations indicate much interest in both parties, and a large array of pleasing prizes will add to the interest of the occasion. Tables may be reserved by phoning Mrs. Phillips, Ivy 2474. Tables will be $2 each, and the parties will be at 11 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Included among those who have already reserved one or more tables are Mrs. Earl Scott, Mrs. Will C. King, Mrs. Warren D. White, Mrs. Richard Moore, Jr., Mrs. George Hope, Mrs. W. F. Dykes, Mrs. A. O. Woodward, Mrs. B. K. Boyd, Mrs. A. P. Treadwell, Mrs. Stanley Moore, Mrs. Bun Wylie, Mrs. W. Dixon, Mrs. D. B. DeSaussure, Mrs. J. R. Thornton, Mrs. C. H. Steen, Mrs. W. D. Coleman, Mrs. W. M. Carmichael, Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Mrs. Phillip Goodman, Mrs. J. T. Terry, Mrs. West, Mrs. J. E. Miller, Mrs. J. P. Billups, Mrs. Luther Tucker, Mrs. H. Turner, Mrs. Christian Clarke, Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, Mrs. J. C. Acton, Mrs. Norman Sharpe, Mrs. H. Harden, Mrs. Nathan Bedford Forrest, Mrs. Charles F. Rice, Mrs. W. E. Beckham, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. Arthur Burdette, Mrs. C. A. Wallace, Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Mrs. W. J. Poole, Mrs. R. N. Hughes, Mrs. W. J. Kendrick, Mrs. V. C. Rankin, Mrs. J. B. Phillips, Mrs. G. W. Oglesby, Miss Alice Baxter, Mrs. Nicholes.

Of genuine and widespread interest is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Gladys Marion Griffin and Theodore Frederick Peabody which was quietly solemnized Wednesday evening, February 13, at the parsonage of the West End Presbyterian church, Dr. W. L. Wilson, pastor of the church, performed the wedding ceremony.

Miss Griffin is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Griffin, of Springdale road. She is a graduate of Washington Seminary and Ward Belmont college, in Nashville. She is a cultured and charming young woman, being a talented musican. She has studied at the Atlanta Conservatory of Music and is a finishtd pianist.

Mr. Peabody is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Peabody. He attended Tech, where he was a member of the Chi Phi fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Peabody left immediately for Birmingham, where they will reside with the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lastimer.

Seminary Class Will Give Bridge.

The senior class of Washington seminary will sponsor a benefit bridge party Thursday afternoon, February 27, at 3 o'clock at the home of Miss Virginia Howard, the president of the class, on Piedmont avenue.

She will be assisted by the other officers, who are Miss Harriet Turman, vice president; Miss Yolande Gwyn, secretary, and Miss Runa Erwin, treasurer.

The tickets will be 50 cents and may be obtained from any member of the class who are: Misses Johnnie Acree, Mildred Armstrong, Catherine Bailey, Mary Bowden, Nell Brawner, Edna Body, Catherine Candler, Mary Crenshaw, Sophie Davis, Runa Erwin, Caroline Fried, Frances Floyd, Ann Goldberg, Yolande Gwyn, Frances Harrison, Helene Hays, Elizabeth Hoyt, Clara Hinman, Virginia Howard, Margaret Maloney, Marian Mansfield, Emily McPhail, Ethelind North, Eleanor O'Berne, Harriet Oliver, Gray Poole, Mary Pharer, Suzanne Springer, Sara Ella Schlesinger, Bessie Evelyn Tate, Virginia Torrance, Harriet Turman, Hermenia Weil and Helen Wilson.

Sewanee Club Will Appear Here.

The Sewanee Glee club of 1924 will appear at the Atlanta Woman's club Friday evening, February 29, at 8:15 o'clock.

The club is composed of twenty-seven boys from all over the United States and press reports received from the cities in which they have appeared this season have been wonderful tributes, not only to their musical abilities, but their originality and capability in rendering a program of excellent quality.

One report reads, 'Jazz Bo Kings,' who thoroughly live up to their title and an "Ivory Pounder," who batted rags and "blues" to the queen's taste." They are very versatile, rag music is not their only accomplishment. Negro spirituals will be rendered. Classical selections from Mozart and Shelly, not to mention college songs.

Tech Glee Club Will Appear At Club Tonight.

The Georgia Tech Glee and Mandolin club will give a benefit performance for the Bessie Chandler Memorial library at Washington seminary Saturday evening, February 23. This will be the opening performance of the 1924 season and the program presented will be essentially the same as that which will be given by the club at its other performances.

The female impersonators of the club have important parts in many of the acts. The dance by Tom McCarrel and Mack Wynn, dressed as Spanish senoritas, involves many complicated steps, and has an elaborate setting. They are accompanied by Jeff Kidd on a guitar, Bill Spalding and Ed Walthall on mandolins. Al Holder represents a flapper as "Maurisette." Peggy Hopkins Joyce is impersonated by Eddie Lyons in another act, and his song in a falsetto voice is one of the best numbers on the program.

Bert MacIntyre and Willie Bryson will do a comedy skit.

"Midnight Rose," sung by Charles Lyons, has much real melody in it. Mr. Lyons is well known to Atlanta audiences on account of his parts in recent Atlanta productions.

The musical comedy skit, "So This Is Venice," is the most elaborate act on the program. It is sung by Bert MacIntyre, accompanied by a large chorus in Venetian costumes. He is followed by his colored valet, played by C. J. Turner, who sings a burlesque on the song, "So Dis Am Venus."

Other acts on the program include crayon sketches by Lionel Levy; the stage orchestra featuring the song hit, "Dancin' Dan," followed by "She Wouldn't Do." "Somebody Stole My Girl," and other recent pieces; the Yellow Jacket Four and the colored quartet in special numbers; the Mandolin club playing several popular dance hits; and "Linger Awhile," sung by the entire club as the closing number of the first act.

All arrangements for the performance are in the hands of a committee of Washington Seminary girls, composed of Miss Irene Thomas, chairman; Miss Virginia Howard, president senior class; Miss Palmer Dallis, president junior class; Miss Laura Candler, president sophomore class; Miss Ruth Miller, president freshman class. Tickets have been on sale for several days, but those who have not yet secured them may do so at the entrance to the Washington Seminary auditorium Saturday night.

Mrs. Edward Groves Is Complimented.

Mrs. John Yopp entertained at a bridge-tea Friday at her home on Barksdale drive in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Edward Welch Groves, of Marietta, a recent bride.

Adorning the mantels and consoles in the parlors, library and reception hall were baskets of pink snapdragons, white narcissi, calendulae and pink rosebuds. The tea table, overlaid with lace, held in the center a pale green Venetian glass bowl filled with yellow tulips and lavender sweet-peas. Four tall green candlesticks, holding yellow tapers, were placed around the centerpiece. Two smaller green vases, filled with lavender sweetpeas, were on either side of the bowl, and comports to match the bowl were placed on the table holding pale green and yellow mints.

The honor guest was presented with a perfume atomizer. Top score prize was an embroidered bridge table cover. Consolation was an imported novelty lip stick, and low score was a deck of cards.

Interesting Remarks Heard On Girls' High Rally Day Friday

BY RAE S. NEELY.

If all the remarks heard at "Rally day" at the Girls' High school on Friday, February 22, might be quoted they would throw a tremendous light on the educational possibilities of that institution to the initiated with an imagination.

To quote only a word here and there:

"Miss Louise," the librarian of the Girls' High school, as she is affectionately called by the girls, says: "You never say anything about my library." And indeed one must be blind not to see that the library is the nucleus of the learning at Girls' High.

"Did you see my geometry and trig Valentines?" asked Miss Mary Moore, assistant principal and head of the mathematics department. "Mrs. Overbey, here, Miss Reeves and my department really do the work and I claim it, you see." All of which was refuted by Mrs. Overbey. But there was a picture of two boys flying a kite which made a perfect triangle, and a light house in juxtaposition to a ship at sea which meant something deeper than the pretty picture.

"Did you see our spring millinery?" asks Miss Muse, displaying with pride the latest fashions for hats made by the girls.

"Where is Mary?" asks a 92-year-old grandmother looking for the girl her grandson was interested in, appropriately finding her in a cooking class.

"Today is a holiday with me, so I'm making it a holiday in two ways," happily speaks a proud father.

"Where are my daughters?" asks Mrs. John T. Thompson, president of the G. H. S. P.-T. A., one of whom was teaching domestic science, another being taught in the junior class. "I've still another daughter at Oglethorpe who graduated here," she continues, "and I think it's the greatest school I know."

"Who were Washington's French friends?" asks Miss Slaton (in French of course) to a beginner's class, so that we have a pretty combination of French and American history.

"I'm glad my mother came," says one girl.

"I'm glad mine didn't," answers another.

Miss Mann, head of science, implores you to come to see her class dissect a frog or make clay models of a woman's skull.

"Wait a minute till I fix this cut finger," Miss Sarah, Miss Muse's secretary, begs as you ask her where to find a class in literature.

"Did you say the ancient history class was studying Alexander the Great or Napoleon?" asks a parent who has lost track of time.

"Miss Woolf, of the history department, is fully capable of combining them," is the answer. "Certainly I agree with the Princess Santa Borghese when she says that Caesar, Cicero and Tacitus ought to be used as a foundation to work in literature," Miss Horne, of the Latin department, speaks to an interested mother.

"Is it any drop to drink, or not a drop to drink, Miss Parker?"

"Well, Sue, you play basketball better than you quote Coleridge. 'Nor any drop to drink.'" Miss Parker, who coaches basketball as well as teaching English, replies to a missed quotation.

HEARTS AFIRE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

INSTALLMENT 54.

"Two's Company."

"A nice fright you've given us all, young lady!"

Traymore—the essence of debonair dandyism, a pink carnation in the buttonhole of his smart grey flannel suit—stepped up to the little hospital cot with all the ease and assurance of a visiting doctor.

"W-what brings you here?" stammered the invalid, eyes wide with astonishment not unmixed with chagrin. It was the very irony of fate that Traymore, of all people most unwanted at this crisis between herself and Peter, should sail into the room as though he owned the place and its occupant!

"A foolish question! You already know the answer, or—" with a laugh, and a sudden brusque nod towards Armstrong, as though not till that very moment had Traymore seen the man—"if you don't, you ought to, oughtn't you?"

A tidal wave of red had flown to Prudence's cheeks. She was not strong enough, not sufficiently master of herself as yet, to cope with this insidious attack.

And an awful part was that a quite wrong impression was being conveyed to Peter—and her brain wouldn't act quick enough to set it right.

Traymore had come right up to the bedside, with a professional manner that at any other time and in any other circumstances might have been amusing, lifted her right wrist and held her pulse between his fingers.

"Far too rapid! I say, nurse—" this to the intensely interested young person who now opened the door and dubiously regarded her flushed patient—"I say, nurse, after all this young lady's been through, ought she to be allowed to have a crowd of visitors?"

Peter rose at once. He was furious with Traymore, but the fellow was too much of a puppy to waste anger on. And for Prudence's sake, he wouldn't let his temper master him.

The nurse laughed merrily at Traymore's protest.

"Meaning that two's company, but three's a crowd?" She cast a look at the tall, stalwart fellow whom hitherto she had considered the invalid's "young man." Was there a rivalry between him and this slim dandified newcomer? Personally, she'd prefer the first one, as the manlier but there was no accounting for girls' tastes, and this girl was little more than a flapper, which was a notoriously foolish age.

"I'm going," said Peter briefly. "I'm quite in agreement with Mr. Traymore that Miss Page has had enough excitement, and should rest now."

Bert Traymore turned, still holding Prudence's wrist, and gave an amused laugh which yet contrived to have more than a touch of insolence about it.

"That's cool!" Then to Prudence: "You don't want me to run away the moment I've come all the way to town to see you, my dear?"

The tone was so possessive, so assured, that to the whole company it seemed to say:

"A man surely has a right to five minutes alone with his future wife."

Prudence lost her head. She couldn't bring herself to look at Peter, or to protest, but let Bert Traymore have his way.

Indeed, after the recent shock she had sustained, she was too weak for argument, or fight of any kind. The excitement of Peter's visit, and its climax, as now having its reaction, and for the very life of her, Prudence hadn't the strength or courage to beg Peter to remain, and dismiss Bert Traymore. She hadn't the diplomacy, the words.

They must fight it out between themselves.

If Peter loved her, then he wouldn't leave her to another, would he?

Little did she understand the heart of a sensitive, proud man.

Peter and the nurse went off, the latter assuring Traymore that he might only stay five minutes.

"Infernal cheek!" The moment the door had closed behind the others, Traymore sat down close to Prudence, not relinquishing her hand but trying to draw her nearer to him. "Oh, I say, don't be so stand-offish. What's some over you. Shy, eh?"

"I—I hate when you—you—get familiar," the girl blurted out, nervously.

"Get familiar? What d'you mean? You used to be keen enough for me to kiss you. But I'd forgot for the moment"— his voice changed from sharpness to a suave slinkiness that was equally distasteful to his hearer" —that you're not yourself, my dear! What a jolly narrow squeak you had, if what the papers say is true!"

This 'denouement,' and the memory of the fire, was too much for the invalid's equanimity, sorely disturbed as the arrival of this man had made it. She dragged her hand violently away from Traymore, and broke down, and wept.

"Oh, I say, stop it, like a darling! I'm a blundering fool! Here, lean on me"—

"No, go away! I—I don't want ever to see you again. You— you've only brought trouble—into my life"—

"Come, come!" Traymore put an arm about her shaking shoulder bending his face down to hers, which was hidden in her hands. He drew her hands away, mopping up the tears with his silk handkerchief.

Prudence was too weak for further protest. Indeed, everything in the little ward seemed vague and misty. Her head swam, and her vision was a blur.

In the midst of the queer fog that had come over her, was it her sick fancy, or did she see the door open, and behind the nurse glimpse Peter Armstrong's face and see it change from a great solicitude and love to a bewildered look of pain?

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Parsley.

Wash parsley in hot water instead of cold; it will then retain its flavor and be easier to chop.

Broken Glass.

A damp woolen cloth will pick up small pieces of broken glass that have been dropped on the carpet.

Cleaning Fowl and Fish.

When cleaning meat, fowl or fish, dip your fingers first in salt to prevent the article of food from slipping.

One at a Time.

Never break eggs directly into a cake or omlet. This is dangerous practice, as eggs are not always what they seem, no matter how much has been paid for them. Break them first into a cup and add them, one by one, to the other ingredients and thus save many a catastrophe.

Easy Porch Cleaning.

One housewife gives her porch a scrubbing on wash day by throwing over it the clear suds after the clothes are hung on the line. Then the rinse water is thrown over it and swept off with a broom. She says it is as effective as when done by a scrubbing brush and it certainly is an easier method on a cold day.

Misses Darrah Are Hostesses at Buffet Supper

Miss Marion Darrah and Miss Jean Darrah entertained at an elaborate buffet supper at their home on West Peachtree street on Friday evening preceding the dance given by the officers at the Officers' club at Fort McPherson, Ga.

The Washington birthday features were used, and the color scheme of red and white was carried out in every detail. The table had for its central decoration a bowl of red and white sweet peas and the silver candlesticks holding white candles surrounded this alternating with red baskets filled with white candies. The supper was served at individual tables and the places were colonial in design.

The guests invited were Miss Jean Kendrick, Miss Neil Kendrick, Miss Mary Virginia Rapp, Miss Elizabeth Gaines, Colonel and Mrs. James Regan, Colonel R. H. Williams, Colonel Ralph Parrott, Captain and Mrs. O. C. Trunk, Captain and Mrs. Inman, Captain Frasier Hale, Lieutenant and Mrs. Bruner, Lieutenant C. S. Smith, Lieutenant T. V. Webb, Lieutenant Carrington, James Regan and David Ramsey.

The Literary club of Fort McPherson postponed its regular meeting for this week until Friday afternoon of next week and will meet at the regular time at the Officers' club.

Mrs. George Prindle and Mrs. Hugh Parker will entertain at a large card party at the Officers' club at Fort McPherson on Tuesday of next week.

Mrs. A. R. Bolling and Mrs. L. D. Miller will entertain at a large card party at the Officers' club on Wednesday afternoon of next week.

Miss Hamlett Is Feted.

Miss Beatrice Hamlett, a charming bride-elect of the season, was the honor guest at a bridge-tea and handkerchief shower at which Mrs. Alfred J. Young and Miss Margaret Hancock entertained Friday at the home of Mrs. Young on Elkmont drive.

The lovely home was attractively decorated with spring flowers and the appointments were developed in the George Washington note.

Miss Mary Hancock assisted in entertaining. The prizes were attractive novelties.

The guests included Mrs. Roy Sims, Mrs. W. E. Sims, Mrs. W. Wright, Mrs. Clarence Mills, Mrs. H. N. Fuller, Miss Laura Betholomew, Miss Mildred Davis, Mrs. W. S. Hancock, Mrs. E. C. Hamlett, Mrs. Belle Woodson, Miss Elizabeth Reynolds, Miss Annie Foote, Mrs. Hope, Miss Marjorie Webster, Miss Elise Stokes, Miss Charlotte Stopfer, Mrs. Lenaine, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Belin and Mrs. Young.

Music Club To Have Rehearsal.

The regular orchestra rehearsal of the Atlanta Junior Music club will take place on Saturday, February 23, from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock at Cable hall on Broad street. All members are urged to be present. W. Whitney Pubner, director.

FLAG AND POLE ARE PRESENTED TO JUNIOR HIGH

Presentation of a flag and a 60-foot flag pole by J. Steinheimer and Victor Kriegshaber, of Atlanta, to the William A. Bass Junior High school was made Friday afternoon on the school campus in conjunction with exercises in commemoration of Washington's birthday. Mr. Steinheimer, donor of the flag, and Mr. Kriegshaber, giver of the pole, delivered short talks. Griffin Adams, president of the student body, accepted for the school.

Rev. Marvin Williams, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church, delivered the principal address, pointing out the duty of children to the symbol of their country.

A pageant, representing the making of the first flag by Betsy Ross, followed by her presenting it to George Washington, was portrayed by students. "Columbia" then received the flag from the hands of Washington, and it was raised to the top of the mast by two uniformed Boy Scouts. The flag was then lowered to half mast in honor of the late ex President Woodrow Wilson.

Willis A. Sutton, Atlanta superintendent of schools, also addressed the gathering. A number of patriotic songs were rendered by the assemblage.

BANDITS WHO ROB FILLING STATION OF $130 ESCAPE

The two well-groomed young bandits who early Friday morning escaped with about $130 in money, after holding up W. F. Holland, manager of the Woco-Pep gasoline filling station at Lee street and Campbellton road, were still free Friday night. A dragnet which extended to nearby towns was thrown out by local police.

The robbery occurred about 6 o'clock—just after Holland had opened the filling station.

Driving a roadster beside the gas reservoir, the pair asked Holland to see if they needed any oil. As he straightened from his position, having tested the oil cock, Holland found himself looking down the barrel of a pistol with the calm command not to disturb himself about the oil, but hand over the money. They also took Holland's watch from his pocket and a fraternity emblem. They speeded off in the direction of East Point.

MRS. FRANKIE PERKINS WILL BE BURIED HERE

The funeral of Mrs. Frankie W. Perkins, widow of the late Samuel E. Perkins, and a former Atlanta resident, who died Thursday at her home in Tennessee, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Interment will be in Oakland. Mrs. Perkins is survived by two sons, F. W. Perkins, of Tennessee, and W. H. Perkins, of Louisville.

CLOUDY AND WARMER WEATHER PREDICTED

Cloudy skies and higher temperatures are scheduled for Atlanta Saturday, according to C. F. von Herrmann, local government forecaster. Light rains with temperatures slightly above freezing, are predicted for Sunday. The lowest temperature Friday was 18 degrees. Mr. von Herrmann stated that the mercury would reach about 32 Saturday morning.

Mrs. Frances King, Noted Writer, Will Speak to Garden Club

Mrs. Frances King, noted writer and the most celebrated horticulturist in the United States, will lecture to the members of the Peachtree Garden club on March 10, at Egleston hall.

Mrs. King has written a great many books on the subject of horticulture and is one of the regular contributors to House and Garden.

The regular meeting of the club will be held Monday afternoon, February 25, at the home of Mrs. William D. Hill, on West Peachtree street. The annual election of officers will be held and preparations made for the lecture to be given by Mrs. King.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

THE WOMAN GROWING OLD.

Some women grow old at 23 and some look like young girls until they are almost 40. It's temperament, it's health, it's nerves, it's the way they live, it's probably even heredity. Yet whatever it is, there comes a day in every woman's life when she suddenly realizes that it will take a certain amount of effort hereafter to keep her youth.

No one in a few words can tell her how to do this, but a few hints might be useful. If she is beginning to grow old she must not work so hard. This is easier to say than to do, but there are always ways of saving work as even the busiest woman knows. She must rest more than she has been doing; if she cannot sleep late in the morning she must go to bed earlier at night, even though the half hour or so extra comes off the day's recreation.

She must take particularly good care of her teeth. Young teeth will stand a good deal of abuse, but teeth that are becoming middle aged demand the best of care. A young mouth is filled with sound teeth, but where there are cavities and shrivelled gums the lips droop and lines begin to slant from the nostrils to the chin. She must take particularly good care of her complexion.

A young girl can allow her skin to become dry, but no woman over 45 dare permit such a condition except for a few days at a time. She should keep on hand a jar of pure, flesh-building cold cream or a small bottle of first quality olive oil, or first quality almond oil, and use these freely whenever the skin is dry.

She should use a hair tonic even though her hair is healthy, it is impossible to treat the hair too well, and she may put off by many years the time when her hair becomes frankly gray. She should take specially good care of her hands and nails and of her neck. Nails that are kept well manicured are much less likely to develop ridges, and hands that are occasionally rubbed with some nourishing oil will not so soon become middle aged.

Lucy J.—Eva B.—Milk would not benefit your skin, it needs to have a fine cream massaged into it each day. Such a cream is made with a basis of the best almond oil which will in no way encourage a growth of hair.

Helen G. B.—I do recommend the use of vanishing cream except for a time when a hasty toilette is necessary.

Carl W.—Talcum or pure rice powder will be all that is needed for the skin after shaving. You will have to build up to get rid of the hollow cheeks.

Rose—Add to your present diet some food that has bran with it, either in a cereal or in your bread. After using any soap on the face, rinse in several waters so the skin will not shine.

Brown Eyes—If you have any tendency to superfluous hair do not use cocoa butter on the face or throat. It will take many months for a scar to entirely bleach off after having a boil, and since simple bleaches are not hastening its disappearance I should just wait for nature to do her work.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Nathaniel Coates' Funeral Is Held At Milledgeville

Funeral services for Nathaniel L. Coates, who died Friday at the residence, 87 Peachtree place, were held at Milledgeville Friday.

Mr. Coates, who was traveling representative for the East Liverpool Pottery company, was 76 years old, and had lived in Atlanta for eleven years.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Ralph L. Johnson and Mrs. Howard Pattillo, both of Atlanta, and a son, Evans H. Coates, of Phoenix, Ariz.

GUARD REGIMENT NOW IS CERTAINTY

It is a settled fact Atlanta will get the additional regiment of national guard infantry which has been requested of the war department at Washington, it was announced Friday by Adjutant General Charles H. Cox, following a conference with Governor Clifford Walker.

Thursday General Cox received a message from the chief of the militia at Washington saying the desired infantry regiment would be allotted to this city, provided definite assurance was given that other units, already allotted to Georgia, would be organized. After his discussion with the governor, General Cox stated he was prepared to give this assurance.

Under the divisional organization Georgia is expected to organize and recruit a regiment of engineers, a battalion of coast artillery and a tank company, in addition to the national guard troops already here. It will not be necessary to fill these organizations before the infantry regiment at Atlanta is recruited and mustered into service.

The new infantry regiment for Atlanta is the result of efforts of practically every civic organization in Atlanta, as well as the city council, chamber of commerce and board of county commissioners. Two weeks ago a special committee, composed of representatives of council, county commission and chamber of commerce, with General Cox, visited Washington to lay the request formally before the department.

Organization of the new regiment will mean a national guard force for the city of approximately 1,000 men, instead of about 400 as at present. Already long lists of applicants who wish to enlist in the new regiment have been received.

Atlanta has been headquarters of some famous military organizations of the past, notably the Gate City guard. Just what numerical designation the regiment will bear is not known.

Employers are taking an unusual interest in the organization of this regiment, many of them having requested that their employees select a given number to represent their firm.

WILL RAISE $100,000 FOR INDUSTRIAL FUND

Raising of $100,000 for the operation of the industrial bureau of the chamber of commerce for three years was decided on Friday at noon at a meeting of the bureau committee. It is estimated that by the end of that time the bureau will be practically self-supporting.

More than $20,000 of this year's budget already is assured in advance of solicitations to be made by committees as $10,000 has been appropriated by the Fulton county commissioners, $5,000 by the chamber of commerce and assurance of another $5,000 from the city has been given.

Ten chairmen have been named from the large committee appointed by President Norcross last week and each will represent a group interested in the campaign to raise the required budget. The committee and chairmen are: Banks, J. Sherrard Kennedy; industrial plants, B. M. Hood; public utilities, B. L. Bugg; builders' supplies, J. B. Campbell; merchants, Beaumont Davison; contractors and builders, C. W. Cunningham; real estate, R. R. Otis; insurance, Edwin Haas; Atlanta Woman's club, Mrs. M. C. Hardin; city council, James L. Logan.

Each chairman will appoint a committee of five from the interest he represents to cooperate in efforts to obtain the fund as soon as possible. Mr. Norcross has offered the entire facilities of the chamber of commerce toward that end.

B. M. Hood and J. B. McCrary, prominent Atlanta business men, told of the vast undeveloped resources of the state and of the toll Atlanta is paying to the initiative of other sections of the country which buy Georgia's raw materials and sell the finished products here. Present conditions also fail to furnish employment for a large number of highly-trained native Atlantans who are forced elsewhere.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF MRS. SPINK

Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Full Credit

Minnesota Junction, Wis.—"I was under treatment, but nothing seemed to help me, and I was run-down and so weak that I had to remain in bed much of the time and was like an invalid. I had pains in my abdomen and in the female organs, and my stomach bothered me. My husband saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, thought it must be good, and brought it home to me and advised me to try it. After taking one bottle I was able to eat, and after six bottles I was doing my own work, which I hadn't been able to do for years. I have a new baby who is doing nicely, and I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and feeling better than I have for four years. The medicine is surely wonderful and a good thing to have in the house."—Mrs. GEORGE SPINK, Minnesota Junction, Wisconsin.

A country-wide canvass of purchasers of the Compound reports 98 per cent. benefited.

GREENE TIGHTENS GRASP ON LIFE

Washington, February 22.—Senator Frank L. Greene, of Vermont, shot down a week ago by a stray bullet fired in a battle between prohibition officers and suspected bootleggers, apparently strengthened his grip on life today.

Physicians believed his condition was better than at any time since he was taken to the hospital, although they said that no definite prognosis could be made at this time. The senator is taking nourishment.

United States District Attorney Gordon continued today his personal investigation into circumstances surrounding the shooting and expects to complete his inquiry by tomorrow or Monday. Legal action is being withheld pending the outcome of the senator's fight for life. Three men are out on bail in connection with the shooting.

ATLANTA T. P. A.'S ELECT OFFICERS SATURDAY NIGHT

Post B, Travelers' Protective association, will hold its regular meeting at 7 o'clock tonight at the Chamber of Commerce. Officers to serve during the year, and delegates to the state convention in Savannah, April 10-11, will be named.

T. S. Logan, national secretary, and Albert Ehrlich, of Savannah, state secretary, spent several days in the city last week assisting in a short membership drive by the local post. A number of new members were added and Post B is one of the most active organizations of the association.

Mrs. Adelaide Glenn To Be Laid to Rest In West View Today

Funeral services for Miss Adelaide Glenn, 74, who died Thursday night at her home in the Pickwick apartments, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with Dr. C. B. Wilmer officiating. Interment will be in West View.

Miss Glenn had many friends in this city, where she had resided for 35 years. She was a member of St. Luke's Episcopal church, and was an active worker in church circles before her health failed. She is survived by a sister, Madame Hope Glenn, of London, England, and a brother, John R. Glenn, of Oakland, Cal.

Georgia To Get Hike Of $28,000 Next Year In Vocational Fund

Approximately $28,000 more will be given to Georgia in the next fiscal year than was received this year in federal vocational training funds allotted under provisions of the Smith-Hughes act, according to a bulletin issued Friday by the federal board of vocational education. The amount to be spent in Georgia for the fiscal year of 1924-25 will be $166,725.58. Of this, $105,438.99 must be used to help pay salaries of teachers of agriculture; $27,507.82 for training teachers of vocational subjects and $33,778.77 for trades, industrial and home economic edu[illegible]. About 20 per cent of the last named sum is available for home economics.

More than $21,000 of the increase in the annual allotment is to employ teachers of vocational agriculture.

Program for Charity To Be Given Tonight At Fort McPherson

Fort McPherson will celebrate Saturday night its annual charity entertainment and dance at the post theater under the auspices of the ladies' chapel guild.

The entertainment is under the direction of Harry H. Kottick, first sergeant, of Company K, 22d infantry. Proceeds of the show will be used for charitable work among the families of needy enlisted men, and for the equipment of the post chapel.

Sergeant Kottick has assembled for the entertainment practically the entire cast which appeared in the revue staged by Atlanta Elks. The entertainment will include concerts by the Elks' Royal Purple band and by the Elks' Troubadours. The uniformed patrol of Atlanta lodge will appear upon the program also.

At the conclusion of the entertainment a dance will be held at the post theater and also at the officers' mess.

Refunds of $50,000 Made to Farmers On Bad Fertilizer

Refunds totaling approximately $50,000 were made to the farmers of Georgia, who, during the season of 1923, bought fertilizers that failed to meet the standard required by law and who were entitled to a refund of 25 per cent of the cost price, as provided for in the state fertilizer laws, according to the annual report of S. H. Wilson, state chemist.

The report showed that during the season 4,553 samples of fertilizer were examined and 16 per cent of this number failed to meet the commercial guarantee, being subject to the penalties prescribed by statute.

MRS. HUGHES' HEARING WILL BE HELD TODAY

Hearing of a motion to set aside the verdict of guilty and the death sentence against Mrs. Ida Hughes, slayer of her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, on the ground that the reading of the verdict was illegal, will be heard this morning in Fulton superior court before Judge G. H. Howard. The hearing was postponed Friday due to illness of Judge R. R. Jackson, counsel for Mrs. Hughes. In event Judge Howard sustains the motion of Mrs. Hughes she will go free.

It is claimed that when the verdict was read neither the judge nor defendant were in court.

Gress Is Requested To Assist Survey Of Trade in Cuba

Dr. Clarence J. Owens, director of the Southern Commercial Congress, has invited T. R. Gress, assistant attorney general of Georgia, to become a member of a board of survey which is to investigate trade conditions in Cuba. The board will spend about two weeks in Cuba leaving Washington, March 5.

Mr. Gress, who is president of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club, speaks Spanish fluently and probably will make the Cuban trip and act as interpreter.

FORMER KLAN SLEUTH GETS TWELVE MONTHS

Judge W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta, presiding in Judge John D. Humphries' place in Fulton superior court, Friday sentenced Wash Mills, former Ku Klux Klan detective, to serve twelve months in the chaingang, following Mills' conviction Thursday on charges of having conspired to steal a portfolio containing important papers from Z. R. Upchurch, former Klan worker.

AUTOISTS SOAKED

Boston Bevies $40 Fine on Fast Drivers.

Quitman, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Quitman and Brooks county autoists, who have been using the new road from Quitman to Thomasville, have returned home sadder but wiser because of the experience with speed cops in the city limits of Boston, which is strictly enforcing the speed limit of 10 miles an hour. Arrests have been frequent and the fines range from $15 to $50. The average fine paid is estimated at $40.

ATLANTANS ADDRESS MEETING OF BANKERS

Americus, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Group four of the Georgia Bankers' association met here today with Joseph A. McCord, representing the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, as the principal speaker.

New officers elected by the group at the final business session and who will serve during the coming year, are C. D. Cocke, Dawson, chairman; Lee Hudson, Americus, vice chairman; P. C. Searcy, Thomasville, secretary. Thomasville was selected as the next place for meeting.

A feature of the convention was a 30-minute address by James A. Holloman, of The Atlanta Constitution.

Others who spoke before the bankers included Stephen Pace, state senator for the 13th district; Orrville A. Park, of Macon, general counsel for the Georgia Bankers' association, and Robert Strickland, Jr., representing the American Institute of Banking and Educational committee of the American Bankers' association.

General subjects discussed by the delegates present were "Bank Directors, Their Qualifications," "Cooperative Marketing of Live Stock and Farm Products," "Georgia Creameries," "Warehouse Receipts as Collateral Securities," "The Proposed State Tax Act," "Proposed Amendments to the Federal Constitution," and "The Cow, Hog and Hen."

Among prominent visitors who attended the convention were W. H. Searcy, chairman, group four; P. C. Searcy, of Thomasville; James A. Holloman and Joseph A. McCord, Atlanta; J. S. Peters, president Georgia Bankers' association; Haynes McFadden, secretary Georgia Bankers' association; O. A. Parks, attorney for the Georgia Bankers' association; Robert Strickland, Jr., of Atlanta; R. C. Ellis, of Tifton, and J. S. Johnson, of Ashburn, Ga.

Following the business session Americus bankers were hosts to visitors at the Windsor hotel.

PETITION TO VOID PRIMARY OF BIBB FILED IN MACON

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Formal petition demanding that Bibb county primary results of February 14 be set aside and that another election be held was filed today with the democratic executive committee by B. O. Allen, one of the defeated candidates for county commissioner. The committee will be called together shortly and a decision reached.

Mr. Allen claims he is the only candidate who qualified 30 days before the primary as required by law. He said the action of the committee in leaving the entry list open until 10 days before the primary was illegal.

It is also claimed that one of the election managers, Allen Clements, left the city hall where the count was in progress and that work in that precinct had to be finished by the executive committee. Moving of the ballot boxes to the city hall so that the managers and clerks might have plenty of light is also claimed to have been void.

No indication of what the committee will do has been given.

SPINNERS OF ENGLAND REDUCE WORK HOURS

Manchester, England, February 22. The Federation of Master Cotton Spinners has decided to reduce the weekly hours of work from 48 to 26 1-4 in the section engaged on American cotton. The systematic short time, which was dropped in November, will be resumed immediately it is announced, affecting 100,000 workers.

Genuine Values in Quality Merchandise

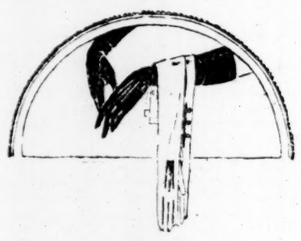

Hints to Wise Shoppers!

Most every woman prides herself on her skill in shopping to best advantage—that is getting the best value that her money can buy.

It's so easy to be deceived. So-called "bargains" are more than plentiful. But the wise shopper is not deceived. She studies qualities. She knows that merchandise without quality is never a bargain, no matter how low the price.

It pays to look before deciding. The wise shopper will look first, compare quality, and buy where she finds the best quality that her money can buy.

Every day customers tell us of finding here at regular prices merchandise priced as low—often lower—than advertised "bargains!"

The Great Moment

BY ELINOR GLYN

"I'm back, Peachy."

Bayard's eyes flashed gray fire. Who was this impossible beast?

Nadine went white as her pearl dress.

"Introduce me, sweetie," Mr. Hopper hiccupped.

Bayard's habit of self-control served him, but the blood left his face: "You—are going to be married?" he gasped.

Nadine cold not speak for a moment, she nodded—and then, "Yes—tomorrow," she whispered brokenly.

Bayard was stunned. "Allow me to congratulate you," he said with withering iciness, stepping back a pace. Mr. Hopper grasped who he was.

"Say, we'll be husbands-in-law," he laughed thickly, enchanted at being able to get off this joke—and he came forward, and thrust out his right hand, and with the other slapped Bayard's shoulder.

Nadine's little face was piteous, her strange blue eyes were filled with a world of misery and rebellion, and despair. But Bayard was too stunned to be moved by their message. How dared they bring him here to learn this?

The worst part of his nature came uppermost, he bowed sarcastically and taking Nadine's hand in mock homage:

"I hope you will be as happy as I had thought to make you, Miss Pelham," he said; and then he dropped it, and turned upon his heel.

Thus does wounded pride make fools of us all and cause us often to lose that which we most desire in life.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Bayard strode through the hall, never looking back or noticing the crowd. He passed various old friends of his quite close, but did not even perceive them. They looked after him and wondered at his grim set face.

"Why, that's Bayard Delaval," some said. "What is he doing here? Was he not the hero of this English girl's escapade out west?"

Heads were put together.

Bayard recked not of the gossip. A mad rage was holding him. What was the meaning of it all? They had deliberately brought him back from Nevada knowing that on the morrow Nadine was to wed this incredible brute. What was his name? Hopper. Hopper—that was the man who had given the party at which Nadine had created such a talk. Then blind fury shook him, his thoughts became incoherent; he just wanted to curse every one concerned. Reason had ceased to work. He passed into the outer hall, and secured his hat and coat. He would return to the Willard, and catch the express for New York. Hell, he felt, was the place he would have wished to book for!

Nadine, left alone with her fiance, staggered for a second . . . . He had returned—her Knight Bayard—returned not knowing she was going to be married—and he had said there were things to explain. Oh, the agony of it! And he was more attractive than ever, and she loved him wildly, and he had gone—where? Perhaps to find Sadie? Where? Where? She did not hear Mr. Hopper speaking to her, or notice that he had put his hand upon her shoulder. Her eyes were straining not to lose sight of Bayard's tall figure disappearing in the crowd.

She took a step forward, and from there she could see that he was making for the entrance hall.

He was going away—out of her life, and she would never see him again! All the wild passions of her nature surged up. She flung the fat hand off her shoulder, and hissed at her fiance, showing all her strong white teeth—and if her father had been there, he would have seen the vision all over again of Nada biting her gipsy master's arm.

Howard B. Hopper stood back completely cowed for the moment, he had never seen anything so fierce as this in his life.

"Get out of my sight," Nadine whispered hoarsely, "I want to be alone."

And she started forward determined to gain her room.

She almost rushed through the crowd to the staircase—Mr. Hopper following her. She passed the couples on the landing where the stairs divided, and at last reached the gallery, and went through the velvet curtains to the corridor, where her sitting room and bedroom were.

"Nadine! Peachy!" the perturbed fiance called in vain. For when she had gained her sitting room she slammed the door in his face.

He swore aloud and knocked on the panel, but the key turned in the lock, and that was all the answer he received. So he bit his fingers through his glove—he would have bitten his nails if he could. Then he went back again into the gallery to think.

There it seemed that another drink would be the only thing to clear his head, so he returned to the refreshment room below in search of one.

Nadine after she had locked the door walked up and down the room.

No. No pain she had yet been made to suffer equaled the pain of this.

To have seen him once more, and to have lost him again. She would not bear it. She stopped in her restless pacing, which suggested some wild thing resenting its cage. She leaned against the table which held the lamp, she felt almost faint, and her eye caught sight of "The Story of Bayard" which lay there under some other books.

She picked it up.

Her Knight! She opened the leaves, and took out the snap-shot that she had taken of Bayard at Albuquerque. It was rather a bad photograph—but it was he. She kissed it fondly and pressed it to her bare neck. Then her brain began to work.

He must be staying in Washington? Where? With friends? What friends? She began her excited pacing again. Perhaps he was at an hotel? Which one? She rushed over to the telephone, and picked up the book. Her hands were shaking so she could hardly hold it.

She found the number of the Shoreham, but it seemed long before the answer came. No, there was no Mr. Delaval staying there.

She looked up the Willard. If he was at an hotel at all he must be at either of these two. Would he have had time to have returned there though?

Yes, it was not very far off.

At last she got the connection. Yes, the telephone clerk said, Mr. Delaval was staying there. No, he was not in his room.

At that very moment Bayard was taking his key from the reception clerk and going toward the lift.

"Oh, please ring again up to his apartment," Nadine cried, and the obliging girl rang and rang.

Bayard heard the last sound as he opened his door. But before he could get to the instrument the clerk had rung off, and was answering Nadine from below.

"No reply from Mr. Delaval's room."

Bayard called down. "There was some one ringing when I came in."

"Yes, but the party's gone, Mr. Delaval," came the answer, "and we don't know the number to call."

Who could be ringing him? It did not strike him that it might be Nadine. He had many friends in Washington. He flung his hat and coat down on the bed, and then he put on a smoking jacket, and began rapidly to pack. Only a few moments passed, however, before his well-trained reason commenced to reassert itself. . . . There must have been some method in what looked like Mr. Bronson's madness? Could it have been that he hoped that he, Bayard, would be in time to prevent this awful crime?

Nadine had not looked so very happy about it. Indeed, now he could think more clearly, there had been anguish in her eyes. Had he failed her again through his temper and his pride?

He stopped dead short in his folding of a coat.

The marriage was not accomplished yet, and there would still be time to take her away consenting—or unconsenting, he added with clenched teeth! He would save her—save her from that ugly fate, and hold her for his own.

There was the midnight train for Wilmington, and there a license could be obtained in an hour or so, and she should be his wife on the morrow—not Hopper's. He was himself at last—and a ruler, and he would claim the woman who was made to be his mate! Now what would be the best way to carry out his plan?

He had been worse than a fool to go off in a rage. The reception would certainly continue for two hours longer. He would dress again and return there, and find his beloved, and make her come away with him—now, this very night!

He had just begun to take off his smoking coat when there was a knock at the door.

• • • • •

When Nadine heard the telephone girl's final answer she dropped the instrument in despair. Then she threw everything to the winds. She would go and find him—she would wait at the Willard until he did come in. What did she care for anything more in the world! She rushed into her bedroom and seized a fur cloak—it was of soft dark mink and completely enveloped her. Her father had given it to her only that morning. She would not touch the Hopper magnificence. She peeped cautiously into the passage. There was no one in sight. She would get away down the side staircase, and out at a side door. Round in that street the motors would be waiting. Adala Meeking's chauffeur would know her, she could call him at once.

Mr. Hopper, fortified by a strong whisky, had come up again to wait outside Nadine's door—and he caught sight of the cloak and the back of her head going down the passage as he came through the curtains. He rushed back, he would face her on the ground floor by going round the other way, so he hurried down the main staircase and through the company with scant ceremony, but a friend caught him here and there, and he did not reach the side entrance, after having secured his hat and coat, in passage, the little page preceding her; time to circumvent Nadine. He saw her get into Adala Meeking's motor before he could enter his own.

Where was she going? To the Meeking house? He'd know! She shouldn't put anything over on him!

So he gave orders for his Pierce-Arrow to follow the other car, and then he swore as only he could swear.

Bayard. To go to Bayard!

She had never been to an hotel alone in her life, and it was now past 11 o'clock. She was beyond timidity though. She walked boldly up to the desk and asked the number of Mr. Delaval's room. The clerk gave it, and she went straight to the lift, her heart beating to suffocation when she reached the suite, down the long passage, the little page preceding her; she called the boy and gave him a dollar, and told him to go. Then she paused a moment, and then knocked at the door. Bayard pulled his smoking coat on again and went and opened it.

Who could it be at this time of night?

Then when he saw who it was: "Nadine!" he cried, overcome with mad joy.

"My darling! My darling child," and she was in his strong arms, clasped close to him. But just as it had been on the canyon, before his lips could meet hers—an interruption came—and this time a doubly unwelcomed one in the person of Howard B. Hopper, who had followed on the heels of his fleeing fiancee, and had come up in the very next lift.

Jealous rage convulsed his coarse face, but his early business training told him that the showdown had come, and that he would not emerge triumphant from the situation, so he had better make the best of it, and secure what advantage he could.

"Well," Mr. Hopper drawled insolently, "I guess all I'll get is the ring!"

Nadine drew herself up, and took the huge diamond from her finger, and handed it to him.

"Oh, I am so sorry, Mr. Hopper," she cried.

He took the ring with a sardonic smile. "Yes—you are!" he hurled at her—and then he went out banging the door!

And so they were alone once more, these two who had loved and been severed and now met again after much pain.

"Never to part any more," Bayard said, when he could speak, for a moment or so after Mr. Hopper had left them, the mad joy of holding his little sweetheart—of pressing passionate kisses upon her warm young lips—had blotted out all else.

"No, never any more," Nadine responded ecstatically. "Here I am, and here I am going to stay; I am not going back tonight, or ever again—I am yours."

"Honey—Sweetheart—Wife!" Bayard cried wildly and strained her again to his heart.

Then they sat down upon the hard sofa still clasped close, and told each other everything, and when there was not a single shadow between them, they began to make a plan.

"We will go right back to your shack, and I will learn to cook and keep house for you, Bayard, and be a real miner's wife," Nadine said fondly, rubbing her cheek up and down his coat, in the way she had done when she was unknowing, as they drove back to the justice of the peace, in the town.

And her words gave a great thrill to Bayard! Here would be a chance of testing her love, and then revelling in its glory! It had always been a thought of his that he would not tell her that he had riches as great as anything she had known. She would come away with him thinking she was going to the hard life at the mine!

"You are not afraid of the future with me, are you, sweetheart?" he asked; but there was no anxiety in his tone.

"Afraid?—of course not! It is you who should be afraid of having such a bad cook!"

"Do you think we shall have to get married again?" she went on. "I seem to have taken a horror for rings and ceremonies and things like that!"

UNIVERSITY AND RIVERSIDE BATTLE FOR G.I.A.A. TITLE

G. M. A. Reaches Semi-Final of Cotton States Meet

Cadets Will Clash With Lee County High Quintet; Simpson Meet Chambers Hi

Auburn, Ala., February 22.—(Special.) — Simpson of Birmingham, Chambers county of Milltown, Lee county of Auburn, and G. M. A. of College Park survived the second round of preliminaries and took passage to the semi-finals in Friday's sessions of the Cotton States Basketball tournament. Simpson defeated Dadeville, Chambers defeated Montgomery Bell in the afternoon session, Lee county defeated Leeds, and G. M. A. defeated Chattanooga in the night session today.

Simpson will meet Chambers high and Lee county will meet G. M. A. in the semi-finals Saturday afternoon.

The final will start when the winners of the semi-finals meet for championship honors Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The four games played today were great games, and the eight teams participating showed excellent form and made a game fight for a chance in the coveted championship battle.

While Simpson ruled a slight favorite over Dadeville in the pregame speculations, the losers put up a hot scrap throughout the contest, and at the close of the first period lead the Tornado by a score of 21 to 20.

The Chambers County-Montgomery Bell game proved to be the hair-raising number of the day's contests. Repeatedly throughout the first period the score stood a deadlock tie but as the second period got underway the Alabamians grabbed a substantial lead which they did not relinquish before the game closed.

Fast playing passing and pivoting as well as closeness of score featured the Leeds-Lee County game throughout. In this game more long shots were completed than any previous contest. The quick-forming defense made it imperative that the tossers on each team resort to long distance toss.

The concluding game of the evening was staged by Chattanooga Hi and G. M. A. This game might well be termed "the battle of the giants." One would think that a couple of college teams had appeared on the floor. Chattanooga's center measured seventy-eight and half inches while the pivot man for the Georgians' towered seventy-nine inches.

"Shorty" Hearn, center of the G. M. A. five, featured with a total of seventeen points. Close play with short passing was resorted to by both teams.

Chattanooga Hi.

The Georgia Military academy went on their way toward the finals tonight in the concluding game of the second round of the preliminaries when they walloped Chattanooga Hi by the handsome score of 33 to 21. The semi-finals session Saturday afternoon will find the College Park lads battling the Lee County High team. The game will be called at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

"Shorty" Hearn met a center of almost equal altitude when he went against Brown, of Chattanooga, who lacked only half inch equalling his height. Hearn repeated his star performance of last year and ran up a total of 16 of G. M. A's total of 33 points. Patton at forward, another stellar performer of last season, was also a mainstay in the Georgians' attack. He garnered 11 points during the game. Both teams played a close game with short passing throughout.

Motlow at forward with nine points and Cooper who substituted for Brown in the first half equalled Motlow's efforts at the ring.

The Chattanooga High-G. M. A. game presented the two largest teams that have met in any game since the tournament started, however, the teams were fairly well matched in avoirdupois.

The Line-up.

G. M. A. (33)	Pos.	CHATT. (21)
Patton (11)	r. f.	Motlow (2)
Mathews (2)	l. f.	Deitch (2)
Hern (16)	c.	Brown

Referee, Patterson (Auburn.)

SIMPSON HIGH BEATS TALLAPOOSA.

The Purple Tornado of Simpson High qualified for a place in the semi-finals this afternoon when they administered defeat to the Tallapoosa High team by a score of 46 to 33.

The game started with Simpson hitting the rings for counters with considerable regularity, but as the initial period neared the end the Dadeville tossers got busy and were leading at the close of the first period by a score of 21 to 20.

Watson, center for Dadeville, with twelve points, did much to put his team in the lead. C. Vincent, running guard, with six points, and C. Byrd, center for the Magic City team, proved to be the effective arm of the winners throughout the first period.

As the second period started the Birminghammers set a fast pace in the scoring and had accumulated an

MERCER WINS AS HARMON STARS

BY MILTON K. WALLACE.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—Mercer muzzled the Georgia Bulldogs here tonight in a fiercely contested game of basketball by the score of 34 to 20. The game started off with the Georgians gaining a small lead which they maintained for the first few minutes of play. However, three neat baskets rung simultaneously by Coach Gilliam's cagemen placed the Baptists in a lead which they maintained until the final.

George Harmon and Bubber Pope were the outstanding stars of the fracas. Harmon gleaned 21 points while Pope came second wtih 8 tallies. Ed Gurr, captain of the Bulldogs, lead his teammates in scoring, getting 7 markers. The entire Georgia squad played a good brand of basketball, with Weihrs probably standing out as the lunar light of the visitors.

Georgia was swept off its feet by the dazzling attack that the Baptists put up in the last period. The first half was marred by entirely too much individual playing and too many long shots taken from midcourt. However, as the game wore on the Baptists perfected their passing and although never resorting to the team-work that has been so characteristic of their playing this season, improved on the first-half play.

The Line-up.

MERCER (34)		GEORGIA (20)
Smith	r.	Richardson (4)
Pope (8)	r.	Williams (5)
Simmons (3)	c.	Gurr (7)
Harmon (21)	g.	Weihrs (3)
Ellison (2)	g.	Bennett (1)

Substitutions: Mercer, Lawrence for Smith; Cadenhead for Simmons. Georgia, Tippen for Bennett; Miller for Gurr. Score end half, Mercer, 15; Georgia, 10. Referee, Johnny Graves. Umpire, Bernier (Hamden-Sidney.)

'Bama Trounces A. A. C. Quintet

University, Ala., February 22.—(Special.)—The Crimson Tide of the University of Alabama swept the Atlanta Athletic club quintet off its feet here tonight, winning by the score of 41 to 29 and therefore getting revenge for the defeat handed them by the clubbers early in February in Atlanta.

The game was no sleepy affair, being plenty of action throughout, and fans went home pleased. At the half way mark the score stood 20 to 13, with Alabama leading. At one time it looked like the Atlanta five would overcome and take the lead, but the Tide held its own, and the final calculation was in their favor.

The Lineup.

A. A. C.	Pos.	ALABAMA
Singleton (10)	r. f.	Stabler (2)
Bass (3)	l. f.	McGauley (13)
Bryant (1)	c.	Carter (10)
Sullivan (1)	r. g.	McClintock (4)
Ferrell	l. g.	Rudson (2)

Substitutes—Jenks (2) for Bass. Score end first half, A. A. C. 13, Alabama 20.

Draughon's Teams To Play Tonight

The two basketball teams of Draughon's Business college will journey to Piedmont college at Demorest, to engage in a double-header tonight.

Draughon's girls won easily last Saturday and intend to keep up their good work while the boys are going to avenge themselves for defeat which was handed them by the Piedmont boys to the tune of 36 to 12.

Everything points to a hot scrap and both teams being primed for the match and the spectators are assured of a good game.

Harry Greb Wins Over Jack Reeves

Columbus Sells Pitcher.

Columbus, Ohio, February 22.—Joe Gleason, pitcher for the Columbus American association team, has been sold to Galveston of the Texas league.

Amateurs Want Corbett As Baseball Commissioner

A move to place Jack Corbett, president of Atlanta baseball club, in the position of commissioner of the Atlanta amateur baseball organization of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was started last night by many of the amateur organizations over the city.

The selection of Corbett for this position would mean that he would be the Judge Landis of the amateurs.

Corbett is one of the best posted baseball men in Atlanta today, and it was partly through his efforts that the organization was started. Corbett with H. C. Voorhees presented the idea to the junior chamber, and they decided to sponsor an organization which centralized all amateur baseball.

Yesterday at a meeting held at the junior chamber it was definitely decided to form such a body and a temporary organization was perfected with W. B. Disbro, Jr., at the head and Dr. James K. Fancer as secretary.

The officers elected yesterday are only temporary, and will draw up a set of rules which will probably be adopted at the meeting next week when the permanent organization is formed.

Corbett is a lover of amateur baseball, having started as a sand-lotter and working his way up in organized ball and finally to president and part owner of the Atlanta Baseball company. Since becoming president of the Crackers he has taken an unusual interest in amateur baseball.

Corbett understands baseball and is perfectly capable of handling any disputes that may come up between the different teams in regard to eligibility, protests, etc. Corbett would make an excellent "Judge Landis" of the Atlanta amateurs, and the local commission would make a good move in appointing the Cracker president to this post.

JACKET QUINTET BEATS UNIV. OF CHATTANOOGA

Chattanooga, Tenn., February 22.—(Special.)—University of Chattanooga's belated effort to atone for an erratic exhibition of basketball came within one basket of a tie this afternoon in the last two minutes of play, but at the psychological moment, with the threat of defeat staring him in the face, Baby Roane dribbled to the Moccasin basket and dropped in a goal. The counter made it 23-19 and that was the score by which Georgia Tech defeated the Moccasins.

The margin of superiority from the sidelines appeared even greater, the Moccasins passing erratically, butterfingering many passes that were well directed and in addition kicking away many chances for goals.

The Jackets won by making some of their long shots good and by constantly beating the U. C. athletes to the ball, even taking it away from them on numerous occasions, during the process of the pivot system.

Roane was his old self on the floor, but Dennicke was missed. Eckford went stout until he left the game by the four-foul route and Yarnell Barnes, of the home team, followed him into retirement later.

Team Work Is Poor.

The Jackets were unable to get their team formation to working to any extent, except that the Moccasin five-man defense was rather porous. Pete Anderson rejoined the team and played a star game on the floor, but he shared the failure of the rest of the team to pitch baskets.

The Moccasins continued to play to Barnes, although the Jackets had him so well covered that he had little chance, and Pete was left open lots of times when a pass to him would have produced an easy shot. The home athletes lacked the pep and ginger of the visitors. Harry Cate was as smooth as ever in checking the Tech scoring.

The first half ended with a score of 15 to 10 in favor of Tech. A pair of goals putting the Moccasins close up near the finish.

In the second half the visitors pulled ahead and had a 10-point lead at one time 21 to 11, but two foul pitches by Dyer, a pair of goals by Wyatt and other by Anderson put the home boys within two of a tie when Roane's pretty basket settled it.

Line-ups.

CHATT. (19)	Pos.	TECH (23)
Anderson	f.	Matheson
Barnes	f.	Roane
Dyer	c.	Eckford
Wyatt	g.	King
Cate	g.	Moore

SOUTH CAROLINA CANCELS DATE WITH TECH SWIMMERS

The Georgia Tech swimming team is having hard luck in regards to its meets just now. Last week, Washington and Lee very unexpectedly canceled a tank contest which was to be held on the local "Y" court.

Following one week later came a telegram from the University of South Carolina, stating that they could not meet the Tech team in Columbia tonight. This meet had been previously arranged by the athletic association. No reason was given in the telegram, which was very brief, and stated that an explanatory letter would follow.

Manager Bullock was the least bit discouraged when interviewed yesterday. He said it was disappointing to train for a meet and then to have it suddenly called off.

The swimming team has had two or three trial meets this year, and they have conclusively demonstrated one fact, to-wit: Tech has a good swimming team and all that is necessary to show off this team to good advantage is competition. Manager Bullock lamented that fact that the proper sort of competition was not forthcoming.

However, letters have been sent out to both Washington and Lee and University of South Carolina. The Citadel has definitely signed up for a meet to be held in Charleston on Saturday night, March 8. Bullock has written to Washington and Lee, asking them to come as far south as Charleston and meet the Tech team in that city on Friday night preceding the Citadel meet. As yet, no word has been received from the Generals relative to this latest inducement.

May Meet Carolina.

There is still hope that the University of South Carolina will sign up for some later date. The matter of guarantee is probably the largest item under discussion, and if terms can be successfully arranged, then Tech and South Carolina will no doubt meet before the school term is over.

One other contract has been signed and laid away on the shelf. That is the contract between the University of Florida and Tech. Last year Tech went to Gainesville, Fla., and swam against the Alligator team. Florida was victorious by a small margin. The return meet is to be held in Atlanta at the city "Y" on March 29.

PAIRINGS MADE FOR S. I. A. A. CAGE TOURNEY AT MACON

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Fourteen basketball teams, representing colleges and universities from seven leading southern states, will compete in the first annual S. I. A. A. tournament, starting here Monday afternoon and lasting through Thursday night.

There will be three games played Monday afternoon, and a like number at night. Mercer university drew Millsaps college, as its first opponent for the second time in as many years, while the University of Chattanooga and Furman university, two of the leading contenders for title, drew byes and will not be seen in action the first day unless some other team should drop out at the last minute.

The drawings were conducted at the Mercer university gymnasium, under the direction of Coach Stanley Robinson. Coach Rip Major, of Wofford college, pulled the names out of a hat. Others present were Dean Bakewell, W. E. Deletombe and Jimmy Kerr.

It is regarded probable that Louisiana college and Presbyterian college will play the first game Monday afternoon. The time of playing is to be announced tomorrow morning, and will be issued through the press on Sunday.

Will Arrive Sunday.

All of the entrants should arrive in Macon Sunday night, and will be met at the train by members of the Macon Athletic club, which organization is sponsoring the tournament jointly with the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association committee.

From present indications it seems as though the Mercer university stars are favorites to come out on top in furnishing chief opposition for winning laurels.

The schedule for Monday:

Centre College vs. the Citadel.

Wofford College vs. Howard College.

Presbyterian College vs. Louisiana College.

Birmingham-Southern vs. Mississippi College.

Mercer University vs. Millsaps College.

Georgetown College vs. Newberry College.

Chattanooga—bye.

Furman—bye.

CRACKERS TO TRAIN AT GRIFFIN

Griffin, an enterprising little metropolis, 40 miles south of here, will be the training site of the Crackers during the month of March, according to an announcement made here by President Corbett.

A group of Griffin business men were in conference with Corbett Thursday in regard to establishing training quarters there and Friday morning the Griffin Chamber of Commerce definitely accepted his proposition.

The first group of the advance guard will report to Manager Bert Niehoff on Monday, March 3. This squad will compose only the batterymen, while the remainder of the team will arrive March 10, one week later. Approximately 30 men will be in camp.

The squad will remain there until March 29, when they will come back to Atlanta to open up the schedule of exhibition games booked for Spillers' field. They will be kept busy then until the season gets under way, April 12.

Corbett also announced that Jay Propst, a first baseman, and Al Means, a pitcher, had been given their release. These players were signed early in the winter, and have never appeared before the fans.

Propst wired Corbett that he would be unable to report on time and as Art Mueller, a first sacker, was signed last week by Niehoff, Corbett wired him not to report. Means, a right-hand twirler, is said to be a spit-ball artist and for this reason was given the gate.

Berlenbach To Fight Thursday

New York, February 22.—Madison Square Garden, prevented from staging a scheduled boxing show next Monday night because of suspension imposed by the state athletic commission as a result of the recent Marks-Villa flyweight title fiasco, will resume fistic activities with two 12-round feature matches next Thursday night.

Paul Berlenbach, sensational New York middleweight, who has piled up a record of twenty-four consecutive knockouts, will attempt to increase this string when he opposes Young Fisher, veteran Syracuse boxer. A. D. Stone, Philadelphia's "fighting marine," will meet Dave McGill, Irish light-heavyweight champion, in the other main attraction.

Curtis Is Manager.

Martinsburg, W. Va., February 22. Peter Curtis, of Philadelphia, today signed a contract to manage the Martinsburg club of the Blue Ridge Baseball league next season. Curtis has managed teams in Atlantic City, Jersey City, Washington, Des Moines and Birmingham. For four years he was athletic director of St. Johns college, New York.

Bluebird Five Is Winner Over Commercial, While Griffin Bows to Riverside Quintet

BY PAUL WARWICK.

Griffin, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Riverside and the University School for Boys will indulge in the age-old pastime of fighting it out on Griffin's court Saturday night, the result of this particular outbreak of hostilities to decide the basketball championship of the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic association.

Friday was another day fraught with excitement, most of the hair-raising impulses arising from the last game of the moonlit evening, when the Cadets from Sandy Beavers' Castle on the Chattahoochee, up Gainsville way came back with a rush in the last half of their game with Griffin High and humbled the scrappy and mighty well-teamed-up home boys by the score of 29 to 23. This was the feature of the day. No doubt about that.

The Bluebirds had no difficulty in disposing of Commercial High, another entrant flying the standard of Five Points and contiguous junctions, it looked seriously like a walk-away par excellence in the first half, but the calculators from Commercial snapped out of their lethargy in the second half and made things a wee bit interesting, although they never got close enough to University to cause those huskies much embarrassment or prevent them from giving their whole outfit of substitutes some merry exercise before the game was done.

To Be Close Game.

So there you are, Riverside and University will fight it out and there's a whole passel of indications that it will be a fight to what is popularly known as a finish, and ere they decide who is the better, Griffin and Commercial will lambast each other for the full forty minutes to determine who is entitled to wear the laurels and other regalia of the third place victor. While there is not a great deal of distinction to be drawn between the two finalists it appears that Griffin should have no difficulty with the Commercialists.

Having slung forth the most glaring surprise of the fourney by greasing the skids on which Tech High slid bravely out of the running, University has a mental advantage over Riverside. Therefore, it may be that Atlanta will get the handsome Griffin cup in exchange for the Atlanta Crackers whose imminent advent to the Spalding capital is providing no end of satisfied conversation.

On the other hand, if Coach Cunningham gets his lads off between the halves and slips them this inspiring line he evidently has and they react to it as they have on two past occasions, there will be a different story to tell and Gainesville will have the Griffin cup, as Griffin's good will offering, since they defeated the Hall Countians in their bid for the spring home of Corbett and Niehoff, inc.

Bluebirds Win.

The first absolute runaway of the tourney came in the fracas between the University School for Boys and Commercial High, two Atlanta entrants, when the Bluebirds toppled their co-citizens by a 44 to 22 score.

Broadnax and Medlin were the outstanding stars for the Bluebirds. The former by dint of his wonderful floor work, Medlin by his uncanny accuracy, which gave him a total of nine field goals.

Hartman scored eleven of Commercial's points, playing by far the best brand of ball offered by his crew. Wilensky, at guard, also played well for the losers.

The first half had half-way absented itself before it became evident that Commercial was going to make a runaway job of the session. The intermission pistol was fired when the count was 21 to 4 in the Bluebirds' favor.

Medlin began his career of Commercial devastation in this period by racking up six successive field goals.

The Commercial points, like commercial points in a crap game, were few and far between in this chupper.

Hartman scoring three out of the half total of four.

The second half saw better play, but despite the Bluebirds' injection of a quantity of subs, the Commercial crowd was never able to get in hailing distance of the flying Birds.

University displayed a smooth-working organization, in which perfect co-ordination and good passing were predominant features.

The Line-up and Summary.

U. S. B. (44)		C. H. (2)
Freeman (6)	r. f.	Hartman (11)
Medlin (18)	l. f.	Guthis (2)
Wilder (10)	c.	Rudderman (7)
Broadnax (4)	r. g.	Wilensky (2)
Jacobson (2)	l. g.	Horwitz (0)

Substitutions: University, Beazley (2) for Wilder; Hornsby for Broadnax; Speaks (2) for Freeman. Score at end of first half, U. S. B., 23; Commercial, 4. Referee, Matheny (Atlanta) Y. M. C. A.. Umpire, Holt (Atlanta.)

Griffin Loses.

While there is great disappointment among the local citizens over their team's failure to place in the finals, the enthusiasm over the tournament has not abated one whit and for the fourth consecutive evening the athletic arena will be packed to its raftered gills with as much of the Griffin and adjacent population as can crowd into it.

For even if Griffin did go down, they went down gloriously and showed a form and spirit that augurs extremely well for the athletic future of the high school in this city. It is not amiss to predict that few moons will sort of wax and kind of wane before that trophy takes a year's vacation in its own home town.

Just as Medlin and Broadnax shone for their blinding brilliance in the University's struggle with Commercial, so did Riddle, for the Cadets, and Brewer, for the losers, stand out from among the participants in the second hair-raising struggle.

When the teams turned at the half, Griffin was leading 15 to 10. Brewer and Kirkland had done admirable work. Especial comment should be shouted with regard to Brewer. Lanky and lithe, one of the classiest pieces of playing plunder who has exhibited in the present cage epidemic, he handles the ball with the ease and facility of a potter thumping his clay and has an ingrown aptitude for sinking his loops.

Riddle, of Riverside, is another who plays with unbeatable fervor and handles himself with smoothness and dispatch. He will provide trouble for Medlin and Broadnax Saturday night. Broadnax, by the way, looks much like a vest pocket edition of that Mississippi Perkins lad. Although he isn't so successful with his shots, he is always the prime factor in University's approach to striking distance.

Line-up and Summary.

RIV. (29)		GRIFFIN (23)

A NATIONALLY known educational institution, 20 years old, rated AAA-1, has an opening for a district manager to take charge of its established Cleveland office—a position which has been paying and should pay not less than $10,000 a year.

CONSIDERATION can be given only to a man who has had thorough and extensive experience in selling correspondence courses, who is competent to train a force of men to work under him, and who is able to finance himself for a moderate period, as only commission basis of payment is used.

SUCCESSFUL applicant will be trained at our expense, first in our Atlanta office, then in a district office in the city of the size of Chattanooga, and finally in Chattanooga by a competent field trainer. Production of new business in Chattanooga and collections on it will therefore begin immediately.

GIVE in confidence your age, education, experience in detail, and phone number in your letter of application. P-160, Constitution.

WE have something new to offer a few first-class insurance salesmen; this is a big proposition for a high-grade salesman, and unless you can produce, do not waste your time by calling. If you are interested and can fill the above requirement, apply between 8 and 9 a. m. to B. M. Butler or A. C. Tommey, Room No. 203, Constitution Building.

Dartmouth Has Job for Trotsky On Its Faculty

Chicago, February 22.—Dartmouth college, founded in 1769 by Eleazar Wheelock, and aided by the good offices of Franklin and John Adams, has an opening on its faculty, according to its president, for Leon Trotsky.

President Ernest Martin Hopkins, addressing the national Dartmouth pow wow here today, said "a man wrote to me protesting against a proposed appointment to the faculty, contending I might as well bring in Lenine or Trotsky as the instructor in question. I replied that if Lenine and Trotsky were available I certainly would bring them in."

Dr. Hopkins was interrupted by applause. The gathering included clergymen, jurists and executives of large corporations.

"I know no man and no interest I would not present if it would stir up the mind of the undergraduate," he added, explaining that open-mindedness, the ability to think, and the formation of personal convictions that had stood the test of challenge were, he believed, among the most cherished aims of the liberal college and the greatest need of the hour. The combined opinion of the alumni, he asserted, would be as nothing compared to the interests of the student.

BROKER ENDS LIFE IN DESPONDENT FIT

New York, February 22.—Frederick Pulsifer, 63, of the brokerage firm of Clark, Childs & Co., ended his life today in his apartment by inhaling gas. Ill health was given as the cause by his friends who said his financial affairs were in good condition.

Mr. Pulsifer was born in Chicago and married Miss Emily Cook, of that city. She died four years ago.

He returned last week from a sanitarium to which he had been ordered by Dr. Horace Ayers, who said Mr. Pulsifer had been affected by nervous prostration for a year. Thursday evening he visited the apartment of his mother, Mrs. Marion Pulsifer, 85, who had been suffering from a fractured thigh. He had called on her friends said, to "cheer her up."

G. M. A. FIGHTS WAY TO SEMI FINALS

11 to 2 point lead in the second semester. Again the Dadeville clan rallied and was within three points of Simpson again during the second period.

C. Byrd and C. Vincent maintained their effectiveness in the last period, the former running his total for the game to seventeen points, while the latter ran close behind with a total of sixteen.

Ferguson played a star role as guardian of the baskets. For the losers, O'Brien accumulated twelve counters and Watson at center found the baskets for fifteen points. Simpson will play the winner of the Montgomery Bell-Chambers County High in the semifinals Saturday afternoon in their third effort toward the championship goal.

MONTGOMERY-BELL FIVE IS ELIMINATED.

Auburn, Ala., February 22.—(Special.)—The second game of Friday afternoon session in which Chambers County High won over Montgomery-Bell academy by a score of 37 to 28, proved to be one of the most thrilling contests yet staged in the Cotton States competition.

Forecasters had hesitated to predict a winner but Montgomery-Bell was adjudged to hold a slight margin over the Millitown team. With the Brewster-Phillips-Richards combination hitting the baskets in rapid fire style the Nashville team was unable to stem the tide.

Reed and Hardin who featured the Tennesseans' play Thursday, came back strong today and were very effective against the winners. Chambers will play Simpson in the semi-finals.

The Lineup.

LEE COUNTY HI WINS OVER LEEDS.

The Lee County Hi team came from behind and won over Leeds by a score of 25 to 23. The score was the closest throughout and the play was the fastest of any game yet played.

The passing and pivoting of the Lee Countians featured throughout the contest. At the end of the first period the score stood: Leeds 14, Lee County 9. Both teams displayed a quick forming defense of the five-man type, and long shots were resorted to by both outfits. On the long shots E. James, of Auburn Hi, seemed to lead, while Captain Aders, of Leeds, completed three spectacular plays from near midcourt.

KLAN NOT IN POLITICS, DECLARES DR. EVANS

Dallas, Texas, February 22.—Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, Friday defended the policies of the hooded organization against attacks of critics, who have charged that it has become a purely political order.

"The Ku Klux Klan is not now and does not contemplate going into politics," Dr. Evans said. "Patriotism is the dominating note of the order.

"Of course, where an individual or organization conducts a political fight on the klan, we fight back and without exception break that man or organization."

Evans upheld all candidates in the gubernatorial race in Texas, and pointed out that the klan supported Fuqua for governor in Louisiana, although he was not a klansman.

French Solons Urged To Vote Instead of Talk

Paris, February 22.—Parliament has been asked to cut short debate on Premier Poincare's taxation plans and to take an early vote on the premier's program. The request is contained in open letter from the general confederation of French production, representing scores of industries and federations of business men, to all the senators and deputies. The letter says the fall in the value of the franc has revealed the peril of continuing with an unbalanced budget, and that as faulty and incomplete as the proposed measures of the premier are, the chief need is immediate action. Parliament is reminded that since business must bear the burden it ought to be listened to.

G. O. P. Insurgents To Hold Love Feast And Protest Meeting

Chicago, February 22.—A protest meeting in which republican insurgents, senators and representatives at Washington will speak on the oil investigation and other administration affairs is scheduled here some time next month, following action taken today at the Illinois state conference for progressive political action.

A committee appointed today will go to Washington with invitations to Senators Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, and Representative John M. Nelson, of Wisconsin, to address the meeting, the date to be fixed at their convenience.

It was said at today's meeting the scheduled gathering will be a rally of insurgent forces for the coming primaries and election as well as a "protest" meeting.

CHATTANOOGA MAN HEADS ICE EXCHANGE

Birmingham, Ala., February 22.—F. O. Rettig, of Chattanooga, was chosen president of the Southern Ice Exchange at the closing session today. Other officers elected are: Lee Elder, of Biloxi, Miss., vice president, and R. W. Barnes, of Chattanooga, secretary-treasurer. The executive committee will decide the place of holding the next convention. Asheville, N. C., is an active bidder.

2,000 LOOMS STOPPED BY DANVILLE COMPANY

Danville, Va., February 22.—The demoralized condition of the cotton goods market resulted in the shutting down today of two thousand looms of the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills, Inc., the order throwing between 500 and 600 operatives out of employment.

At the company offices it was stated that this was a continuation of the policy of curtailment and that it was not possible to say how long the present condition would remain. The mills, employing nearly 6,000 workers, have been running full time since Christmas.

JAP PRINCE NAMED NAVAL COMMANDER

Tokio, February 5.—(By Mail to the Associated Press.)—A prince of the imperial blood has been appointed to high naval command, it is disclosed by a recent naval announcement.

Admiral Prince Hiroyasu Fushimi, head of the senior collateral branch of the imperial family, is named commander of the Sasebo naval base. Prince Fushimi has risen through actual service in the navy, having been wounded in the battle of the Sea of Japan in 1905 when serving aboard Admiral Togo's flagship, the Mikasa.

JAP ROYAL COUPLE ON WEDDING TOUR

Tokio, February 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Prince-Regent Hirohito and his bride left Tokio today for a week's wedding tour. They will visit the national shrine and imperial tombs, and, according to the ancient Japanese custom, formally report their wedding to the spirits of their ancestors. They will return to the capital February 29.

The route over which the royal couple motored from the palace to the station was guarded by 6,000 police.

Numazu, where the couple will stay tonight, was visited yesterday by a disastrous fire which destroyed 200 houses. The Numazu palace, however, was unharmed.

RARE COLLECTION OF MANUSCRIPTS DAMAGED IN FIRE

Perth Amboy, N. J., February 22. A rare collection of books and manuscripts, including letters of George Washington, Aaron Burr and Benjamin Franklin, gathered for the past thirty years by Recorder Harold E. Pickersgill, was damaged here today when fire swept through the Dana building, causing losses estimated at $100,000. Mr. Pickersgill is proprietor of The Mosquito, a weekly publication.

BUTLER IS SAVING HIS BOMBSHELLS FOR PHILADELPHIA

Chattanooga, Tenn., February 22.—The underground world of Philadelphia put its ear to the ground when Brigadier General Smedley Butler, public safety director, said, "it will be different from now on," and his orders were respected and obeyed.

Quite naturally a rumor that he would "spring a bomb shell" upon his arrival here, preceded him.

"I'm saving my bombs for Philadelphia," the fighting "devil-dog" commander said, laughingly when told of the report. He was on the program at the dedication of Chattanooga's new memorial auditorium Friday.

BUSINESS CLUB WILL MAINTAIN FREE EYE CLINIC

Atlanta's first free eye clinic for poor school children was presented formally to the city at the Friday luncheon of the American Business club in the Peacock cafe. President Russell Baker made the presentation on behalf of the club, which is to maintain the clinic. Mayor Walter Sims, for the city, and President John T. Hancock, of the board of education, for the schools, accepted the clinic.

The clinic will open Monday at 23 East Cain street. Eye deficiencies will be treated in all pupils recommended by the public health nurses and physicians.
